Human and natural resources are thus both determining factors in economic development.

Ciriacy-Wantrup, 2019-04-09 This volume was assembled by two of Dr Wantrup's students as a complement to his textbook Resource Conservation Economics and Policies Wantrup's ideas on conservation economics continued to evolve in ways that were never fully reflected in that text and although for the student of natural resource economics it is still essential reading to st Resources and Development Peter Dorner, Mahmoud A. Shafie, 1980 Natural Resources, Growth, and Development Clement A. Tisdell, 1990-09-18 This volume combines economics and ecology in a penetrating examination of the natural resources and environmental issues arising from economic growth development and change The author focuses particular attention on the environmental consequences of economic change and argues that the management and conservation of biological resources is a requirement for sustainable economic growth By setting traditional economic issues within their wider environmental context and covering issues not ordinarily addressed by economists Tisdell offers an important new perspective on the problem of resource scarcity He examines the two conflicting viewpoints on the magnitude of the problem those who argue that technological progress will make scarcity of natural resources less important and those who argue that economic growth can only be expected to intensify scarcity suggesting a reasonable course of action that will allow acceptable levels of economic growth while protecting important natural resources Tisdell s work will be useful both as a supplementary text for courses in development or environmental economics and as recommended reading in biology environmental studies and ecology programs Following an introduction which covers basic issues in resource scarcity along with growth and development the author addresses the major economic ethical and ecological issues involved in the conservation of biological resources He goes on to examine concepts and changing views of sustainable economic growth production and development Subsequent chapters explore such topics as conservation in less developed countries and the economic pressures that hinder conservation efforts differing views on depletable resources as limits to growth rural urban migration and its effects on labor allocation and foreign assistance to resource poor developing countries A case study of wildlife on New Zealand s Otago Peninsula is particularly useful in illustrating the economics of biological conservation Throughout Tisdell concentrates on providing a reasoned balanced assessment of the impact of economic growth and change on the natural environment that will be an important resource for proponents on both sides of the environment versus development debate Natural Resources and Economic Growth Thorvaldur Gylfason, 1999 The paper begins by offering a quick glance of the Nordic economies and of some aspects of their economic growth performance and natural resource dependence since 1970 Thereafter it reviews some of the main symptoms of the Dutch disease and then considers whether these symptoms are observable in some of the Nordic countries in view of their abundant natural resources The experience of Iceland and its fish seems an obvious point of departure The paper then discusses the less obvious case of Norway and its oil and fish and at last also reviews some possible linkages between forest resources and economic growth in Finland Publisher description Resources and Development Wisconsin Seminar on Natural Resource Policies Sta, 1980-01-01 DAC Guidelines and Reference Series Natural Resources and Pro-Poor Growth The Economics and Politics OECD, 2009-01-27 Natural capital constitutes a quarter of total wealth in low income countries This publication demonstrates that natural resources can contribute to growth employment exports and fiscal revenues and highlights the importance of policies encouraging the sustainable management of these resources Natural Resources Jeanette B. Pauling, 2009 Natural resources are naturally occurring substances that are considered valuable in their relatively unmodified natural form A natural resource's value rests in the amount of the material available and the demand for it There are 2 types of natural resources renewable and non renewable Natural Resources include soil timber oil minerals and other goods taken more or less from the Earth Both extraction of the basic resource and refining it into a purer directly usable form e g metals refined oils are generally considered natural resource activities even though the latter may not necessarily occur near the former A nation's natural resources often determine its wealth in the world economic system In recent years the depletion of natural capital and attempts to move to sustainable development have been a major focus of development agencies This is of particular concern in rainforest regions which hold most of the Earth's natural biodiversity irreplaceable genetic natural capital Conservation of natural resources is the major focus of natural capitalism environmentalism the ecology movement and Green Parties Some view this depletion as a major source of social unrest and conflicts in developing nations This book gathers and presents important research in the field
