Sandhill and Whooping Cranes Paul A. Johnsgard, 2011-01-01 Driving west from Lincoln to Grand Island Nebraska Paul A Johnsgard remarks is like driving backward in time I suspect he says that the migrating cranes of a preice age period some ten million years ago would fully understand every nuance of the crane conversation going on today along the Platte

The Cry of the Sandhill Crane Steve Grooms, 1992 Discusses sandhill cranes especially those along the Platte River in Nebraska Contains an appendix with information on other cranes of the world

Sandhill Crane Study in the Central Flyway Raymond J. Buller, 1967 Fall migrating sandhill cranes arrived at congregation sites in southern Canada and in the States of the Central Flyway between late July and early October Sandhills peaked at about 100 000 birds at way stations during the fall of 1964 Footprint measurements indicated that the lesser sandhill was by far the most numerous subspecies at way stations in Montana North Dakota South Dakota and Colorado These measurements also indicated that flocks stopping over in Wyoming Kansas and Oklahoma contained a significant number of Canadian sandhill or greater sandhill or both A selective collecting program indicated that the footprint measurement technique overemphasized the incidence of the greater sandhill at way stations in North Dakota and South Dakota Whooping cranes and sandhills were occassionally observed together during the early part of the fall migration At times fall migrating sandhills fed on standing and harvested grain crops in Canada and hte States of the Central Flyway but seldom were depredations considered serious

In Search of a Sandhill Crane Keith Robertson, 1973 Dismayed at the prospect of a summer in the Michigan wilderness a young boy becomes increasingly fascinated by nature as he roams the woods in hopes of photographing sandhill cranes

On Ancient Wings Michael Forsberg, 2004 Rising from sandbars on the Platte River with clarion calls the sandhill crane Grus canadensis feels the urgency of spring migration Elegant noble and spiritual

the sandhill crane is one of the most ancient of all birds More than a half million strong flying in squadrons these majestic creatures point northward to their Arctic and sub Arctic breeding ranges Theirs is an epic story of endurance through the ages With 153 stunning color photographs On Ancient Wings presents sandhill cranes in their wild but increasingly compromised habitats today Over the course of five years Michael Forsberg documented the tall gray birds in habitats ranging from the Alaskan tundra to the arid High Plains from Cuban nature preserves to suburban backyards With an eye for beauty and an uncommon persistence the author documents the cranes challenges to adapt and survive in a rapidly changing natural world Forsberg argues that humankind for its own sake should secure the cranes place in the future On Ancient Wings intertwines the lives of cranes people and their common places to tell an ancient story at a time when sandhill cranes and their wetland and grassland habitats face daunting prospects Sandhill Crane Display Dictionary Christy Yuncker-Happ, George Happ, Waterford Press Staff, 2011-09-26 Renowned for their elaborate mating displays sandhill cranes also use body language to announce intent establish dominance show arousal preserve the nest territory and bond male and female pairs Written by George Happ and photographed by Christy Yuncker Happ this guide is the culmination of years of study with photos of the displays shot in Alaska One of a kind this beautifully photographed 12 panel laminated folding guide provides a useful translator for the meanings of their complicated displays www.waterfordpress.com Status and Harvests of Sandhill Cranes: Mid-Continent and Rocky Mountain Populations David E. Sharp, Kammie L. Kruse, James A. Dubovsky, U.S. Department of Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service, 2012-08-17 The MCP Mid Continent Population of sandhill cranes the largest of all North American crane populations is comprised of about two thirds lesser Grus canadensis canadensis one fourth Canadian G c rowani and the remainder greater G c tabida sandhill cranes Collectively this population was believed to number over one half million during the decade of the 1990 s Tacha et al 1994 The breeding range extends from northwestern Minnesota northeastward into western Quebec then northwest through Arctic Canada Alaska and into eastern Siberia The MCP wintering range includes western Oklahoma New Mexico southeastern Arizona Texas and Mexico south to near Mexico City Extensive aerial spring surveys corrected for observer visibility bias on major concentration areas provide annual indices of abundance used to depict population trends These surveys are conducted in late March when birds that wintered in Mexico Arizona New Mexico and Texas usually have migrated northward to spring staging areas but before spring break up conditions allow cranes to move into Canada Benning and Johnson 1987 The MCP Cooperative Flyway Management Plan establishes regulatory thresholds for changing harvest regulations which are based on an objective of maintaining sandhill crane abundances at 1982 2005 levels Hunters are required to obtain either a Federal crane hunting permit or register under the Harvest Information Program HIP to hunt MCP cranes in the U S The permits or HIP registration records provide the sampling frame to conduct annual harvest surveys In Canada the harvest survey is based on the sales of Federal Migratory Bird Hunting Permits which are required for all crane hunters The RMP Rocky Mountain

Population is comprised exclusively of greater sandhill cranes that breed in isolated wellwatered river valleys marshes and meadows of the U S portions of the Central and Pacific Flyways Drewien and Bizeau 1974 The largest recorded nesting concentrations are located in western Montana and Wyoming eastern Idaho northern Utah and northwestern Colorado The RMP migrates through the San Luis Valley SLV Colorado and winters primarily in the Rio Grande Valley New Mexico with smaller numbers that winter in the southwestern part of that state in southeastern Arizona and at several 14 locations in the Northern Highlands of Mexico During 1984 96 the RMP was monitored at a spring stopover site in the SLV However cranes from the MCP also began to use this area which confounded estimates of RMP abundance In 1996 a fall pre migration September survey replaced the spring count as the primary tool for monitoring population change The RMP Cooperative Flyway Management plan established population objectives a survey to monitor recruitment and harvest levels that are designed to maintain a stable abundance between 17 000 21 000 birds Pacific and Central Flyway Councils 1997 The plan contains a formula for calculating allowable annual harvests to achieve population objectives All sandhill crane hunters in the range of the RMP must obtain a state permit to hunt cranes which provides the sampling frame for independent state harvest estimates and allows for assignment of harvest quotas by state In many areas harvest estimates are supplemented by mandatory check station reporting
