Making Matters Leigh Gruwell, 2022-04-15 Craft is a process oriented practice that takes seriously the relationships between bodies both human and nonhuman and makes apparent how these relationships are mired in and informed by power structures Making Matters introduces craft agency a feminist vision of new materialist rhetorics that enables scholars to identify how power circulates and sometimes stagnates within assemblages of actors and provides tools to rectify that uneven distribution To recast new materialist rhetorics as inherently crafty Leigh Gruwell historicizes and locates the concept of craft both within rhetorical history as well as in the disciplinary history of writing studies Her investigation centers on three specific case studies craftivism the fibercraft website Ravelry and the 2017 Women's March These instances all highlight how a material ecological understanding of rhetorical agency can enact political change Craft agency models how we humans might work with and alongside things nonhuman sometimes digital sometimes material to create more equitable relationships Making Matters argues that craft is a useful starting point for addressing criticisms of new materialist rhetorics not only because doing so places rhetorical action as a product of complex relationships between a network of human and nonhuman actors but also because it does so with an explicitly activist agenda that positions the body itself as a material interface

Professionalizing Multimodal Composition Santosh Khadka, Shyam B. Pandey, 2023-06-15 Multimodal composition is becoming increasingly popular in university classrooms as faculty students and institutions come to recognize that old and new technologies have enabled and even demanded the use of more than one composing mode for communicating solving problems and keeping up with the latest discourse Professionalizing Multimodal Composition embraces and enacts multimodal composition in various writing courses and programs by exploring institutional programmatic and individual faculty initiatives for capacity building and human resource development across institutions Academic leaders scholars and faculty who have successfully designed and launched academic programs or faculty development initiatives discuss the theoretical and logistical questions considered in their design the outcomes they achieved and how others can emulate them This exchange of knowledge insight experiences and lessons learned among community members is critical for enabling or inspiring other programs departments and institutions to conceive design and launch academic programs or faculty development initiatives for their own faculty The larger goal of professionalizing is to work with teaching faculty to increase their interactional expertise with multimodal composition and this collection offers a set of models for how faculty can do that at their own institutions and in their own programs

Feminist Technical Communication Erin Clark, 2024-01-15 Feminist Technical Communication introduces readers to technical communication methodology demonstrating how rhetorical feminist approaches are vital to the future of technical communication Using an intersectional and transcultural approach Erin Clark fuses the well documented surge of work in feminist technical communication throughout the 1990s with the larger social justice turn in the discipline The first book to situate feminisms and technical communication in relationship as the focal point Feminist Technical Communication traces the thread of feminisms through technical communication's connection to social justice studies Clark theorizes slow crisis a concept made readable to technical communicators by apparent feminisms that can help technical communicators readily recognize and address social justice problems Clark then applies this framework to the Deepwater Horizon Disaster an extended crisis that has been publicly framed by a traditional view of efficiency that privileges economic impact Through rich description of apparent feminist information gathering techniques and a layered analysis this study offers application far beyond this single disaster making available new crisis response possibilities that consider the economy without eliding ecological and human health concerns Feminist Technical Communication offers a methodological approach to the systematic interrogation of power structures that operate on hidden misogynies This book is useful to technical communicators scholars of technical communication and rhetoric and readers interested in gender studies and public health and is an ideal text for graduate level seminars focused on feminisms social justice and cultural studies

Textual

Curation Krista Kennedy, 2016-11-01 A study of the roles community financial support texts information structures interfaces and technology play in collaborative works Wikipedia is arguably the most famous collaboratively written text of our time but few know that nearly three hundred years ago Ephraim Chambers proposed an encyclopedia written by a wide range of contributors from illiterate craftspeople to titled gentry Chambers wrote that incorporating information submitted by the public would considerably strengthen the second edition of his well received Cyclop dia which relied on previously published information In Textual Curation Krista Kennedy examines the editing and production histories of the Cyclop dia and Wikipedia the ramifications of robot written texts and the issues of intellectual property theory and credit Kennedy also documents the evolution of both encyclopedias as well as the participation of central players in discussions about the influence of technology and collaboration in early modern and contemporary culture Through this comparative study based on extensive archival research and data driven analysis Kennedy illuminates the deeply situated nature of authorship which is dependent on cultural approval and stable funding sources as much as it is on original genius and the ownership of intellectual property Kennedy's work significantly revises long held notions of authorial agency and autonomy establishing the continuity of new writing projects such as wikis with longstanding authorial practices that she calls textual curation This study examines a wide range of texts that recompose accepted knowledge into reliable complex reference works combining contributions of article text alongside less commonly considered elements such as metadata vocabularies cross indexing and the development of print and digital interfaces Comparison of analog and networked texts also lays bare the impact of technological developments both in the composing process and in the topics that can practically be included in such a text By examining the human and technological curators that support these encyclopedias as well as the discourses that surround them Kennedy develops textual curation as a longstanding theory and process that offers a nuanced construction of authorship

Composing Media Composing Embodiment Kristin L Arola, Anne Wysocki, 2012-03-31 What any body is and is able to do cannot be disentangled from the media we use to consume and produce texts from the Introduction Kristin Arola and Anne Wysocki argue that composing in new media is composing the body is embodiment In Composing Media Composing Embodiment they have brought together a powerful set of essays that agree on the need for compositionists and their students to engage with a wide range of new media texts These chapters explore how texts of all varieties mediate and thereby contribute to the human experiences of communication of self the body and composing Sample assignments and activities exemplify how this exploration might proceed in the writing classroom Contributors here articulate ways to understand how writing enables the experience of our bodies as selves and at the same time to see the work of our writing in mediating selves to make them accessible to institutional perceptions and constraints These writers argue that what a body does and can do cannot be disentangled from the media we use nor from the times and cultures and technologies with which we engage To the discipline of composition this is an important discussion because it clarifies the impact s of literacy on citizens freedoms and societies To the classroom it is important because it helps compositionists to support their students as they enact learn and reflect upon their own embodied and embodying writing

Keywords in Writing Studies Paul Heilker, John Vandenberg, 2015-02-15 Keywords in Writing Studies is an exploration of the principal ideas and ideals of an emerging academic field as they are constituted by its specialized vocabulary A sequel to the 1996 work Keywords in Composition Studies this new volume traces the evolution of the field's lexicon taking into account the wide variety of theoretical, educational, professional, and institutional developments that have redefined it over the past two decades. Contributors address the development, transformation, and interconnections among thirty-six of the most critical terms that make up writing studies. Looking beyond basic definitions or explanations, they explore the multiple layers of meaning within the terms that writing scholars currently use, exchange, and question. Each term featured is a part of the general disciplinary parlance, and each is a highly contested focal point of significant debates about matters of power, identity, and values. Each essay begins with the assumption that its central term is important precisely because its meaning is open and multiplex. Keywords in Writing Studies reveals how the key concepts in the field are used and even challenged rather than advocating particular usages and the particular vision of the field that they imply. The volume will be of great interest to both graduate students and established scholars. From Twitter to Tahrir Square

Bala A. Musa, Jim Willis, 2014-06-24 This timely guide examines the influence of social media in private, public, and professional settings, particularly the ethical implications of the cultural changes and trends created by their use. In the quest for quick dissemination of information, web users and content providers find both opportunity and liability in digital broadcasts. Examples abound: Twitter members tap into news reports well in advance of traditional print media, but stories are prone to inaccuracies and misinformation; Facebook shares useful data mined from member profiles, but this sharing often compromises privacy. It is no surprise that use of social media gives rise to a host of moral dilemmas never before encountered. This book sheds light on the effects of this new medium on the individual and society. Through two volumes chock full of topics found in news headlines everyday, the authors look at evolving trends in social media and their impact on privacy, politics, and journalism. The first volume explores the role of this technology on national and international security. Volume 2 focuses on the individual as both a producer and consumer of internet content, showing how the media itself is changing notions of self, identity, relationships, and popular culture. The book's content covers such topics as individual and community psychology, citizen journalism, and corporate technology. Where the Sacred and Secular Harmonize

David G. Holmes, 2017-11-13 Among pivotal historical moments in the United States, the civil rights movement stands out. In Where the Sacred and Secular Harmonize, Birmingham Mass. Meeting Rhetoric and the Prophetic Legacy of the Civil Rights Movement, David G. Holmes offers an original rhetorical analysis of six speeches delivered during the 1963 civil rights campaign in Birmingham, Alabama. Holmes frames his analysis within the biblical concept of prophecy. However, he stresses the idea of prophecy as sociopolitical forth-telling rather than mystical foretelling. Based on his own transcriptions from rare recordings, Holmes examines how these orations, which clergy and laypeople delivered, address enduring themes such as the role of religion and politics, black leadership and black activism, and the political and popular legacies of the civil rights movement. Drawing upon American history, politics, hermeneutics, homiletics, and rhetoric, Holmes's discussion ranges from civil rights prophets to contemporary politicians, including Martin Luther King Jr. and Barack Obama. Where the Sacred and

Secular Harmonize illustrates how the Birmingham mass meeting oratory of 1963 represented a quality of democratic discourse desperately needed today
