Racism Modernity And Identity On The Western Front:

Racism, Modernity and Identity Ali Rattansi, Sallie Westwood, 1994 The West has a unique civilization a powerful front of modernity liberty democracy and affluence This volume offers critical perspectives from both inside and outside the cultural and intellectual frontiers of the Western project The primary focus is on analyzing racism and changing ethnicities in Europe and the US in the context of new forms of global dislocation economic recession the resurgence of neo Fascism and a widespread sense of the crisis of Western modernity The chapters assess the value of Marxist perspectives and newer approaches that take modernity and postmodernity as frameworks for analysis They also explore how European identities have been continually reconstructed by a cultural repression of the non Western whether through colonial discourses the denial of Asian Islamic Judaic and African influences or the effects of Eurocentric conceptions of subjectivity in the psychiatric disciplining of ethnic minorities

Constructing Europe's Identity Lars-Erik Cederman, 2001 The authors assess not only the benefits but also the costs of attempts to assert a European identity Referring to debates about the respective merits of deepening and widening they address the equally important associated tradeoffs between exclusion and dilution they point to the risks on the one hand of a Europe that excludes foreign goods immigrants and entire countries and on the other of an unfocused definition of Europe that may dilute the very values that a European identity is intended to protect

Bauman and contemporary sociology Ali Rattansi, 2017-08-01 This is the first single authored critical engagement with the major works of Zygmunt Bauman Where previous books on Bauman have been exegetical here an unwavering light is shone on key themes in the sociologist's work exposing serious weaknesses in Bauman's interpretations of the Holocaust Western modernity consumerism globalisation and the nature of sociology The book shows how Eurocentrism the neglect of issues of gender and a lack of awareness of the racism faced by Europe's non white ethnic minorities seriously limit Bauman's analyses of Western societies At the same time it points to Bauman's repeated insistence on the need for sociologists to take a moral stance in favour of the world's poor and downtrodden as being his most valuable legacy The book will be of great interest to sociologists Its readability will be valued by undergraduates and postgraduates and it will attract a readership well beyond the discipline

fascinating yet disturbing account of the significance of racism in the lives of five and six year old children drawing upon data from an in depth study of an inner city multi ethnic primary school and its surrounding community It represents one of the only detailed studies to give primacy to the voices of the young children themselves giving them the space to articulate their own experiences and concerns Together with detailed observation of the children in the school and local community it provides an important account of how and why they draw upon discourses on race in the development of their gender identities The book graphically highlights the understanding that these children have of issues of race gender and sexuality and the active role they play in using and reworking this knowledge to make sense of their experiences      Global Feminist

Postmodernism David Owen, 1997-03-25 Postmodernism is frequently described as dealing a death blow to sociology This book however argues that it is a mistake to conceive postmodernism in terms of a fatal attack upon what sociologists do The contributors locate the identity of sociology after postmodernism as a contested site which opens up the possibility of re imagining the enterprise of sociology They show how this re imagination might be conducted and trace some of the key potential consequences      Ethnonational Identities

History After the Three Worlds Arif Dirlik, Vinay Bahl, Peter Gran, 2000 History as a discipline

faces a crisis of identity as Eurocentrism fades in a world where globalized visions compete to explain historical processes. Facing the challenge squarely, this volume—comprising specialists on Asia, Africa, and Latin America—explores the state of historical analysis in various world regions and appraises current views on what defines and challenges historical knowledge. It is widely accepted that Eurocentrism no longer seems acceptable in a world where others are reasserting their own notions of past and future. The post-World War II spatialities that guided both historical analysis and the division of labor in historical work are in the process of disappearing into more globalized visions. Constituencies left out of history in the past are making demands for the recognition of their historical presence. History as epistemology is under attack as a marker of Eurocentric modernity from non-historical ways of thinking as well as from ideologies of postmodernism that deny to history its claims to truth. Indeed, the current situation in the field has been described by one distinguished historian as a cacophonous confusion. The challenge historians face is how to imagine new ways of writing history that overcome this confusion without falling back upon ideological and methodological prejudices that reproduce the problems of the past in new guises. The contributors discuss how these challenges are voiced and met in their different areas of specialization. Unsurprising in a volume that addresses a variety of regions and issues that are not only technically historiographical but also deeply cultural and political, the authors differ in their appraisal of the challenges presented by globalization, postmodernism, or postcolonialism. Yet they are united in their recognition of the validity of historical ways of knowing and their reaffirmation of the importance of history in grasping contemporary cultural and political problems. It is because history is entangled in a Eurocentric modernity that in a postmodern world it provides the medium for articulating alternatives to Eurocentrism—and to history itself.
