Racial Subjects Writing On Race In America:

Racial Subjects David Theo Goldberg, 2016-02-04 Racial Subjects heralds the next wave of writing about race and moves discussions about race forward as few other books recently have. Arguing that racism is best understood as exclusionary relations of power rather than simply as hateful expressions, David Theo Goldberg analyzes contemporary expressions of race and racism. He engages political economy, culture, and everyday material life against a background analysis of profound demographic shifts and changing class formation and relations. Issues covered in Racial Subjects include the history of changing racial categories over the last two hundred years, U.S. census taking, multiculturalism, the experience of being racially mixed, the rise of new black public intellectuals, race and the law in the wake of the O.J. Simpson verdict, relations between blacks and Jews, and affirmative action.

Race and Ethnicity Rodney D. Coates, 2004-10-01 Race and ethnicity much like water and air are all around us. Yet race and ethnicity remain impervious to many of us. Hence in this volume authors were challenged to think outside the box. As such scholars were encouraged to dare to contemplate, to evaluate, and analyze issues regarding race and ethnicity from radically different perspectives. This critical process required them to evaluate their own assumptions and those of their respective disciplines. Therefore much like walking a tight rope without a net, the scholars attempt to free themselves from the disciplinarian blinders that often preclude the development of fresh insights. Collectively the papers challenge the way we conceive and perceive of race and ethnicity. As a consequence they go past the ideological constraints that normally limit such discourse by disciplinarian boundaries or disciplinarian myopia. Therefore these papers provide a critical reappraisal of race and ethnicity.

Theories of Race and Ethnicity Karim Murji, John Solomos, 2014-12-31 How have research agendas on race and ethnic relations changed over the past two decades and what new developments have emerged? Theories of Race and Ethnicity provides a comprehensive and cutting edge collection of theoretically grounded and empirically informed essays. It covers a range of key issues in race and ethnicity studies such as genetics and race, post-race debates, racial eliminativism, and the legacy of Barack Obama and mixed race identities. The contributions are by leading writers on a range of perspectives employed in studying ethnicity and race, including critical race feminism, critical rationalism, psychoanalysis, performativity, whiteness studies, and sexuality. Written in an authoritative yet accessible style, this volume is suitable for researchers and advanced students, offering scholars a survey of the state of the art in the literature and students an overview of the field.

Race, Ethnicity and Education in Globalised Times Ruth Arber, 2008-02-12 What is the specificity of contemporary racism? And what happens to questions of race in a context where multiculturalism is taken for granted? Few authors address these kinds of questions with subtlety. For the most part, questions of racism are treated either as self-evident or alternatively as self-evidenced. The first approach accentuates everyday life and played out in media exposés is the tendency to treat racism as manifestly self-evident. We just know what racism is in principle and we just know what it looks like when we see it in practice. Dualistic assumptions dominate this sense of identity relations persons are racist or they are not an act is racist or it is not However despite the obviousness of racism in contexts where different people have different seating arrangements on a bus or somebody says I am better than you because your skin colour is different this approach barely comes to terms with the depth of embodied politics and the elusiveness of structures of racism in the contemporary world International Perspectives on Racial and Ethnic Mixedness and Mixing Rosalind Edwards, 2012 Contributors to this international and interdisciplinary collection interrogate notions of mixedness and mixing and challenge stereotypical assumptions They advance debates in the field through illuminating the complexity of specific historical trajectories administrative practices and lived experience

Politics of Possibility Gary A. Olson, Lynn Worsham, Henry A. Giroux, 2015-12-03 In the probing interviews in this vibrant new book, eminent scholars struggle with some of the most crucial issues facing contemporary intellectuals. Poststructuralist philosopher Judith Butler discusses the pain of rigorous intellectual work, saying that it is necessarily extremely hard labor as she examines the intersection of discourse and political action. Award-winning filmmaker, philosopher, and social theorist David Theo Goldberg reviews his life's work, especially on issues of racism. Literary critic and feminist philosopher Avital Ronell sets out to disrupt the standard logic of signification to force readers into fresh ways of perceiving a subject at hand. Postcolonial theorist Homi Bhabha discusses how critical literacy is intimately connected to the question of democratic representation, and he elaborates on how cultural difference can lead to a politics of discrimination. And neo-Marxist cultural critic Slavoj Žižek takes readers on an exhilarating journey through a wide range of critical subjects.

Colorblindness, Post-racality, and Whiteness in the United States Sherrow O. Pinder, 2015-12-27 This book problematizes the ways in which the discourses of colorblindness and post-racality are articulated in the age of Obama. Pinder debunks the myth that race does not matter and reconsiders the presumptive hegemony of whiteness through the dialectics of visibility and invisibility of race.

Nationalist Politics and Everyday Ethnicity in a Transylvanian Town Rogers Brubaker, Margit Feischmidt, Jon Fox, Liana Grancea, 2018-06-05 Situated on the geographic margins of two nations yet imagined as central to each, Transylvania has long been a site of nationalist struggles. Since the fall of communism, these struggles have been particularly intense in Cluj, Transylvania's cultural and political center. Yet heated nationalist rhetoric has evoked only muted popular response. The citizens of Cluj, the Romanian-speaking majority and the Hungarian-speaking minority, have been largely indifferent to the nationalist claims made in their names. Based on seven years of field research, this book examines not only the sharply polarized fields of nationalist politics in Cluj Transylvania and the wider region but also the more fluid terrain on which ethnicity and nationhood are experienced enacted and understood in everyday life In doing so the book addresses fundamental questions about ethnicity where it is when it matters and how it works Bridging conventional divisions of academic labor Rogers Brubaker and his collaborators employ perspectives seldom found together historical and ethnographic institutional and interactional political and experiential Further developing the argument of Brubaker's groundbreaking Ethnicity without Groups the book demonstrates that it is ultimately in and through everyday experience as much as in political contestation or cultural articulation that ethnicity and nationhood are produced and reproduced as basic categories of social and political life

Race Denise Eileen McCoskey, 2021-03-25 How do different cultures think about race In the modern era racial distinctiveness has been assessed primarily in terms of a person's physical appearance But it was not always so As Denise McCoskey shows the ancient Greeks and Romans did not use skin colour as the basis for categorising ethnic disparity The colour of one's skin lies at the foundation of racial variability today because it was used during the heyday of European exploration and colonialism to construct a hierarchy of civilizations and then justify slavery and other forms of economic exploitation Assumptions about race thus have to take into account factors other than mere physiognomy This is particularly true in relation to the classical world In fifth century Athens racial theory during the Persian Wars produced the categories Greek and Barbarian and set them in brutal opposition to one another a process that could be as intense and destructive as black and white in our own age Ideas about race in antiquity were therefore completely distinct but as closely bound to political and historical contexts as those that came later This provocative book boldly explores the complex matrices of race and the differing interpretations of ancient and modern across epic tragedy and the novel Ranging from Theocritus to Toni Morrison and from Tacitus and Pliny to Bernal's seminal study Black Athena this is a powerful and original new assessment

Colonial Proximities Renisa Mawani, 2010-01-01 Real and imagined encounters among Aboriginal peoples European colonists Chinese migrants and mixed race populations produced racial anxieties that underwrote crossracial contacts in the salmon canneries the illicit liquor trade and the white slavery scare in late nineteenth and early twentieth century British Columbia Colonial Proximities explores the legal and spatial strategies of rule deployed by Indian agents missionaries and legal authorities who aspired to restrict crossracial encounters By connecting genealogies of aboriginal European contact with those of Chinese migration this book reveals that territorial dispossession and Chinese exclusion were never distinct projects but two conjunctive processes in the making of the settler regime Drawing on archival documents and historical records Colonial Proximities historicizes current discussions of multiculturalism and pluralism in modern settler societies by revealing how crossracial interactions in one colonial contact zone inspired juridical racial truths and forms of governance that continue to linger in contemporary racial politics It is essential reading for students and practitioners of history anthropology sociology colonial postcolonial studies and critical race and legal studies
