Canadian Literary Landmarks John Robert Colombo, 1984-01-01 Canadian Literary Landmarks A History of Canadian Fiction David Staines, 2021-08-05 A History of Canadian Fiction is the first one volume history to chart its development from earliest times to the present day Recounting the struggles and the glories of this burgeoning area of investigation it explains Canada's literary growth alongside its remarkable history Highlighting the people who have shaped and are shaping Canadian literary culture the book examines such major figures as Mavis Gallant Mordecai Richler Alice Munro Margaret Atwood Michael Ondaatje and Thomas King concluding with young authors of today whose major successes reflect their indebtedness to their Canadian forbearers Racial Attitudes in English-Canadian Fiction, 1905-1980 Terrence Craig, 2010-10-30 Racial Attitudes in English Canadian Fiction is a critical overview of the appearances and consequences of racism in English Canadian fiction published between 1905 and 1980 Based on an analysis of traditional expressions in literature of group solidarity and resentment the study screens English Canadian novels for fictional representations of such feelings Beginning with the English Canadian reaction to the mass influx of immigrants into Western Canada after World War One it examines the fiction of novelists such as Ralph Connor and Nellie McClung The author then suggests that the cumulative effect of a number of individual voices such as Grove and Salverson constituted a counter reaction which has been made more positive by Laurence Lydenko Richler and Clarke The debate between these two sides carried on in fictional and non fictional writing is seen to be in part resolved in synthesis after World War Two as attitudes are forced by wartime alliances and intellectual pressures into a qualified liberalism The author shows how single novels by Graham Bodsworth and Callaghan demonstrated a new concern for the exposure and eradication of racial discrimination an attitude taken further by the works of Wiebe and Klein The book concentrates on single texts that best portray deliberately or not racist ideology or anti racist arguments and attempts to explain the arousal in Canada of such ideas "Collecting Stamps Would Have Been More Fun" Sinclair Ross, 2010-07-15 The peculiar struggles of Canadian authors are writ large in the letters of Sinclair Ross

"Collecting Stamps Would Have Been More Fun" Jordan Stouck, David Stouck, 2010-07-15 This unique exchange of letters between literary icon Sinclair Ross and several prominent writers publishers agents and editors asks why many Canadian artists especially those in western provinces spent a lifetime struggling for recognition and remuneration Featuring exchanges with Earle Birney Margaret Laurence and Margaret Atwood among others this collection exposes the conditions of cultural work in Canada for much of the twentieth century This vivid often moving selection of professional and personal letters plus the only formal interview Ross ever gave provides a valuable resource for those engaged with the history of

Country Dick Harrison,1977 Americans have an idea of what the Great Plains did to the people who settled there but know little about the analogous process north of the 49th parallel or how it was reflected in fiction Dick Harrison's Unnamed Country fills this gap Harrison traces the varying literary responses to the Canadian prairies from the bewilderment of the first English speaking visitors who saw the country in essentially negative terms no wood no water down to the contemporary novelists who are employing sophisticated modern fictional techniques to reinterpret the whole experience from a new perspective Between these two ends of the literary continuum he finds the early writers of fiction too loaded down with what he calls excess cultural baggage brought from Britain or eastern Canada to see the country as it was the early twentieth century writers bemused by the myth of the garden who portrayed the prairies subdued and fruitful the prairie realists of the 1920s and 1930s akin to O E Rolvaag in their tragic view and their contemporaries the popular novelists who depicted the pioneering process in more affirmative tones As For Sinclair Ross David Stouck,2005-12-15 Sinclair Ross 1908 1996

best known for his canonical novel As for Me and My House 1941 and for such familiar short stories as The Lamp at Noon and The Painted Door is an elusive figure in Canadian literature A master at portraying the hardships and harsh beauty of the Prairies during the Great Depression Ross nevertheless received only modest attention from the public during his lifetime His reluctance to give readings or interviews further contributed to this faint public perception of the man In As for Sinclair Ross David Stouck tells the story of a lonely childhood in rural Saskatchewan of a long and unrewarding career in a bank and of many failed attempts to be published and to find an audience The book also tells the story of a man who fell in love with both men and women and who wrote from a position outside any single definition of gender and sexuality Stouck's biography draws on archival records and on insights gathered during an acquaintance late in Ross's life to illuminate this difficult author describing in detail the struggles of a gifted artist living in an inhospitable time and place Stouck argues that when Ross was writing about prairie farmers and small towns he wanted his readers to see the kind of society they were creating to feel uncomfortable with religion as coercive rhetoric prejudices based on race and ethnicity and rigid notions of gender As for Sinclair Ross is the story of a remarkable writer whose works continue to challenge us and are rightly considered classics of Canadian literature Rapt in Plaid Elizabeth Waterston,2003-12-01 Illustrate a long lasting connection between
