

MATHEMATICS, REASON & RELIGION

JAVIER LEACH

Universidad Complutense de Madrid

ABSTRACT: This paper will study the relationship between mathematics and religion from the perspective of reason and the role played by reason in human knowledge. Firstly, I will study the relationship between reason, logic and mathematics. From this starting point, I will study the relationship between reason and natural science and finally, I will draw some conclusions on the relationship between reason, philosophy and theology. The relationship between mathematics, reason and religion will be studied within the context of the global unity of human knowledge. This paper intends to explain how the 'pure deductive reason' is present in all human thinking. Mathematics and natural science share this universal presence with metaphysics and religion. Pure deductive reasoning is somehow an absolute value that transcends all aspects and levels of human knowledge, including metaphysical and religious knowledge. Metaphysical and theological arguments need to be able to span different cultural communities. Pure deductive reasoning is a kind of reasoning that can fully span communities and it forms a basis for interdisciplinary, inter-cultural and inter-religious communication.

KEY WORDS: mathematics, reason, pure deductive reason, logic, natural science, metaphysics, religión, revelation.

Matemática, Razón y Religión

RESUMEN: En este artículo voy a estudiar la interrelación entre matemática y religión desde el punto de vista de la razón y del papel de ésta en el conocimiento humano. En primer lugar estudiaré la relación entre la razón, la lógica y la matemática. Partiendo de ahí estudiaré la relación entre la razón y las ciencias de la naturaleza y por último sacaré conclusiones acerca de la relación entre la razón, la filosofía y la teología. Estudiaré la relación entre matemáticas, razón y religión dentro del contexto de la unidad global del conocimiento humano. Este artículo pretende explicar la presencia y el rol de la 'pura razón deductiva' en el conocimiento humano. La matemática y las ciencias de la naturaleza comparten esa presencia universal con la metafísica y la religión. La pura razón deductiva es de algún modo un valor absoluto que trasciende todos los aspectos y todos los niveles del conocimiento humano, incluyendo el conocimiento metafísico y religioso. Los argumentos metafísicos y religiosos necesitan ser capaces de alcanzar a las distintas comunidades culturales. La pura razón deductiva es capaz de alcanzar a todas las comunidades y constituye una base para la comunicación inter-disciplinar, inter-cultural e inter-religiosa.

PALABRAS CLAVE: matemática, razón, pura razón deductiva, lógica, ciencias de la naturaleza, metafísica, religión, revelación.

INTRODUCTION

At first sight, it appears that mathematics and religion are two different and unconnected topics; that the one has nothing to do with the other. History however demonstrates how many thinkers have discovered different kinds of relationship between mathematics and religion. We know that the Pythagoreans gave certain mathematical structures a religious meaning¹. In the last few years,
