Writing about Signs/Signifiers

What is semiotics?

Semiotics is the study of signs and symbols and their use of interpretation. Usually, semiotic analysis studies the roles of signs and the part they play on a social and cultural scale.

What is a sign/signifier?

- A sign is the smallest unit of meaning.
- In order to create or define a sign, you will need two pieces:
 - The signifier (any material or physical form of the sign - the object that exists)
 - The signified (a cultural or social concept that a signifier refers to - what it means)

The diagrams above are examples of the "Saussurean" models (named after Ferdinand de Saussure, who helped create the model).

- The tree represents the concept of what we think about when we hear the word "tree." (the signified)
- The sound of the word "tree" - or reading the word in print - brings up the mental image of a tree. (the signifier)
- The two halves of the signifier and signified represent the two sides of the same coin. The signifier is the material form of the sign, and the signified is the cultural or social concept that the signifier refers to.

In Saussure's model, the signifier and the signified are inseparable. They are two sides of the same coin. The signifier is the material form of the sign, and the signified is the cultural or social concept that the signifier refers to.

- Saussure's model is based on the idea of a sign as a unit of meaning.

Writing about signs/signifiers in a semiotic context

- The signifier is the material form of the sign, and the signified is the cultural or social concept that the signifier refers to.
- The signifier and the signified are inseparable. They are two sides of the same coin.
