Policing Canadian Society:

Policing Canadian Society Dennis Forcese, 1998 Appropriate as the main text for level 200 300 Sociology of Policing courses or as a supplementary text in criminal justice courses The author provides a general description illustration and commentary on policing throughout Canada The types of issues covered include police recruitment and training police accountability use of force and misconduct policing and the media unions and police community relations The Canadian Criminal Justice System Nick Larsen, 1995 The administration of justice is an area of social policy that defies attempts to achieve a balance between order and the protection of the public and respect for individual rights The media contain daily accounts of the failure of the criminal justice system to repress crime It is within this social and legal context that this work is situated In addition to including a range of articles in the standard areas of policing courts and corrections recent articles deal with such controversial issues as aboriginal justice the recruitment of visible minorities by Canadian police forces and the role of women in the Canadian criminal justice system The collection concludes with a critical assessment of the retributive model that currently serves as the philosophical underpinnings of the Canadian criminal justice system

Policing Canada's Century Greg Marquis, 1993-12-15 Although the RCMP is often identified as a national symbol Canadian police history is largely the story of municipal and provincial police forces who have had little influence on popular culture but considerable impact on the lives of Canadians Municipal police forces predate the Mounties by a generation and first began to articulate their concerns through the Chief Constables Association of Canada CCAC in 1905 The development of this little studied non governmental organization known since the 1950s as the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police CACP has been a crucial part of our criminal justice history The CACP CCAC story mirrors the social and intellectual history of policing in twentieth century Canada Beginning with an overview of nineteenth century policing and the conditions that led to the establishment of this first police lobby Policing Canada's Century is a chronicle of police reaction to social change and the rise of new institutions reform movements and methods of managing the population The biggest period of growth was from 1961 to 1975 coinciding with the maturation of the welfare state when the number of police officers in relation to population increased by more than 50 per cent The social change and legal reforms of the 1960s and 1970s caused CACP to reorganize and to found a permanent secretariat in Ottawa Four major themes emerge all of which remain at the heart of public debates over policing The first is technological change particularly in the areas of information storage retrieval and exchange Second is the relationship between politics and law enforcement Government insensitivity to police needs has been a rallying cry since 1905 at police chiefs meetings Also discussed is the subject of police accountability which has had increased public attention in the past two decades The third theme of practical criminology is an occupational response to the reforms of the law and covers the Juvenile Delinquent Act the creation of the provincial court system probation parole and legal aid The final concern is the search for professionalism and status with attempts to improve recruitment training discipline salaries working conditions and public relations This book is both a history of Canada's major police professional association and an examination of twentieth century police administration issues The Wicked Problems of Police Reform in Canada Laura Huey, Lorna Ferguson, Jennifer L. Schulenberg, 2022-08-12 This book looks at police reform in Canada arguing that no significant and sustainable reform can occur until steps are taken to answer the question of What exactly do we want police to do Adding challenge to this is that setting boundaries on what we expect the police to do requires grappling with the complex social problems we ask them to resolve In public policy language these are wicked problems social or cultural issues frequently seen as intractable Authors Huey Ferguson and Schulenberg all policing scholars draw on a unique collection of data to explore these issues over 20 years of research 2000-2021 ranging from in depth interviews surveys and field observations to document analysis and systematic social observation Pooling this data generates a national level picture of changes in the policing operational environment over these decades This book focuses on four particular wicked problems mental health substance misuse homelessness missing persons with causes and potential preventative treatments that lie primarily outside the criminal justice system and yet continue to be treated as policing problems Bringing about changes in public policing requires changes in public policy and these are precisely the types of wicked problems that need innovative policy solutions This book is suitable for a wide range of audiences within and outside Canada including law enforcement and community leaders scholars and policy experts who specialize in policing students of criminal justice organizations and management and citizen consumers of information about policing Police Dennis Force, 2000-11 These essays address issues like police regionalization the role of police unions the use of police tactical units and the role of women in policing

Ethics and Canadian Law Enforcement Richard Parent, Catherine Parent, 2018-08-22 Ethics and Canadian Law Enforcement offers a comprehensive overview of law enforcement decision making procedures in Canada and evaluates the ethical conduct expected of law enforcement personnel such as police officers sheriffs correctional officers and private security Dr Richard Parent a police officer for more than 30 years draws on his professional experience to examine codes of conduct internal investigations misconduct and discipline and the purpose of the civilian review This text provides an exceptional overview of the theories personal morals values and tenets of professionalism that lay the foundation for ethical decision making Selected topics examine the use of force on and off duty challenges issues of accountability and oversight the application of issued firearms diversity in the law enforcement workforce and the considerations that are unique to law enforcement policies within Indigenous communities This accessible resource which features boxed examples chapter summaries key terms self evaluation questions and critical thinking exercises is ideal for college and university students enrolled in police foundation and criminal justice programs as well as law enforcement training agencies Police Powers in Canada University of Alberta. Centre for Constitutional Studies, 1994-01-01 The television spectacles of Oka and the Rodney King affair served to focus public disaffection with the police a disaffection that has been growing for several years In Canada confidence in the police is at an all time low At the same time crime rates continue to rise Canada now has the dubious distinction of having the second highest crime rate in the Western world How did this state of affairs come about What do we want from our police How do we achieve policing that is consistent with the Charter of Rights and Freedoms The essays in this volume set out to explore these questions In their introduction the editors point out that constitutional order is tied to the exercise of power by law enforcement agencies and that if relations between the police and civil society continue to erode the exercise of force will rise a dangerous prospect for democratic societies

The New Parapolice George Rigakos,2002-01-01 Rigakos argues that for profit policing and security companies adopt many of the tactics and functions of the public police and are less distinguishable from the latter than has been previously assumed in the criminological literature

Encyclopedia of Law Enforcement Larry E Sullivan,Marie Simonetti Rosen,Dorothy M Schulz,M. R. Habersfeld,2004-12-15 Click Additional Materials for downloadable samples Although there is a plethora of studies on crime and punishment law enforcement is a relatively new field of serious research When courts sentencing prisons jails and other areas of the criminal justice system are studied often the first point of entry into the system is through police and law enforcement agencies Unfortunately understanding of the important issues in law enforcement has little general literature to draw on Currently available reference works on policing are narrowly focused and sorely out of date To this end a distinguished roster of authors representing many years of knowledge and practice in the field draw on the latest research and methods to delineate describe and analyze all areas of law enforcement This three volume Encyclopedia of Law Enforcement provides a comprehensive critical and descriptive examination of all facets of law enforcement on the state and local federal and national and international stages This work is a unique reference source that provides readers with informed discussions on the practice and theory of policing in an historical and contemporary framework The volumes treat subjects that are particular to the area of state and local federal and national and international policing Many of the themes and issues of policing cut across disciplinary borders however and several entries provide comparative information that places the subject in context

Key Features Three volumes cover state and local federal and international law enforcement More than 250 contributors composed over 400 essays on all facets of law enforcement An editorial board made up of the leading scholars researchers and practitioners in the field of law enforcement
