School Social Work JoAnn Jarolmen, 2013-03-28 School Social Work A Direct Practice Guide is a text for courses in school social work It covers the foundations of working with children and adolescents in schools applying practice knowledge to the special school and population settings The main goal of this text is to provide hands on and practical experience for students studying to become school social workers Each chapter will review a basic concept and then use two in depth activities to apply the concepts to practice The Practice of Social Work in Schools Wendy Glasgow Winters, Freda Easton, 1983 School Social Work Betsy Ledbetter Hancock, 1982 The Art of Becoming Indispensable Tory Cox, Terence Fitzgerald, Michelle Alvarez, 2021-09-24 The Art of Being Indispensable What School Social Workers Need to Know in Their First Three Years of Practice is a vital resource for newly hired school social workers that helps bridge the gap between classroom theory and field practice The Domains and Demands of School Social Work Practice Michael S Kelly, 2008-04-14 School social work enters its second century as a profession still conflicted about its central mission Are school social workers meant to be in house clinicians providing services to kids in need or are they meant to be involved in program development to enhance the social and emotional learning of all students in a school How much time should they devote to serving whole families or consulting with teachers Whatever school social workers claim to do in their schools it is clear that they are going to have to prove that they are effective doing it The demands of federal legislation like No Child Left Behind and state requirements for certification are making it increasingly necessary that school social workers demonstrate that they are highly qualified school based mental health and social service professionals who can demonstrate outcomes that impact school bottom line issues like student achievement attendance and behavior Rather than recoil from this pressure school social workers can utilize the skills of evidence based practice EBP to help them enhance both their effectiveness and their knowledge of interventions that work to help students teachers parents and staff in school contexts A succinct SSWAA Workshop volume The Domains and Demands of School Social Work Practice demonstrates how EBP can be integrated into school social worker s daily practice advancing the debate about where social workers can and should intervene and how to do so effectively Highlighting primary clinical issues family problems and school wide needs faced by school social workers it helps practitioners make the best use of evidence to be flexible effective advocates at all levels of practice School Social Work in Illinois Illinois. Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction,1970 Family Engagement with Schools Nancy Feyl Chavkin,2017 Family Engagement with Schools is unique because it is the only book written especially for social workers and social work students who work in partnership with educators The text introduces social workers to the new Dual Capacity Building Framework and the latest resources School Social Work Iowa. Constable,John P. Flynn,Shirley McDonald,1991 School Social Work Practice in Texas Bethany Eylan Gerlach,2011 School social work practice that targets students and schools for change is the most effective approach in removing barriers to learning for all students However research on the profession has found that school social workers tend to focus on traditional clinical work with individual students and families often to the exclusion of broader system level interventions Working to create a positive school climate is an avenue for social workers to facilitate school wide change This research explores how school social workers employ a practice approach that embraces a broad clinical framework specifically including skills associated with building a positive school climate The study also analyzes how specific school social worker characteristics are associated with the performance of practice tasks related to enhancing school climate The project examines data collected from social workers practicing in Texas public schools as part of an exploratory mixed method survey The analysis utilized descriptive statistics and a hierarchical cluster analysis to group the school social workers with similar response patterns for the practice task variables Descriptive statistics revealed that 93% of the school social workers participated in at least one of eight general practice tasks related to school climate dimensions and 77% participated in at least four of the eight The cluster analysis yielded a solution that grouped the participants into four clusters Once the clusters were profiled three school social worker characteristics were found to significantly relate to the completion of tasks associated with school climate perception of autonomy job structure and years of experience The results show widespread use of practice skills that target multiple dimensions of school climate The findings lend support to the feasibility of participating in the school climate related tasks across school settings and school social worker characteristics The research findings place school social worker expertise in a school reform framework and captures how they can contribute to school wide change within their routine practice duties School Social Work Horace W.
