Secret Life Of Paintings:

The Secret Life of Paintings Richard Foster, Pamela Tudor-Craig, 1987 Discusses the symbolism themes and historical background of paintings by artists such as Jan van Eyck Botticelli and Hieronymus Bosch Bruno Fonseca Alan Jenkins, Bruno Fonseca, Karen Wilkin, Isabel Fonseca, 2000 A celebration of a brilliant young artist's tragically short career this revealing look at Bruno Fonseca's life unorthodox training and startlingly diverse paintings drawings and sculpture not only casts light on his own impressive work but also offers unusually acute insight into the creative process The son of a sculptor and a painter mother Bruno Fonseca grew up in an art filled Manhattan household and started creating his own art in early childhood By the age of 18 he had started a rigorous course of study with Augusto Torres in Manhattan where he maintained a studio until his death at age 36 in 1994 Alan Jenkins's perceptive musings about the young artist's accomplishments capture Bruno's quirky charm and summon up the complexity of his relationships with family friends and the history of art Karen Wilkin investigates Fonseca's throwback approach to the study of art based on painstakingly learned ways of seeing and creating that relate more to the 19th century Academy than to today's conceptualizing career chasing art schools Isabel Fonseca's deeply touching memoir of her brother's childhood and last days brings to life his irresistible spirit and quicksilver intelligence

The works analyzed include water triumphs coronation pageants and funeral processions printed title pages of vernacular Bibles coins portrait miniatures and murals as well as panel paintings With her analysis of these categories of objects and using communication theory as a starting point String presents a new model of communication based on the concepts of magnificence topicality persuasiveness and propaganda Through this model she shows how medium location display and viewership were all considered in the transmission of royal messages Using the art of Henry VIII s reign as a case study String enriches our understanding of the fundamental contribution of imagery to communication and also provides a model for the study of the dissemination of ideas and the patron artist relationship in other royal courts and historical periods

The Question of Painting Jorella Andrews,2018-11-29 Since the latter half of the 20th century committed art has been associated with conceptual critical and activist practices Painting by contrast is all too often defined as an outmoded reactionary market led venture an ineffectual medium from the perspective of social and political engagement How can paintings change the world today The question of painting in particular fuelled the investigations of a major 20th century philosopher the French phenomenologist Maurice Merleau Ponty 1907 61 Merleau Ponty was at the forefront of attempts to place philosophy on a new footing by contravening the authority of Cartesian dualism and objectivist thought an authority that continues to limit present day intellectual imaginative and ethical possibilities A central aim of The Question of Painting is to provide a closely focused chronological account of his unfolding project and its relationship with art clarifying how painting as a paradigmatically embodied and situated mode of investigation helped him to access the fundamentally intercorporeal basis of reality as he saw it and articulate its lived implications With an exclusive and extended conversation about the contemporary virtues of painting with New York based artist Leah Durner for whom the work of Merleau Ponty is an important source of inspiration The Question of Painting brings today s much debated concerns about the criticality of painting into contact with the question of painting in philosophy
