Translation and Interpreting as Social Interaction Claire Y. Shih, Caiwen Wang, 2024-01-11. Adopting the tripartite theory of social psychology as its theoretical framework, this book advocates that the three components of social interaction affect behaviour and cognition underpin the daily activities of translators and interpreters. In particular, it argues that the affect or emotion of translators and interpreters should not be overlooked or treated as a separate entity but as a crucial link between their mental process, cognition, and physical process behaviour. This central theme of the intertwining nature of the affect, behaviour, and cognition of translators and interpreters is examined theoretically, empirically, and methodologically, with contributions from around the world featuring literary translation, translator training, and interpreters' practice. It is a timely contribution to the field of Translation Process Research where affect is increasingly recognised as playing a key role in translation and interpreting phenomena.

Translation and Web Localization provides an in-depth and comprehensive overview into this emerging field of study. The book covers the key areas and main theoretical and practical approaches of the subject rather than a step-by-step practical guide.
