 Cleansing Rural Dublin Frank Cullen, 2001 The slum condition in nineteenth century Dublin is a well documented feature of the city s past As a result much is now known of the overcrowded tenements and their poverty stricken inhabitants However yet another community existed in Dublin at this time which also suffered the indignation of poverty and disease yet little is known of their plight These were Dublin s rural poor an agricultural community populating the townlands and villages of the wider county beyond the municipality This pamphlet while addressing the vital issue of public health in late nineteenth and early twentieth century Dublin instead chooses the territorial boundaries of the South Dublin Poor Law Union as its geographical unit of study Areas covered in detail include the parishes of Rathfarnham Clondalkin Tallaght and Crumlin While a lot of the place names are still familiar to today s reader many more have since disappeared As a study in local history it is concerned primarily with the lives of the local inhabitants of this area and more specifically with the impact on these lives of local government politics Its primary objective therefore is to explore from both an administrative and social perspective the trials and tribulations involved in implementing within this union the Public Health Ireland Act 1878
