Indonesian's Muhammadiyah Universities (1958-2005) Dewi Candraningrum,2008 Islamic Law in the Indian Ocean World Mahmood Kooria,Sanne Ravensbergen,2021-09-23 This book explores the ways in which Muslim communities across the Indian Ocean world produced and shaped Islamic law and its texts ideas and practices in their local regional imperial national and transregional contexts With a focus on the production and transmission of Islamic law in the Indian Ocean the chapters in this book draw from and add to recent discourses on the legal histories and anthropologies of the Indian Ocean rim as well as to the conversations on global Islamic circulations By doing so this book argues for the importance of Islamic legal thoughts and practices of the so called peripheries to the core and kernel of Islamic traditions and the urgency of addressing their long existing role in the making of the historical and human experience of the religion Islamic law was and is not merely brought to but also produced in the Indian Ocean world through constant and critical engagements The book takes a long term and transregional perspective for a better understanding of the ways in which the oceanic Muslims have historically developed their religious juridical and intellectual traditions and continue to shape their lives within the frameworks of their religion Transregional and transdisciplinary in its approach this book will be of interest to scholars of Islamic Studies Indian Ocean Studies Legal History and Legal Anthropology Area Studies of South and Southeast Asia and East Africa India - Mother of us all Chamal Lal,2018-05-01 Leaves of the Same Tree Leonard Y.

Andaya,2008-01-22 Despite the existence of about a thousand ethnolinguistic groups in Southeast Asia very few historians of the region have engaged the complex issue of ethnicity Leaves of the Same Tree takes on this concept and illustrates how historians can use it both as an analytical tool and as a subject of analysis to add further depth to our understanding of Southeast Asian pasts Following a synthesis of some of the major issues in the complex world of ethnic theory the author identifies two general principles of particular value for this study the ideas that ethnic identity is an ongoing process and that the boundaries of a group undergo continual if at times imperceptible change based on perceived advantage The Straits of Melaka for much of the past two millennia offers an ideal testing ground to better understand the process of ethnic formation The straits forms the primary waterway linking the major civilizations to the east and west of Southeast Asia and the flow of international trade through it was the lifeblood of the region Privileging ethnicity as an analytical tool the author examines the ethnic groups along the straits to document the manner in which they responded to the vicissitudes of the international marketplace Earliest and most important were the Malayu Malays whose dominance in turn contributed to the ethnicization of other groups in the straits By deliberately politicizing differences within their own ethnic community the Malayu encouraged the emergence of new ethnic categories such as the Minangkabau the Acehnese and to a lesser extent the Batak The Orang Laut and the Orang Asli on the other hand retained their distinctive cultural markers because a separate yet complementary identity proved to be economically and socially advantageous for them Ethnic communities are shown as fluid and changing exhibiting a porosity and flexibility that suited the mandala communities of Southeast Asia Leaves of the Same Tree demonstrates how problematizing ethnicity can offer a more nuanced view of ethnic relations in a region that boasts one of the greatest diversities of language and culture in the world Creative and challenging this book uncovers many new questions that should revitalize and reorient the historiography of Southeast Asia

A History of India Hermann Kulke, Dietmar Rothermund, 1998 Presenting a grand sweep of Indian history this work covers antiquity to the later half of the 20th century The authors examine the major political social and cultural forces which have shaped the history of the Indian subcontinent This third edition of the text has been updated to include current research as well as a revised preface index and dateline
