Biological and Psychological Factors in Cardiovascular

Disease Thomas H. Schmidt, Theodore M. Dembroski, Gerhard Blümchen, 2012-12-06 An opening address should ask the right questions which we expect to answer during the coming years A good opening address should formulate hypotheses for falsification during the conference or in the near future After Dr Groen's excellent lecture yesterday I feel better about my task because I feel I am not alone in asking the ten questions in my abstract It is an honor for me to give this short paper largely based on my experiences during 15 years as medical director of a rehabilitation center in Bavaria as a teacher at two medical schools in Munich and Innsbruck and as an old-fashioned holistic cardiologist However it also is a difficult task for me because the subject of this conference concerning biobehavioral factors in coronary heart disease is controversial not only in the medical society but in my own mind as well When I organized one of the first conferences on stress and coronary heart disease in West Germany in 1976 followed by conferences in 1979 and 1980 the semantic problems between physicians and psychologists were very significant However communication has improved in this area during the last decade The most encouraging event in this field was a symposium in May 1984 in Rotenburg Fulda on the topic Return to Work after Bypass Surgery organized by a cardiac surgeon Dr Walter

The Role of Sport in Health-Related Promotion of Physical Activity Enrico Micheleni, 2014-11-20 Enrico Micheleni illustrates that sport plays a very marginal role in the contemporary health promotion This is the main result of the present analysis of national strategies for the promotion of physical activity issued by the health ministries of France Germany and Italy All these health strategies are rather ambiguous on this subject They mention sport systematically as an abstract term but they marginalise it as a medium of health in its traditional competitive form As a consequence while sport has generally been considered healthy over a long period in the past most health organisations today recommend only moderate physical activity as conducive to good health The author examines this paradigmatic change in the international discussion about the forms of health enhancing physical activity through a theoretical framework based on Luhmann's systems theory
