Sengupta, D. Ali, 2011-05-09 This volume seeks to revise the Saidian analytical framework which dominated research on the subject of colonial knowledge for almost two decades which emphasized colonial knowledge as a series of representations of colonial hegemony It seeks to contribute to research in the field by analyzing knowledge in colonial India as a dynamic process Exhibiting the Empire John McAleer, John M. MacKenzie, 2017-03-01 Exhibiting the empire considers how a whole range of cultural products from paintings prints photographs panoramas and popular texts to ephemera newspapers and the press theatre and music exhibitions institutions and architecture were used to record celebrate and question the development of the British Empire It represents a significant and original contribution to our understanding of the relationship between culture and empire Written by leading scholars from a range of disciplinary backgrounds individual chapters bring fresh perspectives to the interpretation of media material culture and display and their interaction with history Taken together this collection suggests that the history of empire needs to be in part at least a history of display and of reception This book will be essential reading for scholars and students interested in British history the history of empire art history and the history of museums and collecting Training Laborers for His Harvest Baiyu Andrew Song, 2015-04-01 In this project Baiyu Andrew Song explores the mentorship of China's first ordained indigenous evangelist Liang Fa 1789 1855 by Scottish Presbyterian missionary William Milne 1785 1822 in the early nineteenth century The biblically and contextually informed model of mentorship Milne employed is examined in detail which is placed in the historical setting of Milne and Liang's time This project is particularly important in that it pioneers historical study in the area of the early protestant church history in China specifically in regard to William Milne Islands and the British Empire in the Age of Sail Douglas Hamilton, John McAleer, 2021-06-17 Islands are not just geographical units or physical facts their importance and significance arise from the human activities associated with them The maritime routes of sailing ships the victualling requirements of their sailors and the strategic demands of seaborne empires in the age of sail as well as their intrinsic value as sources of rare commodities meant that islands across the globe played prominent parts in imperial consolidation and expansion This volume examines the various ways in which islands and groups of islands contributed to the establishment extension and maintenance of the British Empire in the age of sail Thematically related chapters explore the geographical topographical economic and social diversity of the islands that comprised a large component of the British Empire in an era of rapid and significant expansion Although many of these islands were isolated rocky outcrops they acted as crucial nodal points providing critical assistance for ships and men embarked on the long distance voyages that characterised British overseas activities in the period Intercontinental maritime trade colonial settlement and scientific exploration and experimentation would have been impossible without these oceanic islands They also acted as sites of strategic competition contestation and conflict for rival European powers keen to outstrip each other in developing and maintaining overseas markets plantations and settlements The importance of islands outstripped their physical size the populations they sustained or their individual economic contribution to the imperial balance sheet Standing at the centre of maritime routes of global connectivity islands offer historians of the British Empire fresh perspectives on the intercontinental communication commercial connections and territorial expansion that characterised that empire
