Revenge of the Sarong Party Girl Jim Aitchison, 1995 Singapore, Singapura Nicholas Walton, 2019-02-01 Modern Singapore is a miracle Half a century ago it unwillingly became an independent nation after it was thrown out of the Malay Federation It was tiny poor almost devoid of resources and in a hostile neighborhood Now this unlikely country is at the top of almost every global national index from high wealth and low crime to superb education and much envied stability But have these achievements bred a dangerous sense of complacency among Singapore's people Nicholas Walton walked across the entire country in one day to grasp what it was that made Singapore tick and to understand the challenges that it now faces Singapore Singapura teases out the island's story from mercantilist Raffles and British colonial rule through the war years to independence and the building of the current miracle There are challenges ahead from public complacency and the constraints of authoritarian democracy to changing geographic realities and the difficulties of balancing migration in such a tiny state Singapore's second half century will be just as exacting as the one since independence as Walton warns talk of a Singapore model for our hyper globalized world must face these realities

Women and the Politics of Representation in Southeast Asia Adeline Koh, Yu-Mei Balasingamchow, 2015-06-03 Singapore and Malaysia are rapidly modernising globalising Asian states which although being distinct nations since 1965 share common elements in the on going struggle over the meaning of gender and sexuality in their societies This is the first book to discuss a range of discourses around gender in these two countries Women and the Politics of Representation in Southeast Asia Engendering Discourse in Singapore and Malaysia seeks to give an overview of how gender and representation come together in various configurations in the history and contemporary culture of both nations. It examines the discursive construction of gender, sexuality and representation in a variety of areas including the politics of everyday life, education, popular culture, literature, film, theatre and photography. Chapters examine a range of tropes such as the Orientalist Sarong Party Girl, the iconic Singapore Girl of Singapore Airlines and the figure of pious Muslim femininity celebrated by Malaysian NGO IMAN, all of which play important roles in delineating limitations for gender roles. The collection also draws attention to resistance to these gender boundaries in theatre, film, blogs and social media and pedagogy. Bringing together research from a variety of humanistic and social science fields such as film, material culture, semiotics, literature and pedagogy, the book is a comprehensive feminist survey that will be of use for students and scholars of Women's Studies and Asian Studies as well as on courses on gender, media and popular culture in Asia.

Social Cultural Engineering and the Singaporean State Khun Eng Kuah, 2018-02-28. This book, a collection of previously published articles, focuses on the role of the Singaporean State in social cultural engineering. It deals with the relationship between the Singaporean state and local agencies and how the latter negotiated with the state to establish an acceptable framework for social cultural engineering to proceed. The book also highlights the tensions and conflicts that occurred during this process. The various chapters examine how the Singaporean state used policies and regulatory control to conserve and maintain ethno-cultural and ethno-religious landscapes, develop a moral education system and how the treatment of women and its morality came into alignment with the values that the state espoused upon from the 1980s through the 1990s.

Re-orienting Western Feminisms Chilla Bulbeck, 1998. The agenda of contemporary western feminism focuses on equal participation in work and education, reproductive rights and sexual freedom. But what does feminism mean to the women of rural India who work someone else's fields, young Thai girls in the sex industry in Bangkok or Filipino maids working for wealthy women in Hong Kong? In this 1998 book, Chilla Bulbeck presents a bold challenge to the hegemony of white western feminism in this incisive and wide-ranging exploration of the lived experiences of women of colour. She examines debates on human rights, family relationships, sexuality and notions of the individual and community to show how their meanings and significance in different parts of the world contest the issues which preoccupy contemporary Anglophone feminists. She then turns the focus back on Anglo culture to illustrate how the theories and politics of western feminism are viewed by non-western women.

Universities and Globalization Ravinder Kaur Sidhu, 2006-08-15. Universities and Globalization: To Market, To Market examines the operations of power and knowledge in international education under conditions of globalization with a focus on the three biggest exporters of higher education: the United States, Australia and the United Kingdom. An interdisciplinary approach based on the core social sciences is used to explore the power relations that shape global education networks. The role of nation states in creating the conditions for education markets and the desire for a Westernized template of international education in the postcolonial world is discussed. Tween Girls' Dressing and Young Femininity in Singapore Bernice Loh,2022-04-19 This book provides an insight into girls cultural identities and young femininities through an understanding of tween girls dressing in Singapore The book adopts a girl centred approach to shed light on the narratives and experiences of young Singaporean girls that have often been overlooked It draws on the conversations with young Singaporean girls aged 8 to 12 to understand how they wanted to dress from where they gained their inspiration and what the social factors were that influenced their dressing Through understanding how girls want to fashion themselves the book shows that it is imprecise to discuss issues based on the assumption that there is one dominant correct way to grow up as a young person in Singapore This book unpacks how young Singaporean girls negotiate their cultural identities through clothing that do not simply conform to or reflect their roles as students It also shows how girlhood in Singapore is multi faceted and the values and meanings that tween girls attach to their dressing intersect at the personal social and cultural level The book offers new ways of approaching and looking at girls adult like dressing that move beyond the discourse of sexualisation In establishing a space for young Singaporean girls voices in an area that has been dominated by studies from the West this book also shows how the focus on tween girls in Asia can contribute to and advance the current state of girls studies Chronicle of Singapore, 1959-2009 Peter H.
