Race Political Strategy:

Strategy, Money and Technology in the 2008 Presidential Election Costas Panagopoulos, 2014-06-11 The 2008 presidential election perhaps more so than the typical quadrennial race will undoubtedly spawn an abundance of scholarly inquiry The confluence of historic and peculiar features associated with the 2008 contest distinguishes it from modern campaign cycles in significant ways that provide researchers a rare opportunity to reflect on a plethora of topics These studies are certain to provide detailed knowledge about the 2008 election in particular and more generally to inform our understanding of contemporary electoral politics The selections in this volume probe specific facets of the 2008 contest to provide in depth analyses of key developments with respect to strategy money and technology in the election cycle The contributors are keen analysts of American elections and campaigns The insights they provide grapple with key questions about the 2008 election and help to demystify aspects of the historic race This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Political Marketing Race and the Decline of Class in American Politics R. Robert Huckfeldt, C. W. Kohfeld, 1989

Race, Campaign Politics, and the Realignment in the South James M. Glaser, 1998-09-10 Since the Voting Rights Act of 1965 while Republican candidates have carried the South in presidential elections the Democratic Party has persisted in winning southern congressional elections Drawing on a wide variety of sources this text examines this political phenomenon

Race and Empire in British Politics Paul B. Rich, 1990-08-16 This book discusses British thought on race and racial differences in the latter phases of empire from the 1890s to the early 1960s It focuses on the role of racial ideas in British society and politics and looks at the decline in Victorian ideas of white Anglo Saxon racial solidarity The impact of anthropology is shown to have had a major role in shifting the focus on race in British ruling class circles from a classical and humanistic imperialism towards a more objective study of ethnic and cultural groups by the 1930s and 1940s As the empire turned into a commonwealth liberal ideas on race relations helped shape the post war rise of race relations sociology

Drawing on extensive government documents private papers newspapers magazines and interviews this book breaks new ground in the analysis of racial discourse in twentieth century British politics and the changing conception of race amongst anthropologists sociologists and the professional intelligentsia Whose Black Politics? Andra Gillespie, 2010-01-29 Using multiple case studies this title probes the implications of the emergence of a vanguard of leaders of African American politics It establishes a theoretical framework based on the interaction of three factors black leaders crossover appeal their political ambition and connections to the black establishment The Obama Presidency and the Politics of Change Edward

Ashbee, John Dumbrell, 2016-11-09 This edited volume considers the extent to which the Obama presidency matched the promises of hope and change that were held out in the 2008 election Contributors assess the character of change and within this context survey the extent to which there was enduring change within particular policy areas both domestic and foreign The authors combine empirical detail with more speculative assessment of the limits and possibilities of change amidst a very dense institutional landscape and in an era of intense political polarization Some see significant changes the full consequences of which may only be evident in later years Other authors in the collection present a markedly different picture and suggest that processes of change were not only limited and partial but at times leading the US in directions far removed from the promises of 2008 The book will make an important contribution to the debates about the Obama legacy

Ideas and Politics in Social Science Research Daniel Beland, Robert Henry Cox, 2010-12-10 Writing about ideas John Maynard Keynes noted that they are more powerful than is commonly understood Indeed the world is ruled by little else One would expect therefore that political science a discipline that focuses specifically on the nature of power would have a healthy respect for the role of ideas However for a variety of reasons not least of which is the influence of rational choice theory which presumes that individuals are self maximizing rational actors this is not the case and the literature on the topic is fairly thin As the stellar cast of contributors to this volume show ideas are in fact powerful shapers of political and social life In Ideas and Politics in Social Science Research Daniel B land and Robert Henry Cox have gathered leading scholars from a variety of subdisciplines in political science and sociology to provide a general overview of the theoretical empirical and methodological issues raised by social science research on ideas and politics Throughout they hone in on three central questions What is the theoretical basis for studying ideas in politics What are the best methods What sort of empirical puzzles can be solved by examining ideas and related phenomena such as discourse policy paradigms and framing processes In sum this is a state of the art academic work on both the role of ideas in politics and the analytical utility that derives from studying them

Charting the Range of Black Politics Michael Mitchell, 2017-07-05 The election of 2008 brought onto the national stage complexities arising when the member of a minority group assumes power over national political institutions It also underlined the limits placed on that power by the double accountability such a figure faces The question posed in this volume of the NPSR is Might the ascendancy of President Obama lead to a deracialization of American politics or its opposite The contributions to this volume examine this question in a variety of ways David Wilson and Khalilah Brown Dean analyze black attitudes towards the candidates for the Democratic Party nomination in the presidential race of 2008 Lorenzo Morris asks how perceptions of race have defined expectations of the African American ambassadors to the United Nations Horace Bartilow and Kihong Eom use a game theoretic approach to examine US drug strategies in the Caribbean A works in progress section follows with personal reflections by Michael C Dawson and Andra Gillespe They relate how personal concerns and curiosities guide their research A book review section provides a discussion about works of interest to scholars studying black politics

Classifying by Race Paul E. Peterson, 2014-07-14 The contemporary debate over racial classification has been dominated by fringe voices in American society Cries from the right say history should be abrogated and public policy made color blind while zealots of the left insist that all customs language institutions and practices are racially tinged and that only aggressive color conscious programs can reverse the course of American history The essays in this volume however recognize that racial classification is an issue that cuts too deep and poses too many constitutional questions to be resolved by slogans of either the right or the left The contributors to this volume are James Alt Kenneth Benoit Henry Brady John Bruce Rodolfo O de la Garza Andrew Gelman Lani Guinier Fredrick C Harris Gary King Robert C Lieberman David Ian Lublin David Metz Paul E Peterson Kay Lehman Schlozman Kenneth Shepsle Theda Skocpol Katherine Tate Richard Valelly Sidney Verba and Margaret Weir Originally published in 1995 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Virginia's Native Son J. L. Jeffries, 2000 In Virginia's Native Son the election of L Douglas Wilder in Virginia represents the first time an African American was elected Governor in the history of the United States The book hits on five main points of his election and administration including an analysis of the campaign victory the media's response to the campaign the racism involved with the election and administration the administration itself and the legacy of the administration

Beyond the Boundaries Georgia A. Persons, 2017-09-29 In the past African American aspirations for political office were assumed to be limited to areas with sizeable black population bases By and large black candidates have rarely been successful in statewide or national elections This has been attributed to several factors limited resources available to African American candidates or identification with a black liberationist ideological thrust Other factors have been a relatively small and spatially concentrated primary support base of black voters and the persistent resistance of many white voters to support black candidates For these reasons the possibility of black candidates winning elections to national office was presumably just a dream Conventional wisdom conceded a virtual cap on both the possible number of black elected officials and the level of elective office to which they could ascend But objective political analysis has not always made sufficient allowances for the more universal phenomenon of individual political ambitions The contributors to this volume explore the ways ambitious individuals identified and seized upon strategies that are expanding the boundaries of African American electoral politics This volume is anchored by a symposium that focuses on new possibilities in African American politics Both the electoral contests of 2006 and the Barack Obama presidential campaign represent an emergent dynamic in American electoral politics Analysts are beginning to agree that the contours of social change now make the electoral successes of black candidates who are perceived as ideologically and culturally mainstream increasingly likely The debate captured in this volume will likely inspire further scholarly inquiry into the changing nature and dimensions of the larger dynamic of race in American politics and the subsequent changing political fortunes of African American candidates The African American Experience Arvarh

E. Strickland, Robert E. Weems Jr., 2000-11-30 Compared to the early decades of the 20th century when scholarly writing on African Americans was limited to a few titles on slavery Reconstruction and African American migration the last thirty years have witnessed an explosion of works on the African American experience With the Civil Rights and Black Power movements of the 1960s came an increasing demand for the study and teaching of African American history followed by the publication of increasing numbers of titles on African American life and history This volume provides a comprehensive bibliographical and analytical guide to this growing body of literature as well as an analysis of how the study of African Americans has changed

Gender, Race, and Class in Media Gail Dines, 2003 Gender Race and Class in Media examines the mass media as economic and cultural institutions that shape our social identities Through analyses of popular mass media entertainment genres such as talk shows soap operas television sitcoms advertising and pornography students are invited to engage in critical mass media scholarship A comprehensive introductory section outlines the book's integrated approach to media studies which incorporates three distinct but related areas of investigation the political economy of production textual analysis and audience response The readings include a dozen new original essays edited for maximum accessibility The book provides A comprehensive critical introduction to Media Studies An analysis of race that is integrated into all chapters Articles on Cultural Studies that are accessible to undergraduates An extensive bibliography and section on media resources Expanded coverage of queer representations in mass media A new section on the violence debates A new section on the Internet Together with new section introductions these provide a comprehensive critical introduction to mass media studies

Streetwise for Book Smarts Celina Su, 2011-02-23 In Streetwise for Book Smarts Celina Su examines the efforts of parents and students who sought to improve the quality of education in their local schools by working with grassroots organizations and taking matters into their own hands In these organizations everyday citizens pursued not only education reform but also democratic accountability and community empowerment These groups had similar resources and operated in the same political context yet their strategies and tactics were very different while some focused on increasing state and city aid to their schools others tried to change the way the schools themselves operated Some coalitions sought accommodation with administrators and legislators others did not The events Su describes began with a series of stabbings in Bronx high schools during the 2003 2004 school year After this rash of violence several grassroots groups cited the need for additional safety patrols Mothers from one school spoke of how they had previously protested until they got extra officers a fairly scarce resource in New York public schools at their local elementary school Others asserted that not all the safety patrol officers already in place were treating students humanely

Parent organizations and school officials battled over who was to blame for the school violence. Did a police presence solve the problem or did it exacerbate the schools violence prone conditions. Members of different groups proposed and mobilized behind a range of remedies. These divergent responses shed light on the ways in which the choices made by each organization mattered. By learning from Sus close observation of four activist groups in the Bronx including Mothers on the Move and Sistass and Brothas United we can better understand strategies that may ultimately lead to better and safer schools everywhere and help to revitalize American democracy.

Somebody Should Do Something Michael Brownstein, Alex Madva, Daniel Kelly, 2025-09-16 A novel and scientific approach to creating transformative social change and the surprising ways that each of us can help make a real difference. Changing the world is difficult. One reason is that the most important problems like climate change, racism, and poverty are structural. They emerge from our collective practices, laws, economies, history, culture, norms, and built environments. The dilemma is that there is no way to make structural change without individual people making different, more structure-facing decisions. In Somebody Should Do Something, Michael Brownstein, Alex Madva, and Daniel Kelly show us how we can connect our personal choices to structural change and why individual choices matter, though not in the way people usually think. The authors paint a new picture of how social change happens, arguing that our most powerful personal choices are those that springboard us into working together with others. Warehouse worker Chris Smalls's unionization at Amazon is one powerful example. Taking inspiration from the writer Bill McKibben, they stress how one important thing an individual can do is be somewhat less of an individual. Organized into three main parts, the book first diagnoses the problem of either not thinking about social change, which stems from the false choice of making better personal choices or changing the system. Then it offers a different way to think about social change, anchored in a new picture of human nature emerging across the social sciences. Finally, the authors explore ways of putting this picture into practice. Neither a how-to manual nor an activists guide, Somebody Should Do Something pairs stories with science, plus some jokes to help readers recognize their own power, turning resignation about climate change and racial injustice into actions that transform the world.

Introduction to Scholarship in Modern Languages and Literatures David G. Nicholls, 2015-01-01 The third edition of the MLAs widely used Introduction to Scholarship in Modern Languages and Literatures features sixteen new essays by leading scholars. Designed to highlight relations among languages and forms of discourse, the volume is organized into three sections. Understanding Language provides an overview of the field of linguistics with special attention to language acquisition and the social life of languages. Forming Texts offers tools for understanding how speakers and writers shape language; it examines scholarship in the distinct but interrelated fields of rhetoric, composition, and poetics. Reading Literature and Culture continues the work of the first two sections by introducing major areas of critical study. The nine essays in this section cover textual and historical scholarship, interpretation, comparative cultural and translation studies, and the interdisciplinary topics of gender, sexuality, race and migrations among others As in previous volumes an epilogue examines the role of the scholar in contemporary society Each essay discusses the significance underlying assumptions and limits of an important field of inquiry traces the historical development of its subject introduces key terms outlines modes of research now being pursued postulates future developments and provides a list of suggestions for further reading This book will interest any member of the academic community seeking a review of recent scholarship while it provides an indispensable resource for undergraduate and graduate students of modern languages and literatures

Strategic Power Carl G. Jacobsen, 1990-02-23 This book highlights the impact and relevance of strategic culture Each section contains essays contrasting United States and Soviet perceptions on specific topics Each section closes with a synthesizing commentary to help readers to get a better sense of differences and similarities
