Sentience Companion To Reason:

Public Administration and Epistemology Arthur Sementelli, 2020-12-28 Knowledge does not happen in a vacuum yet scholars and other professionals tend to engage in management scholarship focused on their specific niche often without knowing if or how their work might relate to other research streams Further exacerbating things people within specific disciplines including management tend not to communicate regularly outside of their relatively homogeneous audiences If we were able to bridge communication among these groups scholars and practitioners we might be able to better understand one another in a way that is contextually informed by each other's experiences Sementelli argues that understanding concepts of power agency and experience can provide such tools to orient management theories and practices relative to one another Using critical management thought to frame a discussion of ontology and how knowledge emerges from it enables the development of an orienting sandbox that works both practically and intellectually Such a sandbox enables us not just to communicate one's organizational priorities but also reveal some underlying reasons for those priorities and areas of inquiry This monograph focuses on public administration in particular as a special case of critical management research This book also examines the complexity of experiences of being using Karl Jaspers as a basis The sandbox that emerges can be used as a way to organize and orient management thought especially in the public sector It contributes both to administrative thought and applied inquiry into philosophy and will be of interest to researchers academics and students in the fields of critical management studies organizational studies and public administration

Sentience Ming Singer, 2003 This book is about bridging the current deeply held divide between sentience and reason It focuses on the pragmatic role of sentient experience and its unceasing and inseparable interplay with the exercise of reason Part I of the book deals first with the need for synthesizing the hitherto separate truth finding knowledge traditions the third personal scientific technological and the first personal humanistic wisdom tradition A conceptual framework for a mind reality is then proposed Drawing from the unifying natural laws in current physical and biological sciences the mind reality is portrayed in terms of one interlocking open dynamic system with both a manifested and a covert aspect In this entire system each individual mind constantly co creates and co evolves with other collective or group minds at various levels It is also presumed that the basic unit of interaction in the mind reality is thought or intent Supporting evidence from psychology parapsychology and the ancient perennial philosophies is presented The second part of the book addresses the pragmatic consequences of the proposed mind reality At the individual level it is argued that sentient experience can serve the function of guiding affirming and fostering an individual's life's work A selection of existing first personal accounts is presented to illustrate this point At the collective level the current dominant collective thought of new capitalism has the unfortunate consequences for humanity's sense of freedom education and morality Such consequences pertain to the exteriorization and the deconstruction of the intrinsic self and intrinsic values To avoid this to happen a collective effort at changing consciousness becomes necessary the core task lies with the closure of the reason and sentience divide

Animals, Political Liberalism and Public Reason Federico Zuolo, 2020-07-17 This book explores the problem of disagreement concerning the treatment of animals in a liberal society Current laws include an unprecedented concern for animal welfare yet disagreement remains pervasive This issue has so far been neglected both in political philosophy and animal ethics Although starting from disagreement has been the hallmark of many politically liberal theories none have been devoted to the treatment of animals and conversely most theories in animal ethics do not take the disagreement on this issue seriously Bridging this divide with a change of perspective Zuolo argues that we should begin from the disagreement on the moral status of animals and the treatment we owe them Reconstructing the epistemic nature of disagreement about animals Zuolo proposes a novel form of public justification to find principles acceptable to all By setting out a unified framework which honours the liberal principles of respect for diversity a robust liberal political theory capable of dealing with diverse forms of disagreement and even some forms of radical dissent is achieved

Richard Dawkins: The Pope of Unreason Mike Hockney, 2014-12-19 A book attacking the ideology of Richard Dawkins is invariably assumed to be a defence of religious faith Nothing could be further from the truth in this case This book equates faith with insanity Instead it argues that we live in the hyperrational reality of ontological mathematics We attack the scientific dogma of Dawkins and his fellow travellers for being incompatible with ontological mathematics and in fact constituting a quasi religious hence mad faith in empiricism materialism randomness and meaninglessness nihilism all of which are refuted by ontological mathematics which reflects the principle of sufficient reason Are you rational enough for the truth Are you intelligent enough to be an ontological mathematician Many are called few are chosen

Rethinking Moral Status Steve Clarke, Hazem Zohny, Julian Savulescu, 2021-08-05 Common sense morality implicitly assumes that reasonably clear distinctions can be drawn between the full moral status that is usually attributed to ordinary adult humans the partial moral status attributed to non human animals and the absence of moral status which is usually ascribed to machines and other artifacts These implicit assumptions have long been challenged and are now coming under further scrutiny as there are beings we have recently become able to create as well as beings that we may soon be able to create which blur the distinctions between human non human animal and non biological beings These beings include non human chimeras cyborgs human brain organoids post humans and human minds that have been uploaded into computers and onto the internet and artificial intelligence It is far from clear what moral status we should attribute to any of these beings There are a number of ways we could respond to the new challenges these technological developments raise we might revise our ordinary assumptions about what is needed for a being to possess full moral status or reject the assumption that there is a sharp distinction between full and partial moral status This volume explores such responses and provides a forum for philosophical reflection about ordinary presuppositions and intuitions about moral status Companion Encyclopaedia of Hindu

Philosophy Subodh Kapoor, 2002 The Book Aims To Give A Compact Account Of Hindu Philosophical Concepts It Focuses On The Rational Principles And Concepts Rather Than Mysticism Usually Associated With Hindu Philosophy The Routledge Companion to Ethics, Politics and Organizations Alison Pullen, Carl Rhodes, 2015-06-05 The Routledge Companion to Ethics Politics and Organizations synthesizes and extends existing research on ethics in organizations by explicitly focusing on ethico politics where ethics informs political action It draws connections between ethics and politics in and around organizations and the workplace examines cutting edge areas and sets the scene for future research Through a wealth of international and multidisciplinary contributions this volume considers the broad range of ways in which ethics and politics can be conceived and understood The chapters look at various ethical traditions as well as the discursive deployment of ethical terminology in organizational settings and they also examine large scale political structures and processes and how they relate to different forms of politics which affect behaviour in organizations These many possibilities are united by a focus on how ethics can be used to inform and justify the exercise of power in organizations This collection will be a valuable reference source for students and researchers across the disciplines of organizational studies ethics and politics
