Rapid Population Change In China 1952-1982 Report Committee On Population And Demography:

Rapid Population Change in China, 1952-1982 National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population and Demography, 1984-01-01 The remarkable changes in fertility nuptiality and mortality that have occurred in the People s Republic of China from the early 1950s to 1982 are summarized in this report Data are based largely on the single year age distributions tabulated in the 1953 1964 and 1982 censuses of China and a major 1982 fertility survey Rapid Population Change in China, 1952-1982 Ansley J. Coale, 1980 Rapid Population Change in China, 1952-1982 Committee on Population and Demography, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, National Research Council, 1984-01-15 The remarkable changes in fertility nuptiality and mortality that have occurred in the People s Republic of China from the early 1950s to 1982 are summarized in this report Data are based largely on the single year age distributions tabulated in the 1953 1964 and 1982 censuses of China and a major 1982 fertility survey Political Developments and Human Rights in the People's Republic of China United States. Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs. Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations, 1986 Security and Development Assistance United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Foreign Relations, 1988 The Population of Modern China Dudley L. Poston Jr., David Yaukey, 2013-11-11 Student interested in world populations and demography inevitably need to know China As the most populous country of the world China occupies a unique position in the world population system How its population is shaped by the intricate interplays among factors such as its political ideology and institutions economic reality government policies sociocultural traditions and ethnic divergence represents at once a fascinating and challenging arena for investigation and analysis Yet for much of the 20th century while population studies have developed into a mature science precise information and sophisticated analysis about the Chinese population had largely remained either lacking or inaccessible first because of the absence of systematic databases due to almost uninterrupted strife and wars and later because the society was closed to the outside observers for about three decades since 1949 Since the end of the Cultural Revolution things have dramatically changed China has embarked on an ambitious reform program where modernization became the utmost goal of societal mobilization China could no longer afford to rely on imprecise census or survey information for population related studies and policy planning nor to remaining closed to the outside world Both the gathering of more precise information and access to such information have dramatically increased in the 1980s Systematic observations analyses and reporting about the Chinese population have surfaced in the population literature around the globe World Development Report 2012 The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development / The World Bank The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development / The World Bank, 2011-09-28 The lives of women around the world have improved dramatically at a pace and scope difficult to imagine even 25 years ago

Women have made unprecedented gains in rights education health and access to jobs and livelihoods More countries than ever guarantee equal rights in property marriage and other domains Gender gaps in primary schooling have closed in many countries while in a third of all countries girls now outnumber boys in secondary school And more young women than men attend universities in 60 countries Women are using their education to participate more in the labor force they now make up for 40 percent of the global labor force and 43 percent of its farmers Moreover women now live longer than men in every region of the world Despite the progress gaps remain in many areas Women are more likely to die relative to males in many low and middle income countries than their counterparts in rich countries especially in childhood and during their reproductive years Primary and secondary school enrollments for girls remain much lower than for boys in many Sub Saharan African countries and some parts of South Asia as well as among disadvantaged populations Women are more likely than men to work as unpaid family laborers or in the informal sector to farm smaller plots and grow less profitable crops operate in smaller firms and less profitable sectors and generally earn less Women especially poor women have less say over decisions and less control over household resources And in most countries fewer women participate in formal politics than men and are underrepresented in the upper echelons The World Development Report 2012 Gender Equality and Development argues that closing these persistent gender gaps matters It matters because gender equality is a core development objective in its own right But it is also smart economics Greater gender equality can enhance productivity improve development outcomes for the next generation and make institutions more representative Building on a growing body of knowledge on the economics of gender equality and development the Report identifies the areas where gender gaps are most significant both intrinsically and in terms of their potential development payoff and where growth alone cannot solve the issues It then sets forth four priorities for public action Reducing excess female mortality and closing education gaps where they remain Improving access to economic opportunities for women Increasing women s voice and agency in the household and in society Limiting the reproduction of gender inequality across generations World Development Report 2012 World Bank,2011-09-01 This year s World Development Report looks at facts and trends regarding the various dimensions of gender equality in the context of the development process Farewell to the God of Plague Miriam Gross,2016-01-19 Farewell to the God of Plague reassesses the celebrated Maoist health care model through the lens of Mao s famous campaign against snail fever Using newly available archives Miriam Gross documents how economic political and cultural realities led to grassroots resistance Nonetheless the campaign triumphed but not because of its touted mass prevention campaign Instead success came from its unacknowledged treatment arm carried out jointly by banished urban doctors and rural educated youth More broadly the author reconsiders the relationship between science and political control during the ostensibly antiscientific Maoist era discovering the important role of grassroots science in regime legitimation and Party control in rural areas Bibliography of Reports by the National Academy of Sciences, 1945-1985 ,1986
