Innate and Adaptive Immunity in the Tumor Microenvironment Eitan Yefenof, 2007-12-20 Cancer cells are continuously interacting with the immune system of the host. These interactions can be regarded as a double edged sword. On the one hand innate and adaptive immune responses act to protect the host by attempting rejection of the tumor. On the other hand inflammatory cells and proteins stimulate multiplication and dissemination of cancer cells thereby accelerating the progression of the disease. Traditionally the interplay between cancer cells and host immunity has been studied systemically with no particular attention to the site at which a given tumor develops. Recent studies however indicate that the tumor microenvironment is unique in providing both supportive and inhibitory factors that determine the fate of the tumor and its host. Accordingly microenvironmental immunity that operates inside and around a tumor plays a crucial role in cancer development and progression. The aim of the present volume is to compile reviews on innate and adaptive immune responses at the tumor microenvironment with emphasis on positive and negative outcomes that affect the progression of the disease. These reviews have been solicited from experts in the field who published original research studies focusing on these issues.

The Second Life of Natural Killer (NK) Cells Chiara Romagnani, Joseph C. Sun, Marco Colonna, 2018-07-16 Natural Killer (NK) cells are innate lymphocytes now recognized as members of a larger family of Innate lymphoid cells (ILCs). Both murine and human NK cells are well characterized effector cells with cytotoxic as well as cytokine production ability which mainly react in response to microbial and cell stress stimuli thus playing a central role in the defense against pathogen infection in tumor surveillance and in regulating immune homeostasis. Despite these established concepts our understanding of the complexity of NK cells also in view of their developmental and functional relationship with other ILC subsets is only recently emerging. This Research Topic highlights the recent advances in NK cell and ILC research in human and mouse from basic research to clinical applications.

Iron Metabolism at the Crossroad of Innate Immune Response and Cancer Progression Paola Zacchi, Michaela Jung, Stefania Recalcati, 2022-02-15

Immunity to Cancer Arnold Reif, 2012-12-02 Immunity to Cancer documents the proceedings of a conference on Immunity to Cancer held at Williamsburg Virginia September 10-12, 1984. This was the first open conference since the New York Academy of Sciences meeting in 1975 that attempted to address the entire range of topics encompassed by tumor immunology and immunotherapy. The papers presented in this volume were invited from experts in diverse areas of tumor immunology and closely related subjects. There was an attempt to proceed logically from a consideration of the antigenicity of tumors and the use of monoclonal antibodies to examine specific antigens to a review of regulatory and effector mechanisms. Immunological approaches to therapy were then considered systematically both for classical modes of immunotherapy and for the newly expanded categories of biological response modifiers or biomodulators. Also included were papers on vaccination against cancer and on the analogy between the strategies for chemotherapy and immunotherapy.

NK cell modifications to advance their anti-tumor activities Ye Li, Hind Rafei, Thomas Walle, Dimitrios

Laurin Wagner, May Daher, 2023-09-08 Mechanisms of Tumor Escape from the Immune Response A Ochoa, 2002-12-12

The progressive growth of a malignant tumor is accompanied by a decline in the immune response through mechanisms that have until recently been poorly understood. The new era of biological therapies including cytokines adoptive transfer of TIL cells gene therapy and others brought forth the need to understand the impact of the tumor on the immune system. Moreover, the inability to achieve in humans the unequivocal success of immunotherapy in murine models suggests the possibility that cancer can impair the development of a therapeutic immune response. Scientific and technological advances in cellular and molecular biology during the last two decades have provided new tools with which to explore the dysfunctional immune system of patients with cancer. Novel immunology concepts have provided new insights into changes occurring in tumor cells and the immune system providing a more cohesive understanding of the process including diminished or absent expression of HLA antigens and co stimulatory molecules arrested maturation of dendritic cells alterations in expression of some signal transduction proteins increased apoptosis in T and NK cells presence of suppressor CD 4 and CD25 T cells. Mechanisms of Tumor Escape from the Immune Response provides an introduction to this rapidly developing and as yet unsettled area of cancer research and will be a valuable reference for clinicians and researchers working in the field of cancer immunotherapy.
