Poetics of Children's Literature Zohar Shavit, 2009-11-01 Since its emergence in the seventeenth century as a distinctive cultural system children s literature has had a culturally inferior status resulting from its existence in a netherworld between the literary system and the educational system In addition to its official readership children it has to be approved of by adults Writers for children explains Zohar Shavit are constrained to respond to these multiple systems of often mutually contradictory demands Most writers do not try to bypass these constraints but accept them as a framework for their work In the most extreme cases an author may ignore one segment of the readership If the adult reader is ignored the writer risks rejection as is the case of popular literature If the writer utilizes the child as a pseudo addressee in order to appeal to an adult audience the result can be what Shavit terms an ambivalent work Shavit analyzes the conventions and the moral aims that have structured children s literature from the fairy tales collected and reworked by Charles Perrault and the Brothers Grimm in particular Little Red Riding Hood through the complex manipulations of Lewis Carroll in Alice s Adventures in Wonderland to the subversion of the genre s canonical requirements in the chapbooks of the eighteenth century and in the formulaic Nancy Drew books of the twentieth century Throughout her study Shavit explores not only how society has shaped children s literature but also how society has been reflected in the literary works it produces for its children

Fictions of Childhood Marjorie Salvodon, 2008-01-01

Fictions of Childhood explores the complexity of French identity in writings that focus on the experience of children Nina Bouraoui Linda L and Gis le Pineau French writers of Algerian Vietnamese and Guadelupean origin respectively are discussed within the text because of their use of educational and familial contexts to explore the meanings of childhood in fiction In their role as literary double agents who view French identity against the grain these three writers perceive French identity from multiple angles The selected texts counter preconceived notions about children and childhood in their portrayal of child narrator protagonist mostly girl children who make prophetic revelations They are marginalized schoolchildren who denounce French society and institutions for failing them children who cross the boundaries of gender and sexuality and children of the French empire who tell French colonial and post colonial history from their unique perspectives The current crisis in French universalism is mirrored in the literary portrayal of child figures as victors and victims because these representations make visible the relational dynamic between France and her former colonies which underlie the silenced history of colonialism and post colonialism that continues to define French identity

J. M. Coetzee's Poetics of the Child

Charlotta Elmgren, 2020-09-17 Tracing how central tensions in J M Coetzee s fiction converge in and are made visible by the child figure this book establishes the centrality of the child to Coetzee s poetics Through readings of novels from Dusklands to The Schooldays of Jesus Charlotta Elmgren shows how Coetzee s writing stages the constant interplay between irresponsibility and responsibility to the self the other and the world In articulating this poetics of ir responsibility Elmgren offers the first sustained engagement with the intersections between Coetzee s work and the philosophical thought of Giorgio Agamben With reference also to Hannah Arendt s thinking on natality education and amor mundi Elmgren demonstrates the inextricable links in Coetzee s writing between freedom play and serious attention to the world The book identifies five central dynamics of Coetzee s poetics the child as a figure of truth telling and authenticity the ethics of the not so other child the child new beginnings and care for the world childish behaviour as perpetual study and the redemptive potential of infancy Offering a fresh contribution to the field of literary childhood studies Elmgren shows the critical possibilities in thinking about and with childlike openness and childish experimentation when approaching the writing and reading of the work of J M Coetzee and beyond

From Tongue to Text: A New Reading of Children's Poetry
 Debbie Pullinger, 2017-05-04 The connection between childhood and poetry runs deep And yet poetry written for children has been neglected by criticism and resists prevailing theories of children's literature Drawing on Walter Ong's theory of orality and on Iain McGilchrist's work on brain function this book develops a new theoretical framework for the study of children's poetry From Tongue to Text argues that the poem is a multimodal form that exists in the borderlands between the world of experience and the world of language and between orality and literacy places that children themselves inhabit Engaging with a wide range of poetry from nursery rhymes and Christina Rossetti to Michael Rosen and Carol Ann Duffy Debbie Pullinger demonstrates how these tactful works are shaped by the dynamics of orality and textuality
