

Teaching Philosophy

~Mae Guerra, Experienced Educator

As I reflect upon my teaching career, it is evident that my philosophy in management systems has been greatly influenced by my mentors and colleagues. They have influenced my teaching philosophy because they have developed strong pedagogies with the knowledge to support it, they have set high academic standards for students and for themselves, they have respected intellectual diversity inside and outside the classroom, and they build trust among their students.

My management system philosophy is created from these ideas which are divided into six areas: (1) a positive learning environment, (2) clear expectations, standards and goals, (3) differentiated instruction through modification, (4) ongoing assessment, (5) self-improvement through lifelong learning, and (6) presenting a variety of learning materials to all students.

I believe in creating a positive learning environment in which respect for others is fundamental in promoting intellectual diversity. Respecting and promoting intellectual diversity requires a deeper understanding of how diversity manifests inside and outside of the classroom. Because students bring a diverse set of worldviews to the classroom, I believe that it is the teacher's responsibility to take neutral stances on controversial material, political issues, and general societal issues as well. I play the role of moderator and mentor instead of activist. Taking a neutral stance also acts to challenge students' intellectual abilities. Consequently, it presents students with a positive learning environment where they must use logic and reason to develop positions and counter positions.

I also believe that teachers should set specific and clear expectations, standards and goals from the very first day of the class. Once they are set, they should be adhered to throughout the remainder of the year. I believe setting high standards for students is an important way to get students to rise to their potential. Teachers should also set specific goals for students. Long term goals for students should be set early and should continue over time, allowing students to use what they are learning later in life.

Along with setting standards for students, I create standards for myself as well. One important standard that I have set for myself is giving students a clear indication on how they will be graded. Overall, setting clear standards helps limit grading bias and instances where students may try to take advantage of a teacher's generosity. Teachers should make an extra effort to present class materials in a variety of formats to aid in differentiated

Philosophy in the Classroom Matthew Lipman, Ann Margaret Sharp, Frederick S. Oscanyan, 2010-06-18 This is a textbook for teachers that demonstrates how philosophical thinking can be used in teaching children It begins with the assumption that what is taught in schools is not and should not be subject matter but rather ways of thinking The main point is that the classroom should be converted into a community of inquiry and that one can begin doing that with children Based on the curriculum that Matt Lipman has developed at the Institute for the Advancement of Philosophy for Children which he heads this book describes the curriculum and explains its use The text is self contained however This revision is thorough going and incorporates new chapters as well as new material in old chapters Part One focuses on the need of educational change and the importance of philosophical inquiry in developing new approaches Part

Two discusses curriculum and teaching methodology including teacher behavior conducive to helping children Part Three deals with developing logic skills and moral judgment It concludes with a chapter on the sorts of philosophical themes pertinent to ethical inquiry for children the right and the fair perfect and right free will and determinism change and growth truth caring standards and rules thinking and thinking for oneself Education in this sense is not a matter of dispensing information it is the process of assisting in the growth of the whole individual

Readings in Philosophy of Education

Evelina M. Orteza y Miranda,1999 Educational Philosophy Edward J. Power,2019-08-22 The first step in education s long road to respectability lay in the ability of its proponents to demonstrate that it was worthy of collaborating with traditional disciplines in the syllabus of higher learning The universities where the infant discipline of education was promoted benefited from scholars who engaged in teaching and research with enthusiasm and preached the gospel of scientific education These schools Teachers College Columbia University the University of Chicago and Stanford University gained a reputation as oases of pedagogical knowledge Soon public and private colleges alike introduced professional academic programs for the preparation of teachers Foremost among the subjects for these programs was education philosophy with its long history and the impeccable credentials of its ancient and modern expositors Although the principal focus of this study is the history of educational philosophy in colleges and universities it also recognizes educational philosophy s antecedents Chapters cover ancient roots Christian educational theory educational theory and the modern world philosophy and education in early America development of philosophies of education disciplinary maturity for educational philosophy and prospects There is a bibliography and an index

Philosophy of Education in Action

David W. Nicholson,2016-01-13 Philosophy of Education in Action is an innovative inquiry based introductory text that invites readers to study philosophy of education through the lens of their own observations and experiences Structured according to a Wonder Model of Inquiry each chapter begins by posing a fundamental What if question about curriculum pedagogy and the role of the school before investigating the various philosophical perspectives that guide and influence educational practices Classroom vignettes and examples of actual schools and educational programs help to ground philosophical perspectives in real world scenarios while the book s unique inquiry based approach leads students to both think critically about philosophical questions and apply the concepts to their own teaching Features of the text include What if questions that structure each chapter to pique students curiosity stimulate creativity and promote critical thinking Authentic classroom vignettes that encourage students to analyze what it means to do philosophy and to reflect upon their own practices examine their role in the educational process and articulate their own philosophical beliefs A concluding section asking readers to imagine and design their own hypothetical school or classroom as a project based means of analyzing synthesizing and evaluating the different philosophies discussed Accessible and thought provoking Philosophy of Education in Action provides a dynamic learning experience for readers to understand and apply philosophy in educational practice

The Philosophy of Teaching

Arnold Tompkins,2016-07-11 From the Introduction

THE term philosophy of teaching places the accent on the process of teaching while the term philosophy of education emphasizes the system of principles as such The philosophy of education will not be attempted the theme being restricted to the application of philosophic principles to the teaching process Not that the application of principles is a more worthy object of attention than the system of principles themselves but because I feel moved to show how helpful in practice daily and hourly are the universal principles which philosophy announces I have no sympathy with the sneer at mere theorists those who seek principles for their own sake What should we do without the light they throw upon our pathway The practical teacher is not always conscious of and thankful for the great service rendered by the speculative philosopher Universal truth seems so remote from the immediate concrete details of school work that we do not suspect its presence and controlling power Hegel well protests against the thought that philosophy deals with another world asserting its subject to be the concrete and ever present facts of life The practical teacher must sooner or later learn that inspiration and guidance through the daily routine of duty must be sought in universal truth that specific rules and recipes which seem to be so helpful because of their easy and immediate application are really impractical and confusing because they have no germinant power and breadth of application that his bearings must be taken from the fixed stars and not from the shifting scenes and lights of the lower atmosphere The application of universal principles to teaching presupposes a philosophy of education and the existence of such a philosophy is not always admitted Even that there is a science of education has been denied and for stronger reasons may its philosophy be questioned it being a higher generalization of principles A distinguished writer in the Educational Review discusses at length the question Is there a science of education and concludes in these words To sum all up in a word teaching is an art Therefore there is indeed no science of education
