

The Biopolitics of the War on Terror: a critique of the 'return of imperialism' thesis in international relations

JULIAN REID

ABSTRACT The 'war on terror' is widely regarded as instigating a major regression within the development of the international system. Processes of globalisation are being challenged, it is argued, by a reassertion of the sovereign power of nation-states, most especially the USA. In more overt terms this regression is represented as a 'return' of a traditional form of imperialism. This 'return of imperialism' thesis challenges the claims of theories developed during the 1990s which concentrate on the roles of deterritorialisation and the development of biopolitics in accounting for the constitution of the contemporary international order. In contrast this paper seeks to detail the important respects in which biopolitical forces of deterritorialisation continue to play an integral role within the strategies of power that make the war on terror possible. Rather than understanding the war on terror as a form of 'regression' it is necessary to pay heed to the complex intertwinings that continue to bind sovereign and biopolitical forms of power in the 21st century. Such an understanding is urgent in that it provides for different grounds from which to reflect on the processes by which international order is currently being reconstituted and to help think about how to engage in reshaping them.

The final decade of the 20th century was characterised by vast changes in the organisation of power internationally. The end of the Cold War, the development and strengthening of international organisations, intensive technological innovation, the growth and spread of practices and institutions of liberal democracy, the proliferation of non-governmental organisations and spread of a 'global' civil society, the penetration of capitalism into previously non-capitalist societies, the emergence of new systems of global governance, all subsumed within the onslaught of what came to be known both heroically and pejoratively as globalisation, were major hallmarks of the immediately post-cold war era. These forms of change served to challenge and undermine many of the most traditional assumptions made by international relations theorists as to what constitutes power internationally. At the centre of the discipline liberal conceptions of power that privileged the

Political Terrorism An Indictment Of Imperialism:

Political Terrorism Yu Pankov, 1983-01-01 Political Terrorism - an Indictment of Imperialism, 1983 Political Terrorism A.J. Jongman, 2017-07-28 While there is no easy way to define terrorism it may generally be viewed as a method of violence in which civilians are targeted with the objective of forcing a perceived enemy into submission by creating fear demoralization and political friction in the population under attack At one time a marginal field of study in the social sciences terrorism is now very much in center stage The 1970s terrorist attacks by the PLO the Provisional Irish Republican Army the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine the Japanese Red Army the Unabomber Aum Shinrikyo Timothy McVeigh the World Trade Center attacks the assault on a school in Russia and suicide bombers have all made the term terrorism an all too common part of our vocabulary This edition of Political Terrorism was originally published in the 1980s well before some of the horrific events noted above This monumental collection of definitions conceptual frameworks paradigmatic formulations and bibliographic sources is being reissued in paperback now as a resource for the expanding community of researchers on the subject of terrorism This is a carefully constructed guide to one of the most urgent issues of the world today When the first edition was originally published Choice noted This extremely useful reference tool should be part of any serious social science collection Chronicles of Culture called it a tremendously comprehensive book about a subject that any who have anything to lose from property to liberty life to limbs should be forewarned against Terrorism in the Cold War Adrian Hänni, Thomas Riegler, Przemyslaw Gasztold, 2020-09-17 Accounts of the relationships between states and terrorist organizations in the Cold War era have long been shaped by speculation a lack of primary sources and even conspiracy theories In the last few years however things have evolved rapidly Using a wide range of case studies including the KGB s Abduction Program Polish Military Intelligence and North Korea s Terrorism and Counterterrorism this book sheds new light on the relations between state and terrorist actors allowing for a fresh and much more insightful assessment of the contacts dealings agreements and collusion with terrorist organizations undertaken by state actors on both sides of the Iron Curtain This book presents the current state of research and provides an assessment of the nature motives effects and major historical shifts of the relations between individual states and terrorist organizations The articles collected demonstrate that these state terrorism relationships were not only much more ambiguous than much of the older literature had suggested but are in fact crucial for the understanding of global political history in the Cold War era The Politics of Terrorism, Third Edition, Stohl, 1988-01-29 Placing terrorists and terrorist activities within their sociopolitical settings this volume contains essays by 16 experts on the major theories typologies concepts strategies tactics ideologies practices implications of and responses to contemporary political terrorism New to this edition are essays on typologies and state terrorism in international affairs and terrorism within Latin America the Middle East the United States Western Europe and sub Saharan Africa The authors demystify the myths of contemporary political terrorism and conclude with discussions of the

interrelationship among political terrorism the media and civil liberties counterterrorism policies the threat that terrorists will go nuclear and the international terrorist network ISBN 0 8247 7814 6 45 00 Imperialism, War & Terrorism Doug Lorimer, 2007 Terrorism and International Law Ramaa Prasad Dhokalia, 1988 The Indian Journal of International Law, 1987 Issues for 1960 include a section of official documents Colonialism, Neo-Colonialism, and Anti-Terrorism Law in the Arab World Fatemah Alzubairi, 2019-01-10 The threat of personal harm and destruction from terrorist attacks is nowhere near as great as in Arab nations However are counter terrorism laws in the Arab world formulated and enforced to protect or oppress Colonialism Neo Colonialism and Anti Terrorism Law in the Arab World examines the relationship between Western influence and counter terrorism law focusing on the Arab world which is on the one hand a hostile producer of terrorist organizations and on the other a leader in countering terrorism With case studies of Egypt and Tunisia Alzubairi traces the colonial roots of the use of coercion and extra legal measures to protect the ruling order which are now justified in both the West and the Arab world in the name of counter terrorism Colonialism Neo Colonialism and Anti Terrorism Law in the Arab World provides important lessons for counter terrorism not just in these countries but also elsewhere in the world Counterterrorism and Colonialism Alice Finden, 2025-03-31 This book uses feminist and postcolonial approaches to archival research and interviews to interrogate the persistence of colonial logics in contemporary counterterrorism practice exposing how forms of state violence are normalised and legitimised The book investigates the historical development of preventive tools through the discursive imagery of vulnerability morality and extremism that characterise contemporary counterterrorism and counter violent extremism in Britain and Egypt In so doing the book argues that counterterror tools are based upon a colonial hierarchy of humanity that legitimises more violent treatment for racialised classed and gendered subjects This volume will appeal to scholars and students of critical terrorism studies socio legal studies and criminology It will also fit within sociology and critical theory courses on postcolonialism and gender studies as well as courses on colonialism feminist histories and critical legal history international politics international relations and Middle Eastern politics
