Architecture in Nineteenth-Century Photographs Micheline Nilsen, 2017-07-05 Revealing that nineteenth century photography goes beyond the functional to reflect the aesthetic intellectual and cultural concerns of the time this study proposes that each photographic image of architecture be studied both as a primary visual document and an object of aesthetic inquiry This multi faceted approach drives Architecture in Nineteenth Century Photographs Essays on Reading a Collection Despite three decades of post colonial post structuralist and gender conscious criticism the study of architectural photography continues to privilege technical virtuosity This volume offers a thematic exploration of the material and a socio historical examination that allows consideration of questions that have not been addressed comprehensively before in a single publication Themes include exoticism and armchair tourism the absence of women from architectural photography the role of photographs as commodities vernacular architecture and the picturesque and historic preservation urban renewal and nationalism Micheline Nilsen analyzes photographs from France and England the two countries where photography was invented and from around the world representing a corpus of over 10 000 photographs from the Janos Scholz Collection of Nineteenth Century Photographs of the Snite Museum of Art at the University of Notre Dame Nineteenth-Century Photographs and Architecture Micheline Nilsen, 2017-07-05 Eschewing the limiting idea that nineteenth century architecture photography merely reflects functionality the objective of this collection is to reflect the aesthetic intellectual and cultural concerns of the time The essays hold appeal for social and cultural historians as well as those with an interest in the fields of art history urban geography history of travel and tourism Nineteenth century photographers captured what could be seen and what they wanted to be seen Their images informed of exploration progress heritage and destruction Architecture was a staple subject for the first generation of photographers as it patiently tolerated the long exposures of the early processes During its formative decades photography responded to evolutionary cultural forces of market and artistic production Photographs of architecture reflected a specific political or social context modulated through individual points of view For this reason the examination of each photographic image as a primary visual document and an aesthetic object rather than a technical milestone on a chronological trajectory affords a richer multi faceted approach to the extensive and complex corpus of photographs taken by photographers all over the world This project acknowledges the importance of technique in the early decades of photography but focuses on the thematic content of the material It places the photography of architecture in an international context under the contemporary critical lens sharpened by theoretical and cultural examinations of the topic

American Photo, 1995-01 Revolutionary Spring Christopher Clark, 2024-06-11 New York Times Book Review Editors Choice From the bestselling author of The Sleepwalkers comes an epic history of the 1848 revolutions that swept Europe and the charismatic figures who propelled them forward Refreshingly original Familiar characters are given vibrancy and previously unknown players emerge from the shadows The Times UK A BEST BOOK OF THE YEAR New Yorker The Economist Financial Times As history the uprisings of 1848 have long been overshadowed by the French Revolution of 1789 and the Russian revolutions of the early twentieth century And yet in 1848 nearly all of Europe was aflame with conflict Parallel political tumults spread like brush fire across the entire continent leading to significant changes that continue to shape our world today These battles for the future were fought with one eye kept squarely on the past The men and women of 1848 saw the urgent challenges of their world as shaped profoundly by the past and saw themselves as inheritors of a revolutionary tradition Celebrated Cambridge historian Christopher Clark describes 1848 as the particle collision chamber at the center of the European nineteenth century a moment when political movements and ideas from socialism and democratic radicalism to liberalism nationalism corporatism and conservatism were tested and transformed The insurgents asked questions that sound modern to our ears What happens when demands for political or economic liberty conflict with demands for social rights How do we reconcile representative and direct forms of democracy How is capitalism connected to social inequality The revolutions of 1848 were short lived but their impact on public life and political thought throughout Europe and beyond has been profound Meticulously researched elegantly written and filled with a cast of charismatic figures including the social theorist Alexis de Tocqueville the writer George Sand and the troubled priest Flicité de Lamennais who struggled to reconcile his faith with politics Revolutionary Spring offers a new understanding of 1848 that suggests chilling parallels to our present moment Looking back at the revolutions from the end of the first quarter of the twenty first century it is impossible not to be struck by the resonances Clark writes If a revolution is coming for us it may look something like 1848 "Visions of the Industrial Age, 1830-1914" Amy Woodson-Boulton, 2017-07-05 Providing a comprehensive interdisciplinary assessment and with a particular focus on expressions of tension and anxiety about modernity this collection examines visual culture in nineteenth century Europe as it attempted to redefine itself in the face of social change and new technologies Contributing scholars from the fields of history art literature and the history of science investigate the role of visual representation and the dominance of the image by looking at changing ideas expressed in representations of science technology politics and culture in advertising art periodicals and novels They investigate how during the period new emphasis was placed on the visual with emerging forms of mass communication photography lithography newspapers advertising and cinema while older forms as varied as poetry the novel painting interior decoration and architecture became transformed The volume includes investigations into new innovations and scientific development such as the steam engine transportation and engineering the microscope spirit photography and the orrery as well as how this new technology is reproduced in illustrated periodicals The essays also look at more traditional forms of creative expression to show that the same concerns and anxieties about science technology and the changing perceptions of the natural world can be seen in the art of Armand Guillaumin Auguste Rodin Gustave Caillebotte and Camille Pissarro in colonial nineteenth century novels in design manuals in museums and in the decorations of domestic interior spaces Visions of the Industrial Age 1830-1914 offers a thorough exploration of both the nature of modernity and the nature of the visual
