Piedras Negras Archaeology 1931-1939:

Piedras Negras Archaeology, 1931-1939 Linton Satterthwaite, Mary Butler, John Alden Mason, 2005-03-04 Situated on the banks of the Usumacinta River in northwestern Guatemala Piedras Negras is an important Maya site known for its carved monuments and panels Between 1931 and 1938 the University Museum conducted research at Piedras Negras excavating the site core producing an excellent site map and documenting architectural developments to an unprecedented standard Project member Tatiana Proskouriakoff revolutionized Maya historiography with her architectural reconstructions and visionary synthesis of the position and dating of texts and monuments at the site Innovative excavation methods included test pitting probing in more modest structures and the identification of new building types such as sweat baths More importantly the Piedras Negras project developed the logistical and methodological criteria that are now standard in the field Fewer than a dozen copies of the preliminary papers were issued between 1933 and 1936 the later descriptive and interpretive essays of the architecture series have likewise become rare Piedras Negras Archaeology 1931-1939 reintroduces to the scholarly community and public these pioneering works meticulously scanned and edited from the fragile originals with all the maps tables line art and photographs from the initial reports and an interpretive essay and index for modern readers University Museum Monograph 122 Engaging Ancient Maya Sculpture at Piedras Negras, Guatemala Megan E. O'Neil, 2014-02-25 Now shrouded in Guatemalan jungle the ancient Maya city of Piedras Negras flourished between the sixth and ninth centuries when its rulers erected monumental limestone sculptures carved with hieroglyphic texts and images of themselves and family members advisers and captives In Engaging Ancient Maya Sculpture at Piedras Negras Guatemala Megan E O Neil offers new ways to understand these stelae altars and panels by exploring how ancient Maya people interacted with them These monuments considered sacred were one of the community's important forms of cultural and religious expression Stelae may have held the essence of rulers they commemorated and the objects remained loci for reverence of those rulers after they died Using a variety of evidence O Neil examines how the forms compositions and contexts of the sculptures invited people to engage with them and the figures they embodied looks at these monuments not as inert bearers of images but as palpable presences that existed in real space at specific historical moments Her analysis brings to the fore the material and affective force of these powerful objects that were seen touched and manipulated in the past O Neil investigates the monuments not only at the moment of their creation but also in later years and shows how they changed over time She argues that the relationships among sculptures of different generations were performed in processions through which ancient Maya people integrated historical dialogues and ancestral commemoration into the landscape With the help of more than 160 illustrations O Neil reveals these sculptures continuing life histories which in the past century have included their fragmentation and transformation into commodities sold on the international art market Shedding light on modern day transposition and display of these ancient monuments O Neil's study contributes to ongoing discussions of cultural patrimony

Tikal David L. Lentz, Nicholas P. Dunning, Vernon L. Scarborough, 2015-02-23 The primary theoretical question addressed in this book focuses on the lingering concern of how the ancient Maya in the northern Pet n Basin were able to sustain large populations in the midst of a tropical forest environment during the Late Classic period This book asks how agricultural intensification was achieved and how essential resources such as water and forest products were managed in both upland areas and seasonal wetlands or bajos All of these activities were essential components of an initially sustainable land use strategy that eventually failed to meet the demands of an escalating population This spiraling disconnect with sound ecological principles undoubtedly contributed to the Maya collapse The book s findings provide insights that broaden the understanding of the rise of social complexity the expansion of the political economy specifically and in general terms the trajectory of cultural evolution of the ancient Maya civilization

Ritual, Violence, and the Fall of the Classic Maya Kings Gyles Iannone, Brett A. Houk, Sonja A. Archaeology's Visual Culture Roger Balm, 2015-12-14 Archaeology s Visual Culture

explores archaeology through the lens of visual culture theory The insistent visibility of archaeology is a key stimulus for the imaginative and creative interpretation of our encounters with the past Balm investigates the nature of this projection of the visual revealing an embedded subjectivity in the imagery of archaeology and acknowledging the multiplicity of meanings that cohere around artifacts archaeological sites and museum displays Using a wide range of case studies the book highlights how archaeologists can view objects and the consequences that ensue from these ways of seeing Throughout the book Balm considers the potential for documentary images and visual material held in archives to perform cultural work within and between groups of specialists With primary sources ranging from the mid nineteenth to the early twenty first century this volume also maps the intellectual and social connections between archaeologists and their peers Geographical settings include Britain Cyprus Mesoamerica the Middle East and the United States and the sites of visual encounter are no less diverse ranging from excavation reports in salvage archaeology to instrumentally derived data sets and remote sensing imagery By forensically examining selected visual records from published accounts and archival sources enduring tropes of representation become apparent that transcend issues of style and reflect fundamental visual sensibilities within the discipline of archaeology

The Monuments of Piedras Negras, an Ancient Maya City Flora S. Clancy, 2009-03-15

Patronized by royalty between the sixth and eighth centuries the monuments of Guatemala's ancient Maya city of Piedras Negras were carved by sculptors with remarkable skills and virtuosity Together patrons and sculptors created monumental imagery in a manner unique within the larger history of ancient Maya art by engaging public viewers through illustrations of ceremonies focusing on family and the feminine in royal agendas Flora Clancy's introduction contextualizes her work with other studies and lays out her methodological framework She then discusses the known monuments of the city sequentially by reigns Individual rulers are characterized by a biography drawn from the hieroglyphic texts and the icons or imagery of their monuments are analyzed and discussed Although the monuments of Piedras Negras are acknowledged as social political and cultural productions Clancy also treats them as works of art that at their best operate on transcendent levels dissolving and overruling the contingencies of history and cultural differences

Scherer, Thomas G. Garrison, 2024-12-01 Substance of the Ancient Maya Kingdoms and Communities Objects and Beings collects twelve essays by top scholars that highlight what is new in research pertaining to the ancient Maya Subjects range from updated political histories of major kingdoms in the southern Maya Lowlands to explorations of the nature of Maya writing and materiality These essays were inspired by the scholarship of Stephen Houston and celebrate his transdisciplinary commitment to research in anthropological archaeology epigraphy and art history The contributions in this volume are organized into two sections that respectively reflect different scales from which to approach the substance of the ancient Maya from hand held objects to entire kingdoms This dichotomy reflects the breadth of questions central to current research on the Maya It also illustrates how certain themes such as the relationship between the living and the realm of the supernatural are fundamental to both thinking by and about the Maya at all scales A diversity of methods is not only embodied by this assemblage of essays but is also spread equally across the two sections of the book illustrating that archaeologists epigraphers geographers and art historians can equally contribute to the substance of kingdoms and communities as they can to objects and beings Collectively these contributions show how the objects and beings that composed the Classic Maya world were both literal and sacred substances that mediated relations not only among living people but with gods and ancestors A final chapter by Stephen Houston reflects on unfinished projects of the ancient Maya as a metaphor for all of the work yet to be done to move forward in our studies of the past Re-Presenting the Past Sheila Bonde, Stephen Houston, 2013-07-01 The archaeological past exists for us through intermediaries Some are written works descriptions narratives and field notes while others are visual the drawings paintings photographs powerpoints or computer visualizations that allow us to re present past forms of human existence This volume brings together nine papers six of which were presented at a symposium hosted at

Brown University Two papers explore the classical past and medieval visualizations Three treat the Maya and one considers the imaging by eighteenth century antiquarians of British history yet another ranges broadly in its historical considerations Several consider the trajectory over time of visualization and self imaging Others engage with issues of recording by looking for example at the ways in which nineteenth century excavation photographs can aid in the reconstruction of an inscription or by evaluating the process of mapping a site with ArcGIS and computer animation software All essays raise key questions about the function of re presentations of the past in current archaeological practice

A Maya Universe in Stone Stephen Houston, 2021-12-28 The first study devoted to a single sculptor in ancient America as understood through four unprovenanced masterworks traced to a small sector of Guatemala In 1950 Dana Lamb an explorer of some notoriety stumbled on a Maya ruin in the tropical forests of northern Guatemala Lamb failed to record the location of the site he called Laxtunich turning his find into the mystery at the center of this book The lintels he discovered there long since looted are probably of a set with two others that are among the masterworks of Maya sculpture from the Classic period Using fieldwork physical evidence and Lamb s expedition notes the authors identify a small area with archaeological sites where the carvings were likely produced Remarkably the vividly colored lintels replete with dynastic and cosmic information can be assigned to a carver Mayuy who sculpted his name on two of them To an extent nearly unique in ancient America Mayuy can be studied over time as his style developed and his artistic ambition grew An in depth analysis of Laxtunich Lintel 1 examines how Mayuy grafted celestial seasonal and divine identities onto a local magnate and his overlord from the kingdom of Yaxchilan Mexico This volume contextualizes the lintels and points the way to their reprovancing and as an ultimate aim repatriation to Guatemala

Cultural Negotiations David L. Browman, 2020-02-17 This meticulously researched reference work documents the role of women who contributed to the development of Americanist archaeology from 1865 to 1940 Between the Civil War and World War II many women went into anthropology and archaeology fields that at the beginning of this period welcomed and made room for amateurs of both genders But over time the increasingly professional structure of these fields diminished or even obscured the contributions of women due to their lack of access to prestigious academic employment and publishing opportunities As a result a woman archaeologist during this period often published her research under her husband s name or as a junior author with her husband In Cultural Negotiations archaeologist David L Browman has scoured the archaeological literature and archival records of several institutions to bring the stories of more than two hundred women in Americanist archaeology to light through detailed biographies that discuss their contributions and publications This work highlights how the social and cultural construction of archaeology as a field marginalized women and will serve as an invaluable reference to those researchers who continue to uncover the history of women in the sciences
