RMS Titanic's short life and tragic sinking that this reviewer has read fascinating Choice Reviews The sinking of the Titanic on her maiden voyage in April 1912 was one of the defining moments of the twentieth century Books and films about the disaster that befell the iconic liner are commonplace and it seems almost inconceivable that anything fresh can emerge But there is one angle that has not been covered and Titanic examines the events of April 1912 from that completely new perspective John Lang brings the standards of a twenty first century accident investigation to bear on the events of April 1912 using his expertise and his investigator's instinct to determine exactly what happened a century ago and what important lessons still need to be learned A fascinating account this book looks at the facts from a new perspective and uncovers some unexpected findings A worthwhile read Royal Naval Sailing Association Provides genuine insight into what almost certainly happened before during and after the ice sliced through the five compartments on the liner's starboard bow Viewpoint Lang with his experience of marine accident investigation has found an angle in examining events of April 1912 from the perspective of an MAIB officer His analysis is supported by detailed background material enabling the reader to understand the events of the collision and sinking more fully as he brings the standards of a 21st century investigation to bear on the events in determining exactly what happened and why Flash Ships for All Nations Ian Johnston, 2015-10-30 A worthy tribute to the John Brown company and to British shipbuilding a joy to enthusiasts of the great ships of the past Australian Naval Institute The Clydebank shipyard built some of the most famous vessels in maritime history great transatlantic liners like Lusitania Queen Mary and QE2 and iconic warships like the battlecruiser Hood and Britain's last battleship HMS Vanguard Starting life as J G Thomson in 1847 the business acquired its more famous persona when taken over in 1899 by the Sheffield based steelmaker John Brown Co which enhanced the yard's existing reputation for turning out first class products both naval and mercantile This book charts the fortunes of the company in terms of its business development its management and personnel as well as the great variety of ships it built during the century and a quarter of its existence It also tells a wider story of the rise to world domination of the British shipbuilding industry and its eventual decline and collapse in the post war decades as reflected in the experience of John Brown Written by an acknowledged authority on Clydeside shipbuilding the book was originally published in a limited edition in 2000 but this reprint is entirely new and revised although it retains all the original photographs from the yard's own unrivaled collection Essential to anyone's maritime collection Sea Breezes The profusely illustrated beautifully produced and very detailed story of John Brown Company Army Rumour Service Great Britain and Her World, 1750-1914 William Otto Henderson, 1975 Captain of the Carpathia Eric L. Clements, 2016-02-11 Responding to Titanic's distress calls in the early hours of 15 April 1912 Captain Arthur Rostron raced the Cunard liner Carpathia to the scene of the sinking rescued the seven hundred survivors of the world's most famous shipwreck and then carried them to safety at New York After twenty five years at sea the competence and compassion Rostron displayed during the rescue made him a hero on two continents and presaged his subsequent achievements During the First World War he participated in the invasion of Gallipoli and commanded Cunard's Mauretania as a hospital ship in the Mediterranean and a troop transport in the Atlantic As her longest serving master he commanded that legendary vessel in transatlantic passenger service through most of the 1920s Rostron retired in 1931 as the most esteemed master mariner of his era celebrated for the Titanic rescue decorated for his war service and knighted for his contributions to British seafaring This account uses newspaper reports company records government documents contemporary publications and memoirs to recount Rostron's seafaring life from his first voyage as an apprentice rounding Cape Horn in sail to his retirement forty four years later as commodore of the Cunard Line Set within the context of his times and featuring particulars of the ships in which he served and commanded this is the first comprehensive biography of Arthur Rostron before during and after his year as captain of the Carpathia

Considerable attention has recently been focused on the importance of social networks and business culture in reducing transaction costs both in the pre industrial period and during the nineteenth century This book brings together twelve original contributions by scholars in the United Kingdom continental Europe and North America which represent important and innovative research on this topic They cover two broad themes First the role of business culture in determining commercial success in particular the importance of familial religious ethnic and associational connections in the working lives of merchants and the impact of business practices on family life Second the wider institutional and political framework for business operations in particular the relationship between the political economy of trade and the cultural world of merchants in an era of transition from personal to corporate structures These key themes are developed in three separate sections each with four contributions They focus in turn on the role of culture in building and preserving businesses the interplay between institutions networks and power in determining commercial success or failure and the significance of faith and the family in influencing business strategies and the direction of merchant enterprise The wider historiographical context of the individual contributions is discussed in an extended introductory chapter which sets out the overall agenda of the book and provides a broader comparative framework for analysing the specific issues covered in each of the three sections Taken together the collection offers an important addition to the available literature in this field and will attract a
