French Mediterraneans Patricia M. E. Lorcin, Todd Shepard, 2016-05 While the Mediterranean is often considered a distinct unified space recent scholarship on the early modern history of the sea has suggested that this perspective is essentially a Western one devised from the vantage point of imperial power that historically patrolled the region's seas and controlled its ports By contrast for the peoples of its southern shores the Mediterranean was polymorphous shifting with the economic and seafaring exigencies of the moment Nonetheless by the nineteenth century the idea of a monolithic Mediterranean had either been absorbed by or imposed on the populations of the region In French Mediterraneans editors Patricia M E Lorcin and Todd Shepard offer a collection of scholarship that reveals the important French element in the nineteenth and twentieth century creation of the singular Mediterranean These essays provide a critical study of space and movement through new approaches to think about the maps migrations and margins of the sea in the French imperial and transnational context By reconceptualizing the Mediterranean this volume illuminates the diversity of connections between places and polities that rarely fit models of nation state allegiances or preordained geographies Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals, 1987 Daily Report, Foreign Radio Broadcasts United States. The Berber Identity Movement and the Challenge to North African States Bruce Maddy-Weitzman, 2011-05-01 Like many indigenous groups that have endured centuries of subordination the Berber Amazigh peoples of North Africa are demanding linguistic and cultural recognition and the redressing of injustices

Indeed the movement seeks nothing less than a refashioning of the identity of North African states a rewriting of their history and a fundamental change in the basis of collective life In so doing it poses a challenge to the existing political and sociocultural orders in Morocco and Algeria while serving as an important counterpoint to the oppositionist Islamist current This is the first book length study to analyze the rise of the modern ethnocultural Berber Amazigh movement in North Africa and the Berber diaspora Bruce Maddy Weitzman begins by tracing North African history from the perspective of its indigenous Berber inhabitants and their interactions with more powerful societies from Hellenic and Roman times through a millennium of Islam to the era of Western colonialism He then concentrates on the marginalization and eventual reemergence of the Berber question in independent Algeria and Morocco against a background of the growing crisis of regime legitimacy in each country His investigation illuminates many issues including the fashioning of official national narratives and policies aimed at subordinating Berbers in an Arab nationalist and Islamic centered universe the emergence of a counter movement promoting an expansive Berber imagining that emphasizes the rights of minority groups and indigenous peoples and the international aspects of modern Berberism Harold Brown Edward Coltrin Keefer,2018
