Prehistoric Europe The Making Of The Past:

Making Senses of the Past Jo Day, 2013-03-19 Since the nineteenth century museums have kept their artifacts in glass cases to better preserve them and drawings and photographs have become standard ways of presenting the past These practices have led to an archaeology dominated by visual description even though human interaction with the surrounding world involves the whole body and all of its senses In the past few years sensory archaeology has become more prominent and Making Senses of the Past is one of the first collected volumes on this subject This book presents cutting edge research on new theoretical issues The essays presented here take readers on a multisensory journey around the world and across time In ancient Peru a site provides sensory surprises as voices resound beneath the ground and hidden carvings slowly reveal their secrets In Canada and New Zealand the flicker of reflected light from a lake dances on the faces of painted rocks and may have influenced when and why the pigment was applied In Mesopotamia vessels for foodstuffs build a picture of a past cuisine that encompasses taste and social activity in the building of communities While perfume and flowers are examined in various cultures in the chamber tombs of ancient Roman Palestine we are reminded that not all smells are pleasant Making Senses of the Past explores alternative ways to perceive past societies and offers a new way of wiring archaeology that incorporates the senses

Making a Mark Andrew Meirion Jones, Marta Díaz-Guardamino, 2019-03-31 The visual imagery of Neolithic Britain and Ireland is spectacular While the imagery of passage tombs such as Knowth and Newgrange are well known the rich imagery on decorated portable artefacts is less well understood How does the visual imagery found on decorated portable artefacts compare with other Neolithic imagery such as passage tomb art and rock art How do decorated portable artefacts relate chronologically to other examples of Neolithic imagery Using cutting edge digital imaging techniques the Making a Mark project examined Neolithic decorated portable artefacts of chalk stone bone antler and wood from three key regions southern England and East Anglia the Irish Sea region Wales the Isle of Man and eastern Ireland and Northeast Scotland and Orkney Digital analysis revealed for the first time the prevalence of practices of erasure and reworking amongst a host of decorated portable artefacts changing our understanding of these enigmatic artefacts Rather than mark making being a peripheral activity we can now appreciate the central importance of mark making to the formation of Neolithic communities across Britain and Ireland The volume visually documents and discusses the contexts of the decorated portable artefacts from each region discusses the significance and chronology of practices of erasure and reworking and compares these practices with those found in other Neolithic contexts such as passage tomb art rock art and pottery decoration A contribution from Antonia Thomas also discusses the settlement art and mortuary art of Orkney while Ian Dawson and Louisa Minkin contribute with a discussion of the collaborative fine art practices established during the project

Prehistoric Europe Dennis Harding, 1978

Archaeology in the Making William L Rathje, Michael Shanks, Christopher Witmore, 2013-01-03 Archaeology in the Making is a collection of bold statements about archaeology its history how it works and why it is more important than ever This book comprises conversations about archaeology among some of its notable contemporary figures They delve deeply into the questions that have come to fascinate archaeologists over the last forty years or so those that concern major events in human history such as the origins of agriculture and the state and questions about the way archaeologists go about their work Many of the conversations highlight quite intensely held personal insight into what motivates us to pursue archaeology some may even be termed outrageous in the light they shed on the way archaeological institutions operate excavation teams professional associations university departments Archaeology in the Making is a unique document detailing the history of archaeology in second half of the 20th century to the present day through the words of some of its key proponents It will be invaluable for anybody who wants to understand the theory and practice of this ever developing discipline

The Lost Atlantis and Other Ethnographic Studies Daniel Sir Wilson, 2022-09-04 In The Lost Atlantis and Other Ethnographic Studies Daniel Sir Wilson adeptly navigates the fabled mysteries and intricate folklore surrounding the myth of Atlantis The book merges a deep literary narrative with the precision of historical ethnography exploring not only the legendary island's speculative history but also its enduring influence on culture and collective memory Wilson's prose is as much about the storytelling tradition as it is a testament to the human spirit's quest for understanding its origins and cultural ethos within mythical contexts The work fits neatly into a broader spectrum of anthropological literature contributing a nuanced analysis that reaches beyond the confines of conventional history to touch upon the philosophical implications of myth making and cultural identity Daniel Sir Wilson a renowned scholar in the humanities brings to the work a rich background in anthropology and comparative mythology His own academic journey marked by an enduring fascination with lost civilizations and the societal constructs of ancient cultures has culminated in this comprehensive exploration Wilson's scholarly insight teases out the threads connecting the narrative of Atlantis to the tapestry of human tradition raising thought provoking questions about the transmission of folklore and the role of myths in shaping historical consciousness For aficionados of mythological studies and those intrigued by the intersection of history and legend The Lost Atlantis and Other Ethnographic Studies is an essential read Wilson's meticulous research and engaging style make this book appealing not just to academic readers but to anyone who is captivated by the allure of ancient narratives It is a scholarly voyage that promises to enlighten and inspire beckoning the reader to delve deeper into the enigmatic past and its profound impact on the present and future of cultural narratives

Gender and Society on the Margins of Bronze Age Europe Mark Haughton,2024-11-11 This book explores and critiques the underlying assumption that a binary gender system and patriarchal norms were universal in Bronze Age Europe through a careful analysis of burial practice in Ireland and Scotland Gender and Society on the Margins of Bronze Age Europe makes a decisive and critical intervention in the debate around the nature of gender in the European Bronze Age Tacking between scales from the detail of local practice to a major analysis of recently excavated and analysed skeletons it argues that binary gender was far from universal in Bronze Age Europe and consequently questions its broader importance Unlike bronze technology shared widely between communities across Europe binary gender was an optional or negotiable part of Bronze Age life The book goes on to assess the huge implications of this evidence firstly for the history of gender as it indicates that there was no simple linear trajectory to binary gender and patriarchy and secondly by demonstrating that interconnectivity in Bronze Age Europe did not result in fundamental social and ideological agreement undermining the idea of a shared Bronze Age society At its core the book reimagines how gender archaeology can be conducted inspired by the sub discipline s radical origins and following a method rooted in the detail of local practice This book is essential reading for scholars and students of the European Bronze Age gender pre history and gender archaeology It connects with major themes in theoretical thinking across the humanities particularly relating to posthumanism assemblage theory embodiment and gender agrarian communities were established across much of Europe has been a key topic of archaeological research for over a century. However, the variety of evidence across Europe, the range of languages in which research is carried out, and the way research traditions in different countries have developed makes it very difficult for both students and specialists to gain an overview of continent-wide trends. The Oxford Handbook of Neolithic Europe provides the first comprehensive geographically extensive thematic overview of the European Neolithic from Iberia to Russia and from Norway to Malta, offering both a general introduction and a clear exploration of key issues and current debates surrounding evidence and interpretation. Chapters written by leading experts in the field examine topics such as the movement of plants, animals, ideas, and people, including recent trends in the application of genetics and isotope analyses, cultural change from the first appearance of farming to the first metal artefacts, domestic architecture, subsistence, material culture, monuments, and burial, and other treatments of the dead. In doing so, the volume also considers the history of research and sets out agendas and themes for future work in the field.

The Oxford Handbook of Neolithic Europe Chris Fowler,Jan Harding,Daniela Hofmann,2015-03-26 The Neolithic a period in which the first sedentary

Ridpath's Universal History John Clark Ridpath, 1897 The Making of a Roman Imperial Estate: Archaeology in the Vicus at Vagnari, Puglia Maureen Carroll, 2022-05-12

Excavation reports and analysis of material remains from Vagnari, southeast Italy, facilitate a detailed phasing of a rural settlement both in the late Republican period when it was established on land leased from the Roman state and later when it became the hub vicus of a vast agricultural estate owned by the emperor himself.

Library Catalog of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York. Supplement Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.). Library, 1962 Atlantic Europe in the First Millennium BC Thomas Hugh Moore, Xosê-Lois Armada, 2011

This volume of 33 papers on the Atlantic region of Western Europe in the first millennium BC reflects a diverse range of theoretical approaches, techniques, and methodologies across current research and is an opportunity to compare approaches to the first millennium BC from different national and theoretical perspectives.

Origins of Cattle Traction and the Making of Early Civilisations in North China Minghao Lin, 2022-09-13

This book is the first to apply systematic palaeopathological, archaeological, and historical investigations using bones as a focus, as well as other supporting lines of information, to Chinese osteological materials in order to answer the question about the origins of cattle labour. Structurally, this monograph flows from an introduction and review of previous scholarship and questions through employed theory and developed methods to analyses of archaeological materials and finally finishes by overall discussion and closing remarks. Topics covered in this monograph include the significance of the study of cattle traction in North China, understanding and research into cattle traction within history, art, and archaeology, and identifying traction in cattle bones. The author also uses the Pathological Index, refined PIR, and morphometrics to test the reliability of both methods in identifying traction in cattle bones. The author applies both methods to archaeological sites in the Yellow River region. This book is of interest to researchers studying the Late Bronze Age and zooarchaeology.
