Fertilizer or Waste?* H.G. van der Meer, R.J. Unwin, T.A. van Dijk, G.C. Ennik, 2012-12-06 On the occasion of its twenty fifth anniversary in 1985 the Netherlands Society for Grassland and Fodder Crops NVWV agreed to organize an International Symposium on a topic related to intensive grass and fodder production systems The theme selected was Animal manure on grassland and fodder crops Fertilizer or waste This Symposium was organized under the auspices of the European Grassland Federation and held at the International Agricultural Centre in Wageningen from 31 August to 3 September 1987 The problems connected with the disposal of animal waste have received much attention in recent years especially in regions with intensive animal of animal manure per hectare agricul husbandry Whereas the production tural land increased strongly the need for it decreased because of the introduction of cheap inorganic fertilizers which are easier to handle and have a more reliable effect on crop growth As a consequence many farmers dispose of animal manure as cheaply as possible whilst avoiding damage to grassland and crops and paying little attention to effective use of the plants nutrients contained in the manure Present practices of manure handling and application often lead to environmental problems The rise in awareness of these problems renewed interest in possibilities to improve the utilization of nutrients from animal manure in crop production Research on this topic has been stimulated in many countries during the last decade and the aim of this Symposium was to review and assess present day knowledge Phosphorus in Sewage Sludge and Animal Waste Slurries - Proceedings of the EEC Seminar, Held in Groningen, Netherlands on June 12 and 13, 1980 Commission of the European Communities, 1981 Transport Processes in Porous Media Jacob Bear, M. Yavuz Corapcioglu, 2012-12-06 This volume contains the invited lectures presented during the NATO ASI conducted in Pullman Washington July 9 18 1989 This is the third in a series of NATO ASIs on transport phenomena in porous media The first two which took place at Newark Delaware in 1982 and 1985 are devoted to various topics related to the Fundamentals of Transport Processes in Porous Media The contents of the books resulting from previous NATO ASIs are given at the end of this book Transport of extensive quantities such as mass of a fluid phase mass of chemical species carried by a fluid phase energy and electric charge in porous media as encountered in a large variety of engineering disciplines is an emerging interdisciplinary field The groundwater flow the simultaneous flow of gas oil and water in petroleum reservoirs the movement and accumulation of pollutants in the saturated and unsaturated subsurface zones thermal energy storage in reservoirs land subsidence in response to charges in overburden loads or to pumping of fluids from underground formations wave propagation in seismic investigations or as produced by earthquakes chemical reactors water flow through sand filters and the movement of fluids through kidneys may serve as examples of fields in which the theory of transport in porous media is employed Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopy in Environmental Chemistry Mark A. Nanny, R. A. Minear, J. A. Leenheer, 1997 This book demonstrates the usefulness of NMR spectroscopy for a wide variety of applications in environmental science and technology It contains a wealth of information relating to instrumentation sample preparation and data interpretation The book is divided into three sections discussing contaminant interaction solution and condensed phase characterization and nutrients and natural organic matter characterization In addition to these in depth chapters an introductory overview provides the basic principles of solution and solid state NMR spectroscopy Each section also contains a discussion of advances in each area directly attributable to NMR spectroscopy A final chapter suggests future directions for the deployment of this powerful technology in environmental science Soil Processes and Water Quality B.A. Stewart, 2020-11-25 Agrochemicals and agricultural practices have a tremendous impact on environmental quality particularly their role in water quality degradation Soil Processes and Water Quality examines principles and practices that minimize the risks of water pollution while enhancing agricultural intensification and productivity It focuses on how agricultural practices such as tillage methods use of fertilizers and manures cropping systems and the use of agrochemicals and pest control measures impact soil processes and affect water quality Extensive coverage of such topics as water contamination by runoff leaching macropore flow and sediments is also included Rapid increases in the use of agrochemicals make Soil Processes and Water Quality an indispensable reference for soil scientists water quality professionals researchers environmental chemists agrochemicals professionals government agency employees academic instructors agronomists and students Phosphorus Content of Sludge from Swiss Sewage Treatment Plants, The Science of Composting Marco de Bertoldi, 2013-11-11 The European Union initially demonstrated its interest in waste in the late 70s with the programme on Waste Recycling Research and Development At that time composting was only present as a coordination activity and it was only later that specific research programmes in the area were within Europe which was largely instrumental in setting up a series of European conferences seminars and work shops Some of these have resulted in publications which have made significant contributions to developments in the understanding of composting and the use of composts In particular the outputs from meetings in Oxford 1984 Udine 1986 Neresheim 1988 and Angers 1991 are worthy of note Composting has seen significant changes since the 70s when the major thrust in Europe was using mixed municipal solid waste as a feed material Many composting plants which were built to use this material were closed due to the poor quality of the compost which made it very difficult to market As a result the main areas of interest as far as the municipalities are concerned are now with biowaste and source separated organics This interest is apparent from the many new plants which are being constructed across Europe and the ready market which exists for the products In parallel with the renewed interest of the municipalities other areas such as agriculture and the wastewater treatment industries are also developing their own schemes

Soil Fertility Evaluation and Control Charles A. The Role of Organic Matter in Modern Agriculture Y. Chen,Y. Avnimelech,2012-12-06 The use of organic residues as a means of maintaining and increasing soil fertility is of long standing This tradition has been somewhat neglected since the introduction of mineral fertilizers at low cost More and more farmers and scientists are now showing renewed interest in the proper and effective use of organic residues composts and other recycled organic additives The role and function of organic amendments in modern agricultural systems have become topics of major interest in the scientific and agricultural communities Research work on residue disposal has provided new concepts on the interaction between organic components and soils as well as new handling technologies e g pelletizing of organic residues The trend to conserve energy has led scientists to study the minimal tillage system to find ways of replacing conventional inorganic fertilizers with natural organic products or microbial preparations and to develop new composting methods The drive to achieve higher yields in commercial greenhouse farming has led to a search for optimum substrates as growth media and for improved management techniques This has led to the introduction of organic substitutes for peat notably those originating from agricultural wastes Another important aspect is the current interest in organic farming where use of synthetic chemicals is avoided or prohibited An increasing percentage of the population in highly developed countries is willing to pay premium prices for food produced on soils where inorganic fertilizers and other agricultural chemicals have not been used
