Sin Zakhar Prilepin, 2018-01-01 Zakhar Prilepin's novel in stories Sin has become a literary phenomenon in Russia where it was published in 2007 It has been hailed as the epitome of the spirit of the opening decade of the 21st century and was called the book of the decade by the prestigious Super Natsbest Award jury Now available for the first time in English it not only embodies the reality of post perestroika Russia but also shows that even in this reality just like in any other it is possible to maintain a positive attitude while remaining human Zakharka is young strong in love with love and with life's random telling moments In the episodes of his life presented here in non chronological order we see him as a little boy a lovelorn teenager a hard drinking grave digger a nightclub bouncer a father and a soldier in Chechnya He even writes poetry and his stylistically varied verses are presented in the penultimate chapter of the book Loving life he looks boldly and even with curiosity into the face of death taking pictures of the deceased at a funeral staring with agitation at the entrails of a just disembowelled pig chronicling the death of a childhood friend and values the freedom of not fearing his own end It is family that ultimately defines happiness for Zakharka but it is also family that makes him realize on the desolate Chechen border that his love for them has deprived him of this freedom Sin offers a fascinating glimpse into the recent Russian past as well as its present with its unemployment poverty violence and local wars social problems that may be found in many corners of the world Zakhar Prilepin presents these realities through the eyes of Zakharka taking us along on the life affirming journey of his unforgettable protagonist
