Cultivating Victory Cecilia Gowdy-Wygant,2013-04-20 During the First and Second World Wars food shortages reached critical levels in the Allied nations The situation in England which relied heavily on imports and faced German naval blockades was particularly dire Government campaigns were introduced in both Britain and the United States to recruit individuals to work on rural farms and to raise gardens in urban areas These recruits were primarily women who readily volunteered in what came to be known as Women s Land Armies Stirred by national propaganda campaigns and a sense of adventure these women eager to help in any way possible worked tirelessly to help their nations grow victory gardens to win the war against hunger and fascism In vacant lots parks backyards between row houses in flowerboxes and on farms groups of primarily urban middle class women cultivated vegetables along with a sense of personal pride and achievement In Cultivating Victory Cecilia Gowdy Wygant presents a compelling study of the sea change brought about in politics society and gender roles by these wartime campaigns As she demonstrates the seeds of this transformation were sown years before the First World War by women suffragists and international women s organizations Gowdy Wygant profiles the foundational organizations and significant individuals in Britain and America such as Lady Gertrude Denman and Harriet Stanton Blatch who directed the Women s Land Armies and fought to leverage the wartime efforts of women to eventually win voting rights and garner new positions in the workforce and politics In her original transnational history Gowdy Wygant compares and contrasts the outcomes of war in both nations as seen through changing gender roles and women s ties to labor agriculture the home and the environment She sheds new light on the cultural legacies left by the Women s Land Armies and their major role in shaping national and personal identities
