Saunders Lewis:

Saunders Lewis Bruce Griffiths, 1989 The Mabinogi Charles William Sullivan, 1996 Culture in Practice collects the academic and political writings from the 1960s through the 1990s of anthropologist Marshall Sahlins. More than a compilation, Culture in Practice unfolds as an intellectual autobiography. The book opens with Sahlins's early general studies of culture, economy, and human nature. It then moves to his reportage and reflections on the war in Vietnam and the antiwar movement, the event that most strongly affected his thinking about cultural specificity. Finally, it offers his more historical and globally aware works on indigenous peoples, especially those of the Pacific islands. Sahlins exposes the cultural specificity of the West, developing a critical account of the distinctive ways that we act in and understand the world. The book includes a play review of Robert Ardrey's sociobiology essays on native consumption patterns of food and clothes in America and the West, explorations of how two thousand years of Western cosmology affect our understanding of others, and ethnohistorical accounts of how cultural orders of Europeans and Pacific islanders structured the historical experiences of both. Throughout, Sahlins offers his own way of thinking about the anthropological project. To transcend critically our native categories in order to understand how other peoples have historically constructed their modes of existence, even now in the era of globalization, is the great challenge of contemporary anthropology. The Cambridge History of Welsh Literature Geraint Evans, Helen Fulton, 2019-04-18 This book is a comprehensive single volume history of literature in the two major languages of Wales from post-Roman to post-devolution Britain. Saunders Lewis Saunders Lewis, Harri Pritchard Jones, 1990-05-01 Wales in England, 1914-1945 Wendy Ugolini, 2024-05-10 At the beginning of the twentieth century, for many English men and women of Welsh origin, the idea of being in some part Welsh reaffirmed their own understanding of what it meant to be British. Wales in England, 1914-1945 is the first cultural history of this English-Welsh duality, an identification with two constituent nations at once, and explores how Welshness was imagined, performed, and mobilised in England during and between the two world wars. In so doing, and making use of individual English-Welsh case studies from the worlds of politics, art, literature, and soldiering, the book provides a wholly new perspective on the social, cultural, and military history of Britain at war. It shows English-Welsh duality to have been an important strand of pluralistic Britishness in wartime, and that this diasporic construction of Welshness held a wide urban appeal with significant implications for military enlistment, cultural production, and commemorative practices in England. Working at the intersection of war studies, British studies, and diaspora studies, Wales in England makes a significant contribution to four nations' history and the history of British society at war.

It is packed with original materials but is written in a highly accessible style by an author who recently won a Welsh Book of the Year award. It throws a wholly new light on Wales, revealing a country that has long been internationalist in cultural outlook, well prepared to look in directions other than that of England

Belonging and Estrangement in the Poetry of Philip Larkin, R.S. Thomas and Charles Causley Rory Waterman, 2016-04-22 Focusing on the significance of place connection and relationship in three poets who are seldom considered in conjunction Rory Waterman argues that Philip Larkin R S Thomas and Charles Causley epitomize many of the emotional and societal shifts and mores of their age Waterman looks at the foundations underpinning their poetry the attempts of all three to forge a sense of belonging with or separateness from their readers the poets varying responses to their geographical and cultural origins the belonging and estrangement that inheres in relationships including marriage the forced estrangements of war the antagonism between social belonging and a need for isolation and finally the charged issues of faith and mortality in an increasingly secularized country
