Patriotism For Profit Georgias Urban Entrepreneurs And The Confederate War Effort:

Patriotism for Profit Mary A. DeCredico,1990 The Confederacy Paul D. Escott,2009-12-30 A sharp edged and revealing account of the transforming struggle for Southern independence and the inherent contradictions that undermined that effort Paul Escott's The Confederacy The Slaveholders Failed Venture offers a unique and multifaceted perspective on the United States most pivotal and devastating conflict examining the course of the Civil War from the perspective of the Southern elite class who were desperate to preserve the peculiar institution of its slave based economy yet dependent on ordinary Southerners slaves and women to sustain the fight for them Against the backdrop of the war's military drama and strategic dilemmas The Confederacy brings into sharp focus the racial class gender and political conflicts that helped destabilize the Confederacy from within Along the way Escott shows how time and time again the South's political and economic elite made errors that further weakened a South already facing a Union army with greater numbers and firepower

Georgia's Entrepreneurs and Confederate Mobilization, 1847-1873 Mary A. DeCredico,1986 Despite different topics and theories most studies of the Southern Confederacy view that nation as a monolith and treat the war experience as one common moment in Southern history Yet in dealing with commonalities local and state peculiarities or variations may be obscured If scholars acknowledge that the South was in 1860 a diverse region perhaps we should examine the extent to which that diversity was perpetuated and manifested during the war years By looking at the subtle and not so subtle changes which took place during the Confederacy's drive to mobilize for war historians may gain a clearer understanding of the way the Civil War years affected the Old South and the New One way to approach such an analysis is to examine a particular Southern state's response to the Civil War era This study attempts to do that it explores Georgia's response to war mobilization to see in what manner the mobilization influenced individuals in four of the state's urban centers Introduction
