How did intricately detailed sixteenth century maps reveal the start of the Atlantic World Beginning around 1500 in the decades following Columbus's voyages the Atlantic Ocean moved from the periphery to the center on European world maps This brief but highly significant moment in early modern European history marks not only a paradigm shift in how the world was mapped but also the opening of what historians call the Atlantic World But how did sixteenth century chartmakers and mapmakers begin to conceptualize and present to the public an interconnected Atlantic World that was open and navigable in comparison to the mysterious ocean that had blocked off the Western hemisphere before Columbus's exploration In Mapping an Atlantic World circa 1500 Alida C Metcalf argues that the earliest surviving maps from this era which depict trade colonization evangelism and the movement of peoples reveal powerful and persuasive arguments about the possibility of an interconnected Atlantic World Blending scholarship from two fields historical cartography and Atlantic history Metcalf explains why Renaissance cosmographers first incorporated sailing charts into their maps and began to reject classical models for mapping the world Combined with the new placement of the Atlantic the visual imagery on Atlantic maps which featured decorative compass roses animals landscapes and native peoples communicated the accessibility of distant places with valuable commodities Even though individual maps became outdated quickly Metcalf reveals new mapmakers copied their imagery which then repeated on map after map Individual maps might fall out of date be lost discarded or forgotten but their geographic and visual design promoted a new way of seeing the world with an interconnected Atlantic World at its center Describing the negotiation that took place between a small cadre of explorers and a wider class of cartographers chartmakers cosmographers and artists Metcalf shows how exploration informed mapmaking and vice versa Recognizing early modern cartographers as significant agents in the intellectual history of the Atlantic Mapping an Atlantic World circa 1500 includes around 50 beautiful and illuminating historical maps Henricus Martellus's World Map at Yale (c. 1491) Chet Van Duzer, 2018-08-03 This book presents groundbreaking new research on a fifteenth century world map by Henricus Martellus c 1491 now at Yale The importance of the map had long been suspected but it was essentially unstudiable because the texts on it had faded to illegibility Multispectral imaging of the map performed with NEH support in 2014 rendered its texts legible for the first time leading to renewed study of the map by the author This volume provides transcriptions translations and commentary on the Latin texts on the map particularly their sources as well as the place names in several regions This leads to a demonstration of a very close relationship between the Martellus map and Martin Waldseemüller's famous map of 1507 One of the most exciting discoveries on the map is in the hinterlands of southern Africa The information there comes from African sources the map is thus a unique and supremely important document regarding African cartography in the fifteenth century This book is essential reading for digital humanitarians and historians of cartography
