Rocky Mountain Rendezvous Fred R. Gowans,2005 An excellent guide for mountain man enthusiasts and an intriguing exploration of the West Rocky Mountain Rendezvous focuses on the fur trading rendezvous that took place from 1825 1840 in the Central Rocky Mountains Originally commercial gatherings where furs were traded for necessities such as traps guns horses and other supplies they evolved into rich social events that were pivotal in shaping the early American West Carefully crafted and compiled from primary sources Rocky Mountain Rendezvous includes fascinating text by Gowans accompanied by firsthand accounts of 16 rendezvous from scientists artists military personnel government explorers and missionaries Their diaries journals narratives and books along with Gowan s careful research are illustrated with photographs and drawings Maps pinpoint the location of each rendezvous and photos depict the site today Rocky Mountain Rendezvous Fred R. Ashley William H. Ashley,2017-05 William H Ashley with his partner Andrew Henry owned a fur trading company based in Saint Louis Missouri Prior to the period covered by these papers he had lost a fortune in an ill fated attempt to establish a trapping business on the upper Missouri river His new plan was trap the region to the south just over the divide The previous year an Ashley Henry party led by Jedediah Smith had crossed the continental divide at what came to be known as South Pass and found the valley of the Green river to be rich with beaver Consequently the remainder of Ashley s fur company left St Louis and made their way up the Platte Ashley left two documents describing the events of 1825 One is what appears to be his field diary containing daily entries The other is a letter to Gen Atkinson written after Ashley s return that fall and contains a narrative of his 1825 season in the Rockies These two documents are mostly consistent although the narrative appears to have been written from memory because in some cases details are different from those recorded in the contemporaneous diary The diary was kept from March 25 to June 27 1825 The diary commences on the Platte just east of the continental divide It describes the journey to the Green River and the division of the trapping party there It also details Ashley s trip down the Green River in bullboats and ends just a few days before Ashley s parties met on the Henry s Fork for the first Rocky Mountain Rendezvous The narrative covers a longer period of time from the time he left Ft Atkinson on November 3 1824 until he reached the Yellowstone below Big Horn Mountain on the 7th day of August 1825 From there he proceeded downriver in boats with his rich cargo of furs to the settlements

1825 Fur Trade Rendezvous JACK. MITCH,Gerry Messmer,Scott Staggs,2025-04-07 An incredible journey of perseverance and history to recreate a 2000 mile trek by General William Henry Ashley and his men from the first Fur Trade Rendezvous of 1825 from southwest Wyoming to St Louis MO These three men replicated this incredible feat of stamina using only what Gen Ashley and his men would have had with them They traveled 700 miles on horseback 400 by bull boat and 900 on the flooded Missouri River using a recreated one third scale keelboat called the Muskrat The authors of the book have dedicated a majority of their lives to living history and developing the skills of the mountain men to be able to undertake such a massive and unsupported undertaking All of them have many years in the woods and wilds of the United States putting into practice and preserving the skills of the Mountain Men of the 1830s that they emulate The Ashley s Return Facebook page can be found at <https://www.facebook.com/groups/254391438581520>
