Cancer in the United States, 1988-1992 Barry A. Miller, 1997-07 Hutchinson focuses initially on movement as concept and metaphor affirming its centrality in the conceptualization of all discursive activities He draws on an array of authors including Heraclitus Plato Longinus Rabelais Nietzsche Saussure Frances Yates Kristeva Meschonnic and Deleuze to demonstrate the motion of discourse and of those engaged in it He then turns to Cervantes novels to show how metaphors of movement and travel appearing on nearly every page dominate the conceptualization of the soul the self desire love and life processes Viewing travel as a composite of concurrent modes of experience with differing content and rhythms Hutchinson considers the concept of errancy the nature of place and the traveler s shifting relations with it and the values that travel may have as a motion displacement encounter and goal Of key importance are the means of improvisation developed en route His re examination of Bakhtin s chronotope in light of Cervante s novels reveals the dynamic character of time spaces in which travelers move He shows moreover that unlike typical Renaissance utopias the many worlds of Cervantes novels have the principles of becoming and dissolution inscribed in them Reflecting on the narrative of journeys both as memory and invention Hutchinson concludes with an examination of the relations between travel experience and travel narrative and a discussion of the whereabouts of writers and readers in Cervantes novels The narration of journeys he argues necessitates and encourages improvisatory writing

Hahn, 1995 The ways in which people respond to sickness differ greatly from society to society In this book anthropologist and epidemiologist Robert A Hahn examines how Western and non Western cultures influence the definition experience and treatment of sickness Hahn begins by developing a definition of sickness that is based on the patient's perception of suffering and disturbance rather than on the physician's assessment of biomedical signs After reviewing the principal theories that account for the forms of sickness and healing found in different historical and cultural situations he explores the relevance of both anthropological and epidemiological approaches to sickness focusing on the persistent gap between white and black infant mortality in the United States Hahn then describes contemporary Western medicine as it might be seen by a visiting foreign anthropologist He delineates the culture of Western medicine and portrays the world of one physician at work traces the evolution of obstetrics since 1903 by analyzing the principal textbook Williams Obstetrics through its first eighteen editions and explores the gulf between physicians and their patients by examining the accounts of physicians who have written about their own illnesses He concludes by proposing ways in which some of the ills of contemporary Western medicine might be remedied by applying anthropological principles to medical training and practice
