

Intonation and Tone

- ✧ Intonations refer to the pitch differences that extend over phonetic units larger than the syllable. By means of intonation, syllables are grouped into phrases, and phrases into sentences. In English a phrase usually has one or two different terminations. The most common phrasal intonation ends on a falling pitch; the other ends on a more or less level pitch.

Robert Ladd, 1996-12-12 Intonation is a subject of increasing importance in fields from syntax to speech recognition D Robert Ladd provides an exceptionally clear presentation of the key ideas of the influential autosegmental metrical theory of intonational phonology associated with the work of Janet Pierrehumbert He outlines the evidence for the theory's basic tenets and relates them to the ideas of competing approaches in a way that will allow sceptics to reach an informed opinion and he presents a wealth of new material on the cross language comparison of intonation couched in autosegmental metrical terms He also draws attention to problems in Pierrehumbert's version of the autosegmental metrical theory and offers some theoretical proposals of his own This book will appeal to phonologists and phoneticians as an original contribution to the debates it discusses and will be welcomed by a wide range of students and researchers as an ideal overview of recent work
