The Marriage Contract Honore de Balzac, 2015-12-28 CHAPTER I PRO AND CON Monsieur de Manerville the father was a worthy Norman gentleman well known to the Marechal de Richelieu who married him to one of the richest heiresses of Bordeaux in the days when the old duke reigned in Guienne as governor. The Norman then sold the estate he owned in Bessin and became a Gascon allured by the beauty of the chateau de Lanstrac a delightful residence owned by his wife. During the last days of the reign of Louis XV he bought the post of major of the Gate Guards and lived till 1813 having by great good luck escaped the dangers of the Revolution in the following manner. Toward the close of the year 1790 he went to Martinique where his wife had interests leaving the management of his property in Gascogne to an honest man a notary's clerk named Mathias who was inclined to or at any rate did give into the new ideas. On his return the Comte de Manerville found his possessions intact and well managed. This sound result was the fruit produced by grafting the Gascon on the Norman. Madame de Manerville died in 1810. Having learned the importance of worldly goods through the dissipations of his youth and giving them like many another old man a higher place than they really hold in life Monsieur de Manerville became increasingly economical miserly and sordid. Without reflecting that the avarice of parents prepares the way for the prodigalities of children he allowed almost nothing to his son although that son was an only child. Paul de Manerville coming home from the college of Vendome in 1810 lived under close paternal discipline for three years. The tyranny by which the old man of seventy oppressed his heir influenced necessarily a heart and a character which were not yet formed. Paul the son without lacking the physical courage which is vital in the air of Gascony dared not struggle against his father and consequently lost that faculty of resistance which begets moral courage. His thwarted feelings were driven to the depths of his heart where they remained without expression later when he felt them to be out of harmony with the maxims of the world he could only think rightly and act mistakenly. He was capable of fighting for a mere word or look yet he trembled at the thought of dismissing a servant his timidity showing itself in those contests only which required a persistent will. Capable of doing great things to fly from persecution he would never have prevented it by systematic opposition nor have faced it with the steady employment of force of will. Timid in thought bold in actions he long preserved that inward simplicity which makes a man the dupe and the voluntary victim of things against which certain souls hesitate to revolt preferring to endure them rather than complain. He was in point of fact imprisoned by his father's old mansion for he had not enough money to consort with young men he envied their pleasures while unable to share them.

Theodosius, or The force of love. A tragedy. In five acts ... Taken from the manager's book, at the Theatre-Royal, Drury-Lane Nathaniel Lee, 1797 Two tragedies of Mr. Lee, namely Theodosius and Oedipus, etc. [each

Nathaniel LEE, 1786 The Earl's Jilted Bride (a jealous and protective hero Regency romance) Ruth Ann Nordin, Lady Carol was supposed to marry the Duke of Augustine Then shortly before the wedding the duke committed suicide citing her for the reason he couldn't go on living anymore While there was no love lost between them her situation is not any better when her guardian threatens to send her off to a convent unless she finds someone else to marry Marriage to a gentleman she barely knows is a risky venture but with nothing to lose she accepts Lord Wright's hasty proposal Grant Carnel Lord Wright did everything he could to make everyone think he had a wonderful first marriage He did it to protect the young child that isn't really his He is determined that no one learn the truth Her life will be free from scandal With his first wife gone he is free to marry again But marriage would mean opening up old wounds that he thought he left behind The United States Catalog, 1906 A History of the New York Stage Thomas Allston Brown, 1903 The Earl's Bluestocking Bride Ruth Ann Nordin, Adam Page the Earl of Dayton spends some of his nights acting in the theatre under the alias Jefferson Crowdy He's so good at acting that a playwright wants him to take the lead role in their play If the playwright can convince him to do it then the play will gain acceptance and the playwright's writing career will take off Adam takes one read through the play and refuses to do it The very playwright he has insulted has an alias as well and she happens to be the lady he's very much attracted to Citizen-Saints Julia Reinhard Lupton, 2014-02-11 Turning to the potent idea of political theology to recover the strange mix of political and religious thinking during the Renaissance this bracing study reveals in the works of Shakespeare and his sources the figure of the citizen saint who represents at once divine messenger and civil servant both norm and exception Embodied by such diverse personages as Antigone Paul Barabbas Shylock Othello Caliban Isabella and Samson the citizen saint is a sacrificial figure a model of moral and aesthetic extremity who inspires new regimes of citizenship with his or her death and martyrdom Among the many questions Julia Reinhard Lupton attempts to answer under the rubric of the citizen saint are how did states of emergency acts of sovereign exception and Messianic anticipations lead to new forms of religious and political law What styles of universality were implied by the abject state of the pure creature at sea in a creation abandoned by its creator And how did circumcision operate as both a marker of ethnicity and a means of conversion and civic naturalization Written with clarity and grace Citizen Saints will be of enormous interest to students of English literature religion and early modern culture The Amazing Duchess Charles E.
