Louisvilles Invisible Benefactor Brown:

Louisville's Invisible Benefactor Dorothy Park Clark, 1978 Philanthropist Horseman Businessman extraordinary Through Graham Brown's life contained every element of drama and certainly he worked as hard as any Horatio Alger hero in attaining his success his story is not a Rags to Riches saga From boyhood he was taught that money literally does grow on trees My father told me he once said that there were only two things worth owning gold and standing timber I couldn't get to the gold so I bought all the timber I could And long after his expansion of interests theatre real estate et al he declared The lumber business I love it That's where I make the jack He made so much jack over his 65 years business career that he died the richest man in the state in 1969 in spite of having given away about 100 000 000 to civic charitable and personal need causes in his lifetime At his death the whole community became the beneficiary of his will He left his estate estimated at nearly 100 000 000 to his Foundation emphasizing that substantial funds be used to promote the well being of Louisville and Kentucky residents in matters of business education health general welfare and advancement A rugged individualist if ever there was one a fighter shrewd trader strict economizer in his businesses he was also warmly human in countless unheralded generosity large and small truly a tight fist with an open hand The very contrasts of the character make a fascinating study the crises of his life and how he met them a startling commentary on the times in which he lived and on the man himself Dust jacket cover
