Mikhail Bakhtin Michael F. Bernard-Donals, 1995-02-24 The language theory of Mikhail Bakhtin does not fall neatly under any single rubric dialogism marxism prosaics authorship because the philosophic foundation of his writing rests ambivalently between phenomenology and Marxism The theoretical tension of these positions creates philosophical impasses in Bakhtin's work which have been neglected or ignored partly because these impasses are themselves mirrored by the problems of antifoundationalist and materialist tendencies in literary scholarship In Mikhail Bakhtin Between Phenomenology and Marxism Michael Bernard Donals examines various incarnations of phenomenological and materialist theory including the work of Jauss Fish Rorty Althusser and Pecheux and places them beside Bakhtin's work providing a contextualised study of Bakhtin a critique of the problems of contemporary critics and an original contribution to literary theory

Surfaces of Strangeness Simone Oettli-van Delden,2003 Bianco in Questione Susan Petrilli,2007 Translation Translation ,2021-07-26 Translation Translation contributes to current debate on the question of translation dealt with in an interdisciplinary perspective with implications not only of a theoretical order but also of the didactic and the practical orders In the context of globalization the question of translation is fundamental for education and responds to new community needs with reference to Europe and more extensively to the international world In its most obvious sense translation concerns verbal texts and their relations among different languages However to remain within the sphere of verbal signs languages consist of a plurality of different languages that also relate to each other through translation processes Moreover translation occurs between verbal languages and nonverbal languages and among nonverbal languages without necessarily involving verbal languages Thus far the allusion is to translation processes within the sphere of anthroposemiosis But translation occurs among signs and the signs implicated are those of the semiotic sphere in its totality which are not exclusively signs of the linguistic verbal order Beyond anthroposemiosis translation is a fact of life and invests the entire biosphere or biosemiosphere as clearly evidenced by research in biosemiotics for where there is life there are signs and where there are signs or semiotic processes there is translation indeed semiotic processes are translation processes According to this approach reflection on translation obviously cannot be restricted to the domain of linguistics but must necessarily involve semiotics the general science or theory of signs In this theoretical framework essays have been included not only from major translation experts but also from researchers working in different areas in addition to semiotics and linguistics also philosophy literary criticism cultural studies gender studies biology and the medical sciences All scholars work on problems of translation in the light of their own special competencies and interests
