Political Economy Of Regional Cooperation In The Middle East:

The Political Economy of Regional Cooperation in the Middle East Ali Carkoglu, Mine Eder, Kemal Kirisci, 2005-07-08 This book explores the current anatomy of regional cooperation and why it has often failed to take hold. It offers an alternative view of politics and international relations in the Middle East. The findings show that co-operation between many of the more open regimes such as Israel, Jordan, Egypt, Palestine and Turkey can pave the way to increased stability in the region. The authors argue that focusing on international and regional factors alone is insufficient in explaining the prevailing instability in the region. Instead, they highlight domestic factors as crucial to understanding conflict and co-operation in the Middle East. Using many examples and looking particularly at Turkey's experiences, this study shows why it is essential to mobilize domestic support for co-operation amongst countries and regions of the Middle East. Without such support from economic and social groups, inter-governmental co-operation is less likely to last.

Beyond Regionalism? Matteo Legrenzi, 2016-04-15 Regional cooperation, regionalism and regionalization in the Middle East are usually considered to be weak and rather ceremonial. However, since September 11, 2001, a new regional order is emerging and the impact of geostrategic changes in the international environment has yet to be satisfactorily studied. With older regional organizations suffering from weaknesses, new forms appear to be developing and flourishing due either to European support or growing sub-regional identities. This volume offers refined theoretical models and approaches which are attuned to the new dynamics and contradictions of a wide range of regionalist projects in the contemporary Middle East. Case studies of the most important regional organizations in different policy fields offer comprehensive overviews of the main actors, institutions, historical development and current issues.

The Political Economy of Middle East Peace J.W. Wright Jr., 2013-06-17 The Political Economy of Middle East Peace looks at the political economy of the Middle Eastern peace process with a focus on the politics of trade. Contributors investigate the ways new commercial alliances develop as a result of economic agencies established via the Arab-Israeli peace process and look at institutions which contribute to redirection of Arab intra and inter-regional trade such as the Palestine Monetary Authority, the Middle East Development Bank and free trade zone agencies in Aquaba and Dubai.

Regional Integration in the Middle East and North Africa Tarik Oumazzane, 2021 This book analyses and assesses the Agadir Agreement's impact on economic integration, its effect on political cooperation and its role in promoting peace between participating countries in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA). Since the Arab Spring of 2011, the geo-political situation in MENA has further drifted towards instability and uncertainty. Expert analysis of the region seems to lurch from one crisis to another without moving beyond a focus on conflict. Few scholars have recognised that the MENA governments have long regarded regional economic integration as a chief policy objective to facilitate intra regional trade and promote political cooperation and peace Realising the shortcomings of the various integrative processes Morocco Tunisia Egypt and Jordan signed the Agadir Agreement in 2004 To this date it stands as one of the most significant economic agreements in the MENA region Taking into account this variety of factors this book offers a new assessment of the pull between unity and disunity in the Middle East and North Africa region Dr Tarik Oumazzane is Lecturer in Middle East North Africa Studies in the Department of History at the University of Nottingham United Kingdom He has taught and convened several modules including International History of the Middle East and North Africa War and Peace in the Post Arab Spring Political Economy of Under Development International Relations and Global History and Liberating Africa Decolonisation Development and the Cold War Bulletin of Regional Cooperation in the Middle East ,2001 The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Regionalism Tanja A. Alaa Abdel-Moneim, 2015-09-07 The failure of reform policies in areas of critical importance to Arab populations such as health and education played a central role in igniting the Arab Awakening yet this policy perspective has been largely absent from recent studies of the region Arab regimes most reliant on repression to guarantee their survival were also those most vulnerable to mass politics Where threats to regime survival have been limited so have more meaningful reforms been possible finding an alternative to political change through focusing on soft policy areas such as education A Political Economy of Arab Education offers a comprehensive analysis of K 12 education systems in Arab countries deepening understanding of their administrative structures and outcomes and exploring how political considerations have impacted the ability of Arab regimes to engage in meaningful reform Taking a unique comparative political economy perspective it examines the reasons behind policy stagnation in Arab countries addressing the effects of size history and political stability on the design and implementation of policies and administrative structures Its informed analysis and comparison of education systems provides new insight into Arab regimes and highlights factors pulling them towards either stagnation or reform Examining the sustainability of reforms and establishing the benefits of engaging in meaningful change this book sheds light on why some regimes survived the Arab Spring while others crumbled and formulates convincing predictions on the potential for future regime change in the region This book will be of key interest to students and scholars of Middle Eastern Studies International and Comparative Education and Development Studies
