Science and Creation John C. Polkinghorne, 2009-07-27 John C Polkinghorne internationally renowned priest scientist addresses fundamental questions about how scientific and theological worldviews relate to each other in this the second volume originally published in 1988 of his trilogy which also included Science and Providence and One World Dr Polkinghorne illustrates how a scientifically minded person approaches the task of theological inquiry postulating that there exists a close analogy between theory and experiment in science and belief and understanding in theology He offers a fresh perspective on such questions as Are we witnessing today a revival a natural theology the search for God through the exercise of reason and the study of nature How do the insights of modern physics into the interlacing of order and disorder relate to the Christian doctrine of Creation What is the relationship between mind and matter Polkinghorne states that the remarkable insights that science affords us into the intelligible workings of the world cry out for an explanation more profound than that which it itself can provide Religion if it is to take seriously its claim that the world is the creation of God must be humble enough to learn from science what that world is actually like The dialogue between them can only be mutually enriching

Science and Creation John C. Polkinghorne, 1989 ThirdWay, 1988-12 Monthly current affairs magazine from a Christian perspective with a focus on politics society economics and culture An Abrahamic Theology for Science Kenneth L. Vaux, 2007-01-01 Kenneth Vaux advocates an Abrahamic theology as a dynamic and ethical axis for science and technology and argues for its continuing salience for a vital and humane science He demonstrates a historical correlation between an Abrahamic theological tradition monotheism and venturism and the rise of science Vaux illustrates these developments in the work of six scientists Avicenna Boyle Schweitzer and Teilhard as well as contemporaries Amartya Sen and Leon Kass In the course of his discussion Vaux engages the contemporary dialogue between religion and science

Science and Christianity Tim Reddish, 2016-08-15 Too often conversations on Science and Christianity skate over much deeper assumptions or perceptions on the nature and interpretation of Scripture and the nature of science and of God. Instead the rhetoric goes quickly towards contentious issues like evolution, global warming or genetic engineering without establishing a framework of mutual understanding. Consequently conversations can take place between people who completely misunderstand each other because those foundations have not been clearly articulated. In this introductory book you are invited on a journey of discovery, one that makes us self-aware of our starting assumptions. It is only from a framework of critical engagement with both science and the Bible that contemporary issues and the needs of the church and society can be addressed. While the Creator is one who brings order, this book also reminds us that untamed chaos also has a God-ordained place within creation. The author explores the element of chance that seems to be at the heart of nature and shows how this can be incorporated constructively within Christian thinking. Nature is not mere mechanism and is more open than we might first think. This means that miracles are scientifically plausible and prayer can really change things.

Science and Theology James K. Dew Jr., 2011-01-17 Alister McGrath's work on the relationship between Science and Theology makes the most notable contribution to the subject written by an evangelical in recent history. McGrath holds earned doctorates in both science and theology and his three-volume set A Scientific Theology is the culmination of three decades of his work on the subject. In this book James K. Dew explores McGrath's contribution to the issue and highlights the benefits of adopting a critical realist perspective such as his own. In particular Dew argues that McGrath's approach helps establish a unified theory of knowledge and holds significant advantages for scientists and theologians alike. A Physicist

Examines Hope in the Resurrection John F. Wilson, 2016-12-22 John Polkinghorne, ordained member of the Royal Society, past President of Queen's College Cambridge, Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire, 2002 Templeton Prize winner, theoretical physicist and theologian, writes in breathless style to unfold core Christian doctrine in dialogue with science. His work deftly addresses how one would interpret and commend Christian faith in the contemporary world as he elucidates the key topics in the dialogue of religion with science. Polkinghorne's work addresses the hope Christians have present and future in the faithfulness of a loving God who stands alongside them today and for all eternity. Eschatological hope enables and empowers Christian life and emerges in God's resurrection of Jesus from the horrific crucifixion. Polkinghorne ably supports his thesis with a strong argument for the resurrection built on the kenotic acts of God. His thesis sees Christian eschatology as the advent of hope, the heart of faith. In Christian eschatology as argued by Polkinghorne and supported in the work of Jürgen Moltmann and Nicholas T. Wright, Christ's presence is not some far-off event but present reality. Transcendence and Spatiality of the Triune Creator Chan Ho Park, 2005 Since Augustine many philosophers and theologians have discussed the relation of God to time, whereas the relation between God and space has been rarely discussed. This book deals with the relationship of God to space. Divine transcendence is one important aspect of the Christian

God However God is also immanent in the world of space and time The author investigates the concept of divine spatiality and presents case studies of three modern theologians Torrance Pannenberg and Moltmann He also analyses divine spatiality by using Dyrness s three categories relationship agency and embodiment Science and Providence John C.

Polkinghorne,2009-07-27 Internationally renowned priest scientist Dr John C Polkinghorne examines whether a personal interacting God is a credible concept in today s scientific age Encouraging the belief that there is a compatibility between the insights of science and the insights of religion this book previously published in the United Kingdom focuses on the viewpoint that the world is one in which both human beings and God have the freedom to act A modern understanding of the physical world is applied to questions of prayer and providence such as Do miracles happen Can prayer change anything Why does evil exist Why does God allow suffering Why does God need us to ask him God s involvement in time is considered from both a temporal and an eternal perspective The roles of incarnation and sacrament are discussed in terms of whether or not they have a credible place in today s worldview And the Final Anthropic Principle FAP is presented with its attempt at a physical eschatology showing it to be an inadequate basis for hope Real hope can reside only with God Polkinghorne concludes A Modern Relation of Theology and Science Assisted by Emergence and Kenosis Bradford McCall,2018-02-28 How should we attempt to understand the relationship between theology and science in the twenty first century In this book I will attempt to answer this question by examining several previous attempts to classify this relationship I also develop my personal view of the relation thereafter discussing some Catholic contributions to this project and then revisit some of my previously published material highlighting the role of panentheism therein and noting an emergent implication from the literature the resultant possibilities for God an implication that creates space for a broadly relational perspective of the process of emergence These movements allow me to argue that kenosis and emergence can add to the discussion of understanding the theology and science relationship Herein I advocate a monistic process based view of the overlapping relationship between theology and science Faithful Science Alistair J. McKitterick,2022-03-17 This thesis studies the impact of teaching intelligent design to evangelical students Science is often presented as a reason why some find sharing their faith difficult in a secular culture teaching the science of intelligent design enables Christians to initiate conversations and overcome obstacles with those whose worldview is more Darwinian and materialist The professional doctoral research employs both action research and practical theology Lin Norton s pedagogical action research provides the structure for the qualitative research and thematic analysis showing that students find learning about intelligent design empowering for evangelism Richard Osmer s model of practical theology enables an interdisciplinary reflection on how intelligent design challenges Western secular culture Intelligent design is seen as the most integrative of all the different ways of relating science and theology Theologically teaching intelligent design is like teaching a modern parable to contemporary society and just like the Gospel parables some respond with faith and some reject it Evangelical students find learning about it both liberating and empowering in their ability to share their faith more confidently with others especially in schools and youth groups

Ford's The Modern Theologians Rachel Muers, Ashley Cocksworth, 2024-03-18 Captures the multiple voices of Christian theology in a diverse and interconnected world through in depth studies of representative figures and overviews of key movements Providing an unparalleled overview of the subject The Modern Theologians provides an indispensable guide to the diverse approaches and perspectives within Christian theology from the early twentieth century to the present Each chapter is written by a leading scholar and explores the development and trajectory of modern theology while presenting critical accounts of a broad range of relevant topics and representative thinkers The fourth edition of The Modern Theologians is fully updated to provide readers with a clear picture of the broad spectrum and core concerns of modern Christian theology worldwide It offers new perspectives on key twentieth century figures and movements from different geographical and ecclesial contexts There are expanded sections on theological dialogue with non Christian traditions and on Christian theology's engagement with the arts and sciences A new section explores theological responses to urgent global challenges such as nationalism racism and the environmental crisis Providing the next generation of theologians with the tools needed to take theological conversations forward The Modern Theologians Explores Christian theology's engagement with multiple ways of knowing across diverse approaches and traditions Combines introductions to key modern theologians and coverage of the major movements within contemporary theology Identifies common dynamics found across theologies to enable cross contextual comparisons Positions individual theologians in geographical regions trans local movements and ecclesial contexts Features new and revised chapters written by experts in particular movements topics and individuals Providing in depth critical evaluation and extensive references to further readings and research Ford's The Modern Theologians An Introduction to Christian Theology since 1918 Fourth Edition remains an ideal textbook for undergraduate and graduate courses in Theology and Religious Studies such as Introduction to Christian Theology Systematic Theology Modern Theology and Modern Theologians It is also an invaluable resource for researchers those involved in various forms of Christian ministry teachers of religious studies and general readers engaged in independent study Science, Religion, and the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence David Wilkinson, 2013-08-02 If the discovery of life elsewhere in the universe is just around the corner what would be the consequences for religion Would it represent another major conflict between science and religion even leading to the death of faith Some would suggest that the discovery of any suggestion of extraterrestrial life would have a greater impact than even the Copernican and Darwinian revolutions It is now over 50 years since the first modern scientific papers were published on the search for extraterrestrial intelligence SETI Yet the religious implications of this search and possible discovery have never been systematically addressed in the scientific or theological arena SETI is now entering its most important era of scientific development New observation techniques are leading to the discovery of extra solar planets daily and the Kepler mission has already collected over 1000 planetary candidates This deluge of data is transforming the scientific and popular view of the existence of extraterrestrial intelligence Earth like planets outside of our solar system can now be identified and searched for signs of life Now is a crucial time to assess the scientific and theological questions behind this search This book sets out the scientific arguments undergirding SETI with particular attention to the uncertainties in arguments and the strength of the data already assembled It assesses not only the discovery of planets but other areas such as the Fermi paradox the origin and evolution of intelligent life and current SETI strategies In all of this it reflects on how these questions are shaped by history and pop culture and their relationship with religion especially Christian theology It is argued that theologians need to take seriously SETI and to examine some central doctrines such as creation incarnation revelation and salvation in the light of the possibility of extraterrestrial life The Analogy of Love Gary Chartier,2015-11-09 This book offers an overview of Christian theology organized around the twin themes of divine and human love The book covers the traditional theological topics as well as basic questions of theological method It seeks to integrate a focus on love throughout While love is regularly canvassed as a dominant theme in Christian thought it has rarely been the focus of Christian theological construction or a constraint on theological formulation The book seeks to suggest chapter by chapter how a given topic relates to the broad theme of love The book is written in a way designed to make it accessible to university students and educated laypersons At the same time it takes positions on controverted scholarly issues and the methodological approach outlined at the beginning will be of interest to academic theologians Joining Children on the Spiritual Journey Catherine Stonehouse,1998-03 Analyzes the spiritual formation of young children and calls for renewed attention to scripture and the involvement of families in the process The Freethinker ,1987 Science and Creation ,1925 Understanding Scientific Theories of Origins Robert C. Bishop,Larry L. Funck,Raymond J. Lewis,Stephen O. Moshier,John H. Walton,2018-12-04 From five authors with over two decades of experience teaching origins together in the classroom this is the first textbook to offer a full fledged discussion of the scientific narrative of origins from the Big Bang through humankind from biblical and theological perspectives This work gives the reader a detailed picture of mainstream scientific theories of origins along with how they fit into the story of God s creative and redemptive action Faith, Science and Understanding J. C. Polkinghorne,2001-01-01 In this captivating book one of the most highly regarded scientist theologians of our time explores aspects of the interaction of science and theology John Polkinghorne defends the place of theology in the university it is part of the human search for truth and discusses the role of revelation in religion it is a record of experience and not the communication of unchallengeable propositions Throughout his thought provoking conversation Polkinghorne speaks with an honesty and openness that derives from his many years of experience in scientific research A central concern of Polkinghorne s collection of writings is to reconcile what science can say about the processes of the universe with theology s belief in a God active within creation The author examines two related concepts in depth The first is the divine self limitation involved in creation that leads to an important reappraisal of the traditional claim that God does not act as a cause among causes The other is the nature of time and God's involvement with it an issue that Polkinghorne shows can link metascience and theological understandings In the final section of the book the author reviews three centuries of the science and theology debate and assesses the work of major contemporary contributors to the discussion Wolfhart Pannenberg Thomas Torrance and Paul Davies He also considers why the science theology discussion has for several centuries been a particular preoccupation of the English
