Handbook on Policing in Central and Eastern Europe

Policing in Central and Eastern Europe has changed greatly since the fall of the Berlin Wall. Today Central and Eastern European countries are consistent members of the European Union, while others have been trying to harmonize with the EU and other national experiences for a more democratic policing and developments in accordance with Western European and international policing standards, especially in regard to issues of legitimacy and legitimacy.

Changes in the police training system (theory and education), internationalization of policing, the internationalization of crime and terrorism, new police organizational structures and agencies have impacted new cultures of policing (from exclusively state to plural policing). This study reflects numerous developments in the last ten decades to form the culture of these changes within Central and Eastern Europe, and their impact on police culture, as well as on society as a whole.

The development of police research has varied widely throughout Central and Eastern Europe; in some countries, it has developed significantly, while in others it is still in its infancy. This work will allow for a transfer of ideas and models of police organization and policing to other law enforcement bodies, with an aim to provide consistent and comparable data across all of the countries discussed. For the twenty countries covered, this systematic work provides their country-based information on police organization and social control, crime and disorder trends in the last ten years with an eye on policing, police training and police education, various changes to policing in the last ten years, police and the media, present trends in policing (public and private, institutional, plural policing), policing culture and social communities, recent research trends in research on policing, a synthesis of research on police and policing (researchers and the police), inclusion of police researchers in policy making and police practice and future developments in policing.

Policing In Central And Eastern Europe Organizational Managerial And Human Resource Aspects:

Policing in Central and Eastern Europe Milan Pagon,1998 Police Leadership in the Twenty-first Century Robert Adlam,Peter Villiers,2003 The leading police leadership text as used by the internationally renowned Bramshill UK now also known as Centrex to train police senior command officers worldwide A KEY WORK IN THE HISTORY AND DEVELOPMENT OF POLICE LEADERSHIP What are the special challenges of police leadership What can be learnt from leadership theory in general To what extent is police leadership in permanent crisis In Police Leadership in the Twenty first Century the editors have brought together a collection of authoritative and innovative contributions to show that leadership is less of a mystery than is often supposed much mainstream leadership theory can be adapted to police leadership the qualities required by police leaders can be developed by education and training The book looks at the extensive research on the topic and concludes by suggesting certain simple but fundamental rules or Golden Rules for police leaders Measuring Police

Integrity Across the World Sanja Kutnjak Ivković,M.R. Haberfeld,2015-06-10 This book brings together research on police integrity on regions worldwide The results for each country indicate whether police officers know the official rules how seriously they view police misconduct what they think the appropriate and expected discipline for misconduct should be and how willing they are to report it Police misconduct refers to everything from corruption and use excessive force to perjury falsification of evidence and failure to react Police Integrity and police misconduct are topics of great concern worldwide Police integrity is envisioned as the inclination to resist temptations to abuse the rights and privileges of police occupation Using their extensive experience studying police integrity in the United States the editors have created an applicable framework for measuring police integrity in other countries The results of their research are brought together in this timely volume including contributions from both established democracies and countries in transition which each present unique challenges for improving police integrity Each chapter follows the same format and contains a theoretical analysis of the relevant legal historical political social and economic conditions in the country followed by the analyses of empirical results and policy recommendations In the last chapter editors Kutnjak Ivkovi and Haberfeld take a comparative look across the countries by engaging in the in depth comparative analysis This work will be of interest to researchers and policy makers studying policing both in the United States and internationally presenting a theoretical framework that can be applied to other regions for further research Policing Corruption Rick Sarre,Dilip K. Das,Hans-Jörg Albrecht,2005-01-01 This volume presents insight from police practitioners and scholars on the nature and extent of governmental corruption in both more and less developed countries in all regions of the globe Editors Rick Sarre Dilip K Das and H J Albrecht and the notable contributors shed light on the conditions under which corruption flourishes and its far reaching consequences for individuals safety and freedom as well as each nation s security economy and even sovereignty Importantly this volume also presents innovative anti corruption strategies to be undertaken by governments international organizations and the media Devoting special attention to malpractice within police forces The Policing of Corruption is an important resource for all who work to undo corruption and its debilitating effects The Contours of Police Integrity Carl B. Klockars, Sanja Kutnjak Ivkovic, M. R. Haberfeld, 2004 Presenting a comprehensive overview of the potential for police misconduct worldwide leading criminal justice scholars have compiled survey and case data from 10 countries chronicling police integrity and misconduct Police Without Borders Cliff Roberson, Dilip K. Das, Jennie K. Singer, 2010-07-07 The Fifteenth Annual International Police Executive Symposium brought together 65 police executives government officials academics and researchers to discuss issues relating to all aspects of policing in a global community It focused on policing without borders the need for national and international cooperation among policing agencies and th World Police Encyclopedia: L-Z, index Dilip K. Das, Michael Palmiotto, 2006 The World Police Encyclopedia is the only existing reference work to systematically survey all the police systems in all the countries of the world the 189 UN member states plus Switzerland Each article describes police history police education and training structure of the force s in relation to the country s form of government and criminal justice system police responsibilities and duties most common crimes structure and role of the courts correction structure organization and function of the police force s use of firearms local and central interactions community relations and current issues and challenges This unique resource will be of interest to scholars of history foreign policy and politics as well as government agencies NGOs and others involved in working internationally to control international and domestic crime

Policing a Safe, Just and Tolerant Society Peter Villiers, Robert Adlam, 2004 This book examined ethical policing and fundamental values Exploring Police Integrity Sanja Kutnjak Ivković, M. R. Haberfeld, 2019-11-09 This work provides an innovative new look at police ethics including results from an updated version of the classic Police Integrity Questionnaire including new social and technological advances It aims to push the study of police research further expanding on and testing police integrity theory and methodology the relationship between community and integrity and the influence of multiculturalism and globalization on policing and community attitudes This work brings together experienced scholars who have used the police integrity theory and the accompanying methodology to measure police integrity in eleven countries and provide advance and sophisticated explorations of the topic Organized into three thematic sections it explores the testing methodology for international comparisons insights into police community relations and explores police subcultures This innovative book will be of interest to researchers in criminology criminal justice particularly with an interest in policing as well as related fields such as sociology public policy and comparative law Transforming Police in Central and Eastern Europe Marina Caparini, 2004 The issue of police reform in countries in transition from state socialism toward more democratic forms of governance has risen to practical prominence in recent years The collapse of the Soviet Union initiated fundamental changes in aspirations ideologies and governing practices among former members of the socialist camp Reforming policing systems which had served primarily to protect the party states from their opponents into systems which serve and protect civic society has come to be seen as an essential prerequisite and concomitant of the democratisation process in transitional countries. The chapters in this book describe what has happened to the policing systems in 14 countries in Central and eastern Europe: what reforms in ideology, organisation, policies and practices have been undertaken; what has changed in the way policing is done; and assessment of whether the policing system has moved closer toward democratic policing. In combining descriptions of reforms and assessments of whether reforms have moved policing systems toward more democratic forms, the book provides a comparative overview of what has been achieved since 1989 and what has been learned so far about how to reform policing systems along democratic lines. Such lessons offer insights for further reform in transitional countries and for Western democracies as well, and we hope will stimulate more theoretical discussions of the nature and dynamics of policing systems, state-society relations and the role of processes of democratisation of policing systems.
