Matthew Boulton Sally Baggott, 2016-05-13 Matthew Boulton was a leading industrialist entrepreneur and Enlightenment figure Often overshadowed through his association with James Watt his Soho manufactories put Birmingham at the centre of what has recently been termed The Industrial Enlightenment Exploring his many activities and manufactures and the regional national and international context in which he operated this publication provides a valuable index to the current state of Boulton studies Combining original contributions from social economic and cultural historians with those of historians of science technology and art archaeologists and heritage professionals the book sheds new light on the general culture of the eighteenth century including patterns of work production and consumption of the products of art and industry The book also extends and enhances knowledge of the Enlightenment industrialization and the processes of globalization in the eighteenth century Matthew Boulton and the Toymakers Rosemary Ransome-Wallis, 1982 The Robert and Meredith Green Collection of Silver Nutmeg Graters John D. Davis, 2002 The systematic production of silver graters for nutmeg the most stylish of spices began in the late seventeenth century A revolution in manners then gripped colonial America as sophisticated Britons on both sides of the Atlantic began serving punch the tasty and potent brew of spirits fruit juice sugar and water laced with spice most often nutmeg An elegant nutmeg grater quickly became an essential part of the punch equipage the key to genteelly preparing and serving this ubiquitous tippie The splendid collection of 100 exquisite examples of English and American nutmeg graters lovingly assembled over the course of forty years by the late Dr Robert Green and his wife Meredith is on view at Colonial Williamsburg the nation's largest living history museum from May 31 2002 to December 31 2003 This charming catalogue features a stunning assortment of fashionable English graters from seventeenth century London and eighteenth and nineteenth century Birmingham handsome twentieth century American graters designed by Gorham and Tiffany graters made of mounted cowrie shells 1680 1720 and a commemorative grater with a braid of hair encased in a glass top Silver in England Philippa Glanville, 2013-11-05 First Published in 2005 Silver is unique among the decorative arts in that its raw material is both inherently valuable and infinitely reusable Its ownership has been a social bench mark and its form has exercised the skills of sculptors designers chasers and engravers but ultimately it could be and normally was melted down and refashioned quite without sentiment Because of this constant recycling the survival of any individual object is quite random and unrelated to its uniqueness or otherwise in its period Hitherto plate historians have focused on individual objects almost to the exclusion of the context social or economic from which they came but now that context is seen as crucial in understanding historic plate So in the first section of this book each chapter considers contemporary attitudes and usage Silver at Williamsburg John A. Hyman, 1994 Colonial Williamsburg's extensive collection of silver drinking vessels is the legacy of three distinct sensibilities and reflects different philosophies of
