Barrow, Jr., 2021-08-10 In the decades following the Civil War as industrialization urbanization and economic expansion increasingly reshaped the landscape many Americans began seeking adventure and aesthetic gratification through avian pursuits By the turn of the century hundreds of thousands of middle and upper class devotees were rushing to join Audubon societies purchase field guides and keep records of the species they encountered in the wild Mark Barrow vividly reconstructs this story not only through the experiences of birdwatchers collectors conservationists and taxidermists but also through those of a relatively new breed of bird enthusiast the technically oriented ornithologist In exploring how ornithologists struggled to forge a discipline and profession amidst an explosion of popular interest in natural history A Passion for Birds provides the first book length history of American ornithology from the death of John James Audubon to the Second World War Barrow shows how efforts to form a scientific community distinct from popular birders met with only partial success The founding of the American Ornithologists Union in 1883 and the subsequent expansion of formal educational and employment opportunities in ornithology marked important milestones in this campaign Yet by the middle of the twentieth century when ornithology had finally achieved the status of a modern profession its practitioners remained dependent on the services of birdwatchers and other amateur enthusiasts Environmental issues also loom large in Barrow's account as he traces areas of both cooperation and conflict between ornithologists and wildlife conservationists Recounting a colorful story based on the interactions among a wide variety of bird lovers this book will interest historians of science environmental historians ornithologists birdwatchers and anyone curious about the historical roots of today's birding boom

Poetry After Cultural Studies Heidi R. Bean,Mike Chasar,2011-10-26 Poetry after Cultural Studies elucidates the potential of poetry scholarship when joined with cultural studies In eight searching essays covering an astonishing range of poetic practices geographical regions and methodological approaches this volume reflects on what poetry can accomplish in the broadest social and cultural contexts From Depression era Iowa to the postcolonial landscape of French speaking Martinique whether appearing in newspapers correspondences birders field guides cross stitches or television and the internet the poetry under consideration here is rarely a private lyrical endeavor For a great number of people writing reading publishing and using poetry over the past 150 years verse has not been a retreat from modern life but a way of engaging with and even changing it Whether the subject is post cards talk shows or verse from places as different as academia and MySpace as cultural production and as literary trickery the material examined in this volume demonstrates the central role of poetry as an active cultural presence By bringing together cultural studies poetics and formalist reading without antagonism Poetry after Cultural Studies looks toward a poetry criticism that does not merely do cultural studies but rather employs the resources of that discipline to examine an increasingly legible and audible record of poetic practice Exploring a wide range of poetry from the nineteenth century to the present Poetryafter Cultural Studies showcases the unexpectedly rich intersection of cultural studies theory and current poetry scholarship These essays show forcefully that cultural studies and poetics once thought incommensurable in fact are mutually informative and richer for the effort

Statebuilding from the Margins Carol Nackenoff, Julie Novkov, 2014-02-11 The period between the Civil War and the New Deal was particularly rich and formative for political development Beyond the sweeping changes and national reforms for which the era is known Statebuilding from the Margins examines often overlooked cases of political engagement that expanded the capacities and agendas of the developing American state With particular attention to gendered classed and racialized dimensions of civic action the chapters explore points in history where the boundaries between public and private spheres shifted including the legal formulation of black citizenship and monogamy in the postbellum years the racial politics of Georgia's adoption of prohibition the rise of public waste management the incorporation of domestic animal and wildlife management into the welfare state the creation of public juvenile courts and the involvement of women's groups in the creation of U.S. housing policy In many of these cases private citizens or organizations initiated political action by framing their concerns as problems in which the state should take direct interest to benefit and improve society Statebuilding from the Margins depicts a republic in progress accruing policy agendas and the institutional ability to carry them out in a nonlinear fashion often prompted and powered by the creative techniques of policy entrepreneurs and organizations that worked alongside and outside formal boundaries to get results These Progressive Era initiatives established models for the way states could create intervene in and regulate new
