Police Pictures The Photograph As Evidence:

Police Pictures Sandra S. Phillips, Mark Haworth-Booth, Carol Squiers, 1997 The mug shot the scene of the crime photographic evidence all of these are predicated on the belief that the photograph shows the truth unvarnished and indisputable But does it In a remarkable survey of over 120 images from public and private sources Police Pictures questions the conjunction of photography and enforcement and challenges the ability of image to represent the truth From haunting photographs of the Lincoln conspirators to Weegee's sordid murder victims and the prisoner portraits taken by the Khmer Rouge Police Pictures explores the policing function of photography and the controversial manipulations of images by and for the forces of authority in a catalogue of the power of the law and the lens

Photography's Materialities Geoff Bender, Rasmus R. Simonsen, 2021-05-17 There is little dispute that photography is a material practice and that the photograph itself is ineluctably material And yet matter material and materiality have proven to be remarkably elusive terms of inquiry frequently producing studies that are disparate in scope sharing seemingly little common ground Although the wide methodological range of materialist study can be dizzying it is this book's contention that that multiplicity is also the field's greatest asset keeping materialist inquiry enduringly vibrant provided that varying methods are in close enough proximity to converse Photography's Materialities orchestrates one such conversation Juxtaposing the insights of theorists like Lacan Benjamin and Latour beside close studies of crime spirit and composite photography among others this collection aims for a productive synergy one capacious enough to span transatlantic spaces over the long nineteenth century Contributors Kris Belden Adams University of Mississippi Maura Coughlin Bryant University David LaRocca independent scholar Jacob W Lewis University of Rochester Mary Marchand Goucher College Zachary Tavlin Art Institute of Chicago Christa Holm Vogelius University of Copenhagen
