Race and Representation Georgia A. Persons, 2017-09-04 The National Political Science Review is the official publication of the National Conference of Black Political Scientists This series now entering its sixth volume includes significant scholarly research reflecting the diverse interests of scholars from various backgrounds who use different models approaches and methodologies The central focus is on politics and policies that advantage or disadvantage groups because of race ethnicity gender and other major variables Race and Representation is anchored by a symposium that focuses on efforts to enhance representation of African Americans in legislative bodies under the authority of the historic Voting Rights Act of 1965 and on recent court challenges to the constitutionality of redistricting plans drawn under that act The chapters constitute an extension of an ongoing and protracted highly charged public debate In her introduction Georgia A Persons discusses how recent Supreme Court rulings such as in Shaw v Reno Miller v Johnson and Bush v Vera have significantly redefined the meaning and permissible parameters of the Voting Rights Act She affirms that they have also strongly posited albeit somewhat indirectly a legal meaning of representation that is at variance with the more broadly philosophical meaning of representation grounded in the ideal of enhancing equality among different groups in a society The articles in Race and Representation are refreshingly informative They include case studies written by political scientists who became involved directly with events surrounding the theme of this volume A new section Reflections is introduced it will be reserved for commentary and analysis of an issue that captures the political spirit of the times In the inaugural contribution J Owens Smith reflects on the assault on liberal philosophy as a foundation for civil rights claims and offers an alternative philosophical prism for viewing and justifying such claims This volume is essen

Politics Georgia A. Persons, 2017-07-05 Contours of African American Politics chronicles the systematic study of African American politics and its subsequent recognition as an established field of scholarly inquiry African American politics emanates from the demands of the prolonged struggle for black liberation and empowerment Hence the study of African American politics has sought to track codify and analyse the struggle that has been mounted and to understand the historic and changing political status of African Americans within American society This two volume set presents a selection of scholarship on African American politics as it appeared in The National Political Science Review from its initial launch in 1989 to the spring of 2009 Represented are contributions from some of the leading scholars of African American politics who have helped to establish and sustain the field The volumes are organised around themes that derive from the unfolding real life drama of African American politics and its subsequent scholarly treatment The result is a window into the political efforts that meld the historically disparate strands of black political expressions into a reconstructed and strategically nimble electoral based mass mobilisation necessary for optimising the impact of the African American vote Sections in the volumes also chronicle the evolution of the National Conference of Black Political Scientists as a professional organisation The two volumes illuminate a pivotal epoch in black political empowerment and provide a context for the future of black politics

The Changing Racial Regime Matthew Holden, 2017-11-30 The National Political Science Review is the official publication of the National Conference of Black Political Scientists The Review's purpose as described by Matthew Holden in his introduction is to lead to new information insights and findings into the social and political status of African Americans The volume is not exclusionist or narrow It integrates essays that could stand alone as they initially were written according to the method and theory of the author in question As presented here however they also lend themselves to a broader treatment of race and the political order The present volume combines essays expressly focused on African Americans Africa and the African diaspora At the same time it contains essays about broad generic subjects such as budgeting and interest groups written with no explicit racial relevance Holden integrates these essays under the theme of the changing racial regime The integrating concept is the old word regime which political scientists have used in many situations before to define such more or less persistent though not necessarily permanent orders of precedence If no significant benefits and no significant burdens could be forecast by knowledge of the social identity called race then the regime could be seen as non racial In American experience the regime was at one time purposeful and sustained white advantage The white race and its preferential standing was central to virtually all institutional practice public and private The significant contemporary question is the degree of change in the racial regime Some proceed with the assumption that a large degree of change has occurred in the American political system The view of other contributors is that the system still sustains racial stratification In its very internal dialogue this volume presents a panorama of current work by political scientists African American and other on the character of the American political system Contributors include Cedric Robinson Charles Henry Edward J Muller Marjorie

Lewis Katherine A Hinckley and Bette S Hill Nancy Haggard Gilson and Vernon Johnson The Changing Racial Regime is an essential resource for political scientists black studies specialists and scholars and policy analysts of race relations in the United States

African American Perspectives on Political Science Wilbur Rich, 2007-01-15 Race matters in both national and international politics Starting from this perspective African American Perspectives on Political Science presents original essays from leading African American political scientists Collectively they evaluate the discipline its subfields the quality of race related research and omissions in the literature They argue that because Americans do not fully understand the many faceted issues of race in politics in their own country they find it difficult to comprehend ethnic and racial disputes in other countries as well In addition partly because there are so few African Americans in the field political science faces a danger of unconscious insularity in methodology and outlook Contributors argue that the discipline needs multiple perspectives to prevent it from developing blind spots Taken as a whole these essays argue with great urgency that African American political scientists have a unique opportunity and a special responsibility to rethink the canon the norms and the directions of the discipline

(Re-)Mobilizing Voters in Britain and the United States Gregory Benedetti, Veronique Molinari, 2021-02-22 This collective work offers a historical approach to the issue of voters mobilisation and through case studies aims to expand the field's research agenda by taking into account less familiar mobilising strategies from various groups or parties both in Britain and the United States Two different yet complementary approaches are used one from the top down with political parties the other from the bottom up with grassroots organisations to analyze how these groups either re connect citizens with politics or give birth to social movements which durably occupy and change the political landscape of the United States and Britain

Black Women in Politics Michael Mitchell, 2017-09-29 The research included in this volume examines the competing pressures felt by black women as political agents in the domains of elections public policy and social activism Their challenges and initiatives are explored in public spaces institutional behaviours and public policy The volume features cutting edge research exploring black women's political engagement The first group of contributors interrogates the treatment of black women within the discipline of political science The second group examines the relationship between cultural politics and policymaking The third and final group outlines the politics of race gendered identity and black feminist practice Black Women in Politics includes chapters on black leadership radical versus moderate politics in New Orleans and the Shelby vs Holder Supreme Court decision The editors introduce a new series highlighting trends in black politics Finally the work notes the passing of William Nick Nelson and Hanes Walton Jr prominent members of the National Conference of Black Political Scientists

Traditional theories of party organization have emphasized two party electoral competition as the force behind party unity in state politics V O Key first advanced this theory in Southern Politics where he concluded that party factionalism in the South was mainly attributable to the one party character of the region But this traditional theory does not fit all states equally well In the states of the West especially parties are competitive but political activity is centered on candidates not parties The theory of candidate centered politics allows Gimpel to explain why party factionalism has persisted in many regions of the United States in spite of fierce two party competition Using interviews polling data elections returns and demographic information Gimpel contends that major upheavals in the two party balance of presidential voting may leave lower offices untouched Agrarian Structure and Political Power Evelyne Huber, Frank R.
