Policy Reforms and Agriculture Development in Central Asia Sandjar Djalalov, Suresh Chandra Babu, 2006-07-02

Achieving sustainable agricultural development is at the forefront of the poverty reduction objective of the Central Asian republics Kazakhstan the Kyrgyz Republic Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan Since independence the countries of the Central Asian region have undergone a series of transition from centrally planned economies to a more market oriented system Wide ranging policy reforms have been implemented although in varying degrees in the five Central Asian countries Despite great efforts by the countries and the external advice and efforts of international agencies to help them to follow a dynamic growth path the progress in policy reforms has been frustratingly slow Generating momentum to reorient the approach and the sequencing of policy reform packages will require rethinking of the policy reform process This is particularly so in the food agriculture and natural resource sectors This further requires improved understanding among the policymakers donors and international agencies of the impact of policy alternatives so that policy reforms and the speed with which they have been implemented are consistent with the objectives and the social and political realities of individual countries in the region Involving the local policy research community in identifying critical issues and challenges setting priorities among them for food and agricultural and natural resource policy research and analysis and implementing joint research studies is the best way to generate knowledge on the impact of policy reforms and to increase ownership of policy design and implementation

Political Economy of Agricultural Development in India Akina

Venkateswarlu, 2021-11-17 The book covers Indian agricultural development from the colonial to the present period It examines how ruling class political ideology determined the agricultural policies from colonial rule It considers both quantitative and qualitative aspects in all periods colonial period to pre green revolution phase post green revolution phase early and late stages and post globalisation phase after 1991 India has achieved the ability to maintain food security through enough food grain buffer stocks to meet the enormous public distribution system But with India's entry into WTO in 1994 euphoria has been created among all types of farmers to adopt commercial crops like cotton cost intensive inputs Even food grain crops are grown through use of costly irrigation and chemicalised inputs But they lacked remunerative prices and so farmers began to commit suicides which crossed 3.5 lakh Government of India attributed this agrarian crisis to the technology fatigue and gave scope for second green revolution GR II GR I was achieved by public sector enterprise whereas the GR II as gene revolution is a result of private sector enterprise MNCs There is fear that opening up of the sector may lead to handover of the family farms to big agri multinationals GOI's proposal to double farmers income by 2022 is feasible only when the problems being faced by small marginal and tenant farmers are addressed in agricultural marketing credit and extension services Now it is time to go for suitable forms of cooperative collective agriculture as 85 percent of total cultivators are the small and marginal farmers This book is co published with Aakar Books New Delhi Taylor Francis does not

Many African countries are increasingly interested in learning from China's experiences in achieving effective agricultural development. The Chinese government and academic community are also keen to share experiences and lessons with Africa. China made agriculture one of its development assistance priorities at the Third FOCAC Summit in Beijing in 2006. This systematic comparative study of agricultural development in China and Africa provides a unique basis for African countries and international organizations seeking to understand agricultural development in China and for China to understand agricultural development on the African continent. The book highlights experiences and lessons from China and in particular analyzes why Africa has not yet been able to emulate China's agricultural development trajectory. It compares the similarities and discrepancies in conditions, processes and outcomes between China and Africa from the perspectives of investment, science and technology, policies and international development aid. Based on this, it explores which experiences and lessons from China's agriculture development can be shared with African countries in order to contribute to the sustainable improvement and transformation of African agriculture. It does not claim that China has all of the answers but while recognizing the diversity within both China and Africa, concludes that much can be gained from such a comparison.

Handbook of BRICS and Emerging Economies P. B. Anand,Shailaja Fennell,Flavio Comim,2021 Ever since Jim O'Neill at Goldman Sachs coined the term BRICS in 2001, there have been many different assessments of these major emerging economies, with some even proclaiming that the promise of the BRICS comprising Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa is over. However, the so-called arranged marriage still seems to be working well, with the club having become a formal international forum with summit declarations, ministerial meetings and numerous BRICS-wide fora. Is this euphoria misplaced? Is there a BRICS model of economic and human development? Are inequalities increasing and is this the denouncement of the economic successes? The Handbook of BRICS and Emerging Economies presents a comprehensive and multi-faceted analysis of the BRICS countries and other emerging economies, exploring their economic, social, environmental and governance dimensions and other challenges. It brings together multi-disciplinary perspectives from more than fifty authors to examine how education contributed to the emergence of BRICS, how BRICS are impacting African economies and how other emerging economies including Chile, Mexico, Turkey and others in Africa and Central Asia compare. It observes the impact of governance challenges both within individual countries and in the forum for co-operation amongst them, what issues related to gender and identity-based violence are prevalent and what the security implications are and the role of BRICS is in contributing to peace-keeping operations. East vs. West Hugh Dang,Brad Gilmour,Jennifer Ma,2019-12-19 This book explores international development, contrasting the Eastern and Western experiences. It shows that in the East, the Chinese experience has in recent years become shorthand for economic development and internationalization. China continues to build its society on an agricultural basis while simultaneously adapting to technological and institutional innovations The volume highlights that in global societies both capitalistic and communistic the nature of innovation has increasingly come to influence individual and common lives It traverses the architecture journey in India and bestows a clarity on the directions still to be taken Agricultural Policies in Emerging and Transition Economies 1999 OECD,1999-08-30 This publication is the seventh in a series of annual evaluations of agricultural policies markets and trade developments in non OECD countries success of the past half century and has contributed greatly to the world's unprecedented rate of economic growth. Over the past two decades however preferential trading arrangements have proliferated raising questions as to how compatible they are with the open multilateral system and what policies might be adopted to improve outcomes. The essays in this volume detail the emergence of PTAs and provide comprehensive and up to date analyses of the state of play of preferential arrangements in all regions of the world. The volume will provide a useful reference for all those wanting to understand existing preferential arrangements and their role in the international economy today.

US Economic integration is a complex and multifaceted giant with a myriad aspects ranging from regional and global concentration and dispersal of economic activity to social and political consequences for individuals and communities in developed and developing countries alike. This landmark three volume collection of chapters by leading authors drawn from many fields is a worthy and timely contribution to the analysis of a phenomenon with profound implications for the future world economy and its governance.

James Zhan, Director, Investment, Agriculture and Environment and Quantitative Studies of Integration Effects

A removal of barriers for the mobility of factors in certain integration arrangements among countries has an impact on the mobility of capital firms and individuals within the group. Various aspects of this factor mobility are analysed in eight detailed chapters. The second theme of the Handbook is devoted to agriculture and environment. This is of great global relevance as the Common Agricultural Policy of the EU has been a bone of contention in international relations over several decades. Finally seven quantitative studies of the effects of integration attempt to measure various potential benefits of regional integration efforts.

Contributors to this major reference work include eminent authors some of whom contributed to the creation of economic integration theory from the outset. The authors not only survey the literature but also present their own arguments and new ideas in order to offer a new perspective as well as discussing the issues they believe are essential in the field. Each of the insightful chapters is approachable not only to graduate students, scholars, researchers and policymakers but also to advanced undergraduate students.
