Family communication patterns, self-efficacy, and adolescent online prosocial behavior: a moderated mediation model

Weizhen Zhan¹ & Zhenwu You¹ ^{ID}

As technology has been developing by leaps and bounds, concerns regarding adolescent online behavioral patterns have garnered significant attention. Nevertheless, current research exhibits limitations in both perspective and depth. Consequently, this study introduces a moderated mediation model to investigate whether the mediating effect of self-efficacy and the moderating effect of emotional regulation strategies are valid in the relationship between family communication patterns and adolescent online prosocial behavior. A questionnaire survey encompassing 1183 adolescents across 12 schools in three cities of mainland China was conducted. The findings reveal that conversation orientation contributes to the augmentation of adolescents' self-efficacy and online prosocial behavior, whereas conformity orientation follows a reversed trend. Furthermore, self-efficacy serves as a mediator in the relationship between conversation orientation and conformity orientation, influencing adolescent online prosocial behavior in both positive and negative manners. Additionally, this study underscores the significance of emotion regulation strategies: cognitive reappraisal not only reinforces the positive effects of conversation orientation, but also mitigates the adverse effects of conformity orientation, while expressive suppression demonstrates the inverse effect. This research yields a comprehensive and insightful understanding of adolescent online prosocial behavior, furnishing a valuable theoretical foundation for future research and practice in family education.

Encyclopedia of Primary Prevention and Health Promotion Thomas P. Gullotta, Martin Bloom, 2003-01-31 Foundational topics such as history ethics and principles of primary prevention as well as specific issues such as consultation political issues and financing The second section addresses such topics as abuse depression eating disorders HIV AIDS injuries and religion and spirituality often dividing such topics into separate entries addressing childhood adolescence and adulthood Pathways Through Adolescence Lisa J. Crockett, Ann C. Crouter, 2014-03-05 Adolescent researchers are increasingly aware that they must examine development both across time and across context To do so however requires new conceptualizations and methodological approaches to the study of development including attention to the pathways young people choose in adolescence and follow into adulthood This volume assembles work by key researchers in the field who are struggling to understand how developmental trajectories are constructed and maintained throughout the adolescent period A complete understanding of developmental pathways requires the recognition that adolescents social contexts family school neighborhood and or peer group are important influences on the choices they make at this developmental period Researchers have traditionally studied contexts in isolation rather than examining the interrelationships among contexts and their implications for adolescent development The present volume seeks to address this gap in the literature with attention given not only to the interrelationships among contexts for white middle class youth but also to these issues for minority adolescents in neighborhoods that vary in terms of access to resources It concludes with an examination of researcher community collaboration as a strategy to move communities toward a greater awareness of adolescent development and the problems facing youth in their community and as a means to promote potential avenues for policy change and intervention

Measurement Burst Designs to Improve Precision in Peer Research Ryan J. Persram, Bianca Panarello, Melisa Castellanos, Lisa Astrologo, William M. Bukowski, 2021-10-14 Measurement burst designs in which assessments of a set of constructs are made at two or more times in quick succession e.g. within days can be used as a novel method to improve the stability of basic measures typically used in longitudinal peer research In this Element we hypothesized that the stabilities for adolescent reported peer acceptance anxiety and self concept would be stronger when using the measurement burst approach versus the single time observation Participants included youth between 10 and 13 years old who completed a sociometric assessments of acceptance and measures of b social and test anxiety and c self concept across three times with two assessments made at each burst Findings broadly showed that the stabilities were significantly stronger with the measurement burst when compared to the single time assessment supporting our main hypothesis We discuss the utility of the measurement burst in a broader context and considerations for researchers
